

REV. T. L. LEWIS DIES AT HOME

OLD-TIME MINISTER AND CONFEDERATE VETERAN PASSES FROM THIS LIFE.

Rev. Thomas Lindsay Lewis, a soldier of the confederate army, a pioneer of the west, a minister of the gospel, a missionary, and a grand old man, died yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at his home on South Fourth street west.

Rev. Mr. Lewis was born on April 5, 1843, in Platte county, Missouri, where he grew up. When the war broke out he enlisted in the confederate army under General Price.

Upon the reopening of the William Jewell college at Liberty, Mo., after the war, he entered as a student in theology. At the end of the third year, however, a nervous breakdown necessitated his leaving school.

His was a life particularly full of adventures. At one time upon the plains he was captured by Indians and forced to witness the barbaric and terrifying scalp dance, not knowing at what moment his own hair might be added to the trophies displayed by the dancing braves.

During the civil war he was once forced to swim the Missouri river to avoid capture by federal soldiers. In making his escape he was forced to pretend to be dead and to float so close to a hostile gunboat that he could hear the crew speculating on the likelihood of his being alive.

Geology was a passionate hobby with Mr. Lewis. His spare moments he spent in the mountains, prospecting and collecting specimens.

He is survived by his wife and six children: Mrs. H. J. Feld and Mrs. William B. Sippson of Washington; Mrs. Curtis Hill of Columbia, Mo.; Mrs. W. A. Thompson of St. Louis; Miss Nell Lewis of this city, and his one son, Frank E. Lewis, an electrical engineer in California.

BACK FROM NEW YORK. C. W. King, manager of the Spencer store, returned yesterday from a purchasing trip of six weeks that has taken him to New York and other eastern markets.

WILLIAM P. OLIVER STATE CONVENTION IS DEAD OPENS TODAY

STRANGE DISEASE CLAIMS CONTRACTOR WELL KNOWN IN MISSOULA. ROYAL NEIGHBORS OF AMERICA TO HAVE BIG TIME IN GARDEN CITY.

Yesterday's Spokesman-Review tells the following story of the death of William P. Oliver, the contractor whose firm built the Missoula county courthouse:

"The unknown disease which has wrought such havoc in the Oliver family since January a yesterday claimed its third victim when William Preston Oliver, a prominent bridge and building contractor, died at his home, 1411 Madison avenue, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, after two weeks' illness.

"Nine persons, all told, have now felt the heavy hand of this deadly disease; three are dead, three are recovering and three are still fighting for life.

"Four members of the local board of health, with Dr. E. L. Kimball, a member of the state medical board, met last night in the Smith & Co. undertaking rooms and performed a post mortem on the body of William Oliver in an attempt to discover the exact nature of the disease, the board of health previously having studied the history of this most remarkable case.

"The doctors on the local board of health are satisfied that the disease is typhus fever, one of the most deadly maladies known. This is a continued fever, marked by a peculiar rash or spots of dark mulberry color, accompanied with great muscular prostration and cerebral irritation, manifested at first by delirium and followed by stupor. The malignant typhus, such as this case seems to be, is the more severe and infectious or contagious form of typhus, and is known by different names, due to various causes or characteristics of various conditions, such as ship fever, hospital fever, putrid fever, etc.

"Mr. Oliver is survived by his widow, still sick, and four children, Agnes, aged 13; Eugene, aged 17; Mildred, aged 15, and Preston, aged 13. There are also two sisters and two brothers: Mrs. Ada Shirland of Maine; Mrs. F. M. Tull of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Fred Oliver, Oklahoma City, Okla., and Henry Oliver, Sitka, Idaho.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS. A private funeral service will be held at the residence and tomorrow services will be held in Elks' temple under the auspices of that lodge. Burial will take place in Elks' Rest in Greenwood.

PLEASANT VALLEY GIRL MARRIES RAILROAD MAN

There was a very quiet wedding in the parlor of the Florence hotel yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock when Miss Myrtle Elmer and Ernest Muetz were united in marriage by the Rev. J. W. Bennett. The young people came in Monday evening and were met by Miss Ella Elmer, a sister of the bride who has been making her home in Hamilton and came to Missoula to be present at the ceremony. The bride is a daughter of U. W. Elmer, who is a well-known and successful ranch owner in Pleasant valley, with a home at Piedmont. Mr. and Mrs. Muetz will go this morning to Deer Lodge for a day's visit and then to Butte for a day or two; after that they will make their home in Piedmont, from which place Mr. Muetz has a run as fireman on the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railway. The real wedding journey is scheduled for a later date when Mr. Muetz can get leave of absence for an extended trip east.

ANOTHER LECTURE. There will be another lecture at the Adventist church tonight. The subject will be, "Following the Destiny of Nations." All are invited.

PRESS AGENTS TALK OF THEIR SHOWS

Another good house was in evidence at the Family theater last night to see the second performance of "In Arizona," and the people went away well pleased with the play and players. The play is a difficult one and is running remarkably smooth. It is only once in a while that a good military play is put on by the stock companies, as plays of this kind are few and far between. This one is a good one and is well produced.

The Bijou. The feature of the change of program, which will be shown at the Bijou this evening, is a comedy. It is seldom that a comedy is ranked highly enough to be made a headliner, as they are usually employed to balance the program and offset the dramatic pictures. In "Max Has the Boring Fever," however, the Pathe Freres company has developed a comedy that is worthy of feature. It is a long and unending laugh and is probably the best film of its kind that will be seen in Missoula for some time. In opposition to this picture are set two dramas that are noticeable for their human element and clever acting. These films are entitled: "Heart Beats of Long Ago" and "Mike, the Miser." They are worthy of more than passing attention.

The musical part of the program will be handled by Messrs. Kline and McKeown in their usual acceptable manner.

ORDER OF MOOSE. W. H. Penewell, deputy supreme organizer of the Local Order of Moose, a subordinate lodge of which order it is proposed to establish in Missoula in the near future, is in the city. Mr. Penewell reports successful success with his preliminary work and that F. Kohlenberg, national organizer, is coming here in a few days to assist in the completion of the work.
