

My Home For Sale

On account of ill health, I am compelled to live on the sea level—at least, for a while—and am offering my home, on Brooks street, for sale. It comprises three lots, a 90x130-foot corner, highly improved with fruit and shade trees, fine shrubbery, roses, flower bushes, flowers and lawn. A good 6-room modern house, piped with gas and equipped with electricity, and in first-class condition. With the house will go a hard-coal heater that cost $110 (as good as new), a good Majestic range, a carpet in the large living room, linoleum in the kitchen and bathroom, 100 feet of rubber hose, two lawn mowers and a year's supply of coal and wood. This property cost me, four years ago, $3,650. After I purchased it, I overhauled the entire house with carpenters, repainted and papered it throughout, laid cement walks, planted trees and shrubbery, built a garage, all at a cost of $1,600, making the property stand me $5,250. I am putting at least $500 worth of personal property in with the house, making it $5,750 at the price of three years ago, and the increase in value in this time has, as you know, been remarkable.

I will offer this property at $5,250, which is at least $1,000 less than it is worth, but I want to sell and am putting on a selling price; $2,500 will handle it; mortgage for balance.

Taxes all paid, and insurance for two and three years, all paid, will be transferred to buyer.

PHILHARMONIC TO MEET AT ROOSEVELT TONIGHT

The announcement made in The Missoulian yesterday to the effect that the Philharmonic society will meet over town tonight instead of at the usual place is a mistake. "We have not decided to make this change yet," said Business Manager Pettit yesterday, "although we have been talking about such a move. Tonight we will meet at the Roosevelt school as usual. There should be a good attendance as this matter of a place for rehearsals and our second concert, which is to be held in February, are both to come up for discussion."

RING WORM AND DANDRUFF.

They are Each Caused by a Parasitic Germ.

Ring worm and dandruff are somewhat similar in their origin; each is caused by a parasite. The germ that causes dandruff dies to the root of the hair and saps the vitality, causing falling hair, and, finally, baldness. With-out dandruff there would never be baldness, and to cure dandruff it is necessary to kill the germ. There has been no hair preparation that would do this until the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide, which positively kills the dandruff germ, allays itching instantly and makes hair glossy and soft as silk. Take no substitutes. There is nothing "just as good." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. One dollar bottles guaranteed. Missoula Drug Co., Special Agents.

EXTENSION COURSE OPENED

DR. C. A. DUNIWAY LECTURES ON AMERICAN HISTORY IN CITY LIBRARY.

President C. A. Dunway of the state university opened the course of extension lectures to be given by himself and Drs. Rowe and Reynolds during the next two months, with a lecture on American history, covering the condition of the country, politically and economically at the close of the revolution. The audience which attended the lecture was not as large as had been hoped, but it was not small and was very appreciative.

Dr. Dunway began with a discussion of the difficulties arising out of the ambiguous clauses in the treaty with Great Britain. He showed that through lack of knowledge on the part of the men who drew up the treaty the boundaries of the new nation were very indefinite. The original agreement was that the northern boundary should extend along the Croix river and down the St. Lawrence to the Great Lakes, through the lakes to the west, and thence to the headwaters of the Mississippi, and from that point south to the Florida. At this time, he said, it was believed that the headwaters of the Mississippi lay to the north of the 49th parallel and that therefore when the true condition of affairs was discovered the United States received less than she was supposed to have received.

The Florida.

The dispute over the southern boundary between the United States, Great Britain and Spain was also discussed in detail. Great Britain and Spain, the lecturer explained, each had a different idea as to the boundaries of Spain. The United States agreed that if Great Britain could persuade Spain to turn over the land in dispute she might retain it, while if Great Britain was unable to make Spain concede the truth of her claim, she was to donate the territory to the United States to be held by force.

A number of interesting details of the treaty and of the history of the meeting of the commissioners were also given.

Fisheries.

Dr. Dunway then took up the matter of the fishery disputes and showed that while Great Britain had provided that American sailors might dry and salt their fish on Canadian shores, she made no definite promise whereby American sailors might catch the small inland fish, necessary as bait for the larger in Canadian waters nor whereby Americans might trade run or other products for such Canadian goods as they might want to buy without considering the British tariff laws. These points gave rise to disputes which were not finally settled until last year when the case was presented before the League tribunal.

The rights of the loyalists, the lecturer showed, caused another disagreement and gave rise to deep bitterness and hatred. During the war, while the British held New York, the commandant there gave to refugee loyalists certain houses vacated by the rebels, free of rent. When the war was over the Americans returning demanded rent and damages despite the fact that the commandant had had the temporary right to dispose of their property. The British demanded that such property of the loyalists as had been sold at auction during the war should be returned and the American commissioners agreed that the congress should recommend to the different states that such action be taken. Breaches of faith, however, were frequent, and as a result a number of loyalists went to Canada, while the British government was obliged to spend millions of dollars and donate thousands of acres of land in the west in order to make homes for others. This state of affairs, he said, is a deep-lying cause of the distant relations between Canada and the United States.

British Debts.

There were also a good many American merchants and others who owed money to British subjects at the beginning of the war. During the war collection, of course, was impossible, and when the treaty provided for the payment of just debts, these merchants were called upon to settle old claims there were many evasions.

It has been a constant source of wonder, Dr. Dunway stated, that a nation without army or navy, and composed of a pioneer rural people should have been able to defeat the greatest military power of the world. Many of the causes for this were economic. The American nation at the beginning, and through the war, was prosperous. The population was steadily growing, even during the revolution, and on all hands were rich crops and plenty of sustenance. The Americans, moreover, were fighting at home and on the defensive and when aided by foreign money they were able to beat off their enemy.

At the close of the war the country was economically prosperous despite its political weakness. The social change had been great but not disastrous. During the war those who are usually called the "better class" of people—the people of education and of social position—were generally opposed to the war. The war was carried on largely by the lower classes, and many of the loyalists went into exile at the conclusion of hostilities. This, with a more general franchise made possible by the removal of the property restrictions, and by the abolishing of all religious hindrances, brought about another great change.

New political organizations were also established. A few of the more conservative colonies, the lecturer showed, retained their old charters, but most of them adopted new constitutions, and in so doing, adopted the convention form of public meetings.

Country Prosperous.

Geographically the United States had plenty of room for her people. There need be no fear as to the future of their children for to the west was always a rich land ready to give an easy and sufficient sustenance to all.

The lands to the west were all the property of the colonies on the coast, and not until the refusal of Maryland to ratify the constitution, unless the western lands were ceded to the national government, did the separate states part with their claims.

The colonies were loosely knit together. The roads were few and poor and communication was exceedingly difficult. The interest in the affairs of the different colonies was small, and the Union was only perfunctory. Manufactures were few and the whole of America looked toward Europe for its market. The population was almost entirely rural, although there were a few cities of importance.

The work of consolidating and binding together of these colonies will be the topic of Dr. Dunway's next lecture on Monday evening, next.

Future lectures will probably be given at the high school.

GAS, HEARTBURN AND DYSPEPSIA

OUT-OF-ORDER STOMACHS FEEL FINE FIVE MINUTES AFTER TAKING DIAPEPSIN.

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of indigestion or dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach, if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested, nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes belching, flatulence, a feeling of fullness after eating, nausea, indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), biliousness, heartburn, water brash, pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapepsin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist and start taking now, an in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy, strong stomach, for you then can eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

Should you at this moment be suffering from indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can get relief within five minutes.
