AUTOMOBILE LEAPS FIFTEEN FEET

WILLIE HAUPT'S BENZ BREAKS BRANCH FROM OAK TREE AT SAVANNAH.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 13.—Some of the inside facts about yesterday's grand prize race came to light today, among them being the marvelous leap which Willie Haupt's Benz took when it jumped the track at the dangerous Montgomery cross roads turn. Fifteen feet above the ground a small branch is broken off the live oak, which Haupt side-wiped. Eye witnesses say the big car turned a complete somersault, its rear end severing the branch Haupt and his mechanic were thrown from the car in mid-air into a thicket of bushes, which probably saved them from serious injury. According to officials of the course, the accidents of Haupt and Wagner were due to disregarding warnings. Haupt was running faster than his advisers had estimated he could travel and stay on the course, while Wagner refused to see a flag which the officials at the grandstand gave him to stop. His car had dropped a bolt in front of the pits. Wagner's car, with part of its gear missing, continued around the turn until it got beyond control and smashed against a cement culvert.

Improvements.

The improvement in American driving as compared with the grand prize race of two years ago was much commented on by the officials. At the finish four Americans and two foreign cars remained on the track. The Americans never for a moment faltered from the plan thought out by them before the race. The foreigners, though having the great advantage of faster cars, seemed to forget every element of victory except speed and daring. There were frequent comments that the American team, if equipped throughout with machines as swift as those of the foreigners, would have driven them to a better finish.

IN THE THEATERS

That "Madame X" is making good in Montana, and especially in Butte, is evident from the following story published in a Butte paper yesterday:

"One of the strongest emotional dramas of mother love ever staged, most certainly be 'Madame X,' which Henry W. Savage offered for the approval of Butte theater-goers last night at the Broadway, with a most capable company of players. 'Madame X' is a play you can ill afford to miss. It is one of the most virile dramas ever written. It is small wonder that it has electrified both Europe and America. Equally as strong as the play is the company which Mr. Savage has sent west with the wonderful piece. 'The play, being an adaptation from a novel by a French writer, is naturally typically French. It is apparent nothing has been lost in Americanizing it. 'The story deals with a woman cast out of her home for infidelity, driven forever from the 4-year-old son by a stern, relentless and unforgiving husband, who repents of his harshness when his erring wife has gone beyond recall and becomes so steeped in sin that her only aim is to lose her identity. 'As she goes down the toboggan she seeks forgetfulness in the flowing bowl, until, a score of years after she has been cast out of her home, she is broken in health, addicted to drugs and a truly pitiful spectacle. 'To hide her identity from her son, who has become a successful lawyer, she kills her lover, who has threatened to expose her in an effort to extort money from her husband. 'The action of the piece moves swiftly and the drama reaches its climax in the courtroom scene, when her son ignorant of the identity of his client, defends his mother, the mysterious Madame X. In trying to diminish the culpability of his client, the son builds up a defense from his imagination, in which he denounces the man who, out of pride, had driven the woman to the lowest depths and finally to the taking of a human life, not knowing that he has found the motive for the crime and the man he is denouncing is his father, who is a spectator at the trial. His wonderful plea secures an acquittal, but not before the boy's father has discovered that the prisoner is the wife he refused to forgive. He tells his son of this and mother and son are finally united. The author, in finding a way out of the difficulty, brought the drama to a logical conclusion in the death of Madame X. 'It is not difficult to see why the 'Savage' drama has become one of the most talked-of among this season's successes. The play is kept in its delicious French atmosphere. It is easily the most elaborately produced piece seen in Butte this season. The scenic effects are marvelous and in themselves win applause. 'Miss Dunlap's portrayal of Jacqueline, the erring wife, is superb. It is a Savage custom to send a comparatively unknown out in a strong production in which he or she achieves fame, and 'Madame X' and Miss Dunlap are no exceptions to the rule. 'Howard Gould, who theater-goers in the northwest and on the Pacific coast remember best as a stock actor, leaves nothing to be wished for in his interpretation of Floriot, the stern and unforgiving husband, who perceives the error of his friendliness too late. 'Through a prologue and three acts

Robert Oler, in the part of Raymond Floriot, the son, has no opportunity to show his histrionic ability, but in the concluding scene he suddenly bursts forth in a splendid bit of acting, which in itself makes the success of the piece. 'The support was wholly adequate. 'Madame X' will be seen in Missoula Tuesday night. 'After a two years' run in Chicago, New York and Boston, 'A Broken Idol,' one of the latest of musical comedies, will be seen at the Harbors on Thursday, November 17. The piece has been termed the 'play of surprises,' inasmuch as the unexpected happens every few minutes. Hal Stephens wrote the book and Williams and Van Alstyne the music and lyrics. Among the spectacular effects introduced are a huge dragon that turns into eight dancing girls, beautiful rose vases that become animated show girls and a huge, fiery silk balloon that sails out over the audience. A company of 50 is carried. 'The Grand. Motion pictures that are really motion pictures will be exhibited at the Grand theater this evening. The six films that have been secured to make up the program are worth more than passing attention. The pictures are all exceptionally well acted and staged and should make a program that is well worth witnessing. The pictures that will be shown are: 'He Did Not Die,' 'Shepherd's Forgiveness,' 'Mystery of the Mountains,' 'Runaway Horse,' 'In the Mesh of the Net,' 'Across the Border.' FISH IS ALIVE. El Paso, Texas, Nov. 13.—Letters received here from Chihuahua, Mex., report that W. W. Fish, a young American, taken from a train about a week ago, suffering from smallpox, is past danger, and will start for his home in Oakland, Cal., as soon as quarantine is lifted. It was reported that Fish had died of the disease. HIS REASON. Washington, Nov. 13.—Peter Lillie-John, who wrote a threatening letter to John D. Rockefeller, demanding $50,000, was today held in $1,000 bail for the grand jury. The prisoner said he had no home and wanted to be arrested to obtain shelter.
