CAUGHT ON THE RUN ABOUT TOWN

"I was sorry to read the story in The Missoulian this morning of the burning of the city where they live. The residence section seems to have been spared very largely. The buildings in the district which was burned were, most of them, old—some of them were old when I was a boy. There were many famous old landmarks in the city and most of these, I suppose, are gone. The fire will be a severe blow to the city but the west will be surprised when it is seen how quickly the Yankees get together and build up again. I am greatly relieved to know that the home of my mother and sister was not in the path of the fire. From the description in the dispatches, I can see that the fire swept through the center of the city. Certainly the rainfall, which checked the blaze, was providential."

There was a storm of protest sweeping down the Rattlesnake from Park addition yesterday morning when it became known that the county commissioners had given permission for the destruction of a great part of the beautiful pine grove on the county farm. These trees, some of them great monarchs of the forest, had added wonderfully to the beauty of the Rattlesnake valley and the residents of Park addition are much disturbed by what they consider the uncalled-for destruction of this priceless property. Appeal was had to the county board, but Chairman Curran was the only member who could be reached in the morning. According to those who petitioned him, Mr. Curran was unable to see any good reason why the trees should not be cut down. There was haste and intense anxiety on the part of the Rattlesnake people, but the trees went crashing down and there was irreparable ruin wrought. Certainly the esthetic side of the question should be considered. There are thousands of dollars being spent to grow trees in the city and it is a material waste, as well as an outrage against sentiment, to have these great pines destroyed.

George Brown, superintendent of the water company, yesterday announced definitely the date of his coming to Missoula to live. Mr. Brown has been planning to leave Butte for three years or more but one thing and another have prevented until his Missoula friends had begun to despair of ever having him for a townsman. Yesterday morning Mr. Brown, talking with the Man About Town, said: "Soon after the first of June I expect to come to Missoula to live. This step has been something we have considered for a long time, but not until now has it been practicable. When June comes I shall be able to leave the old home and come to make a new one here in Missoula. I have wanted for a long time to come, but it has not been practicable and now that the date is decided upon it is a relief. I have many friends in Butte, but my business is now largely in Missoula and it will be pleasant to be here. I shall be glad when we are settled here."

"I don't know whether you realize it or not," said W. F. Cobban to the Man About Town, "but the weather report which you publish in The Missoulian each morning is a very valuable feature. I have been sending a copy of The Missoulian to some of my friends in the east and we have sent a good many of them in connection with our business; in both cases we have heard that the Missoula weather report is a subject of interest on the part of the folks who get the paper. There were a few days when the report, for some reason, was not published. In each of these instances we got word asking if there were to be no more weather reports. You see that the little things, things about which we do not think much, are what advertise Missoula. That weather report has interested people in our city. The pleasant contrast which there has been between our temperature and that of the middle west, where these papers have been going, is all to our advantage. I hope you will not discontinue these reports. I know their publication is a good thing for the city."

At last George Heimbach, the man who caught 'em for Teddy, has received the delayed shipment of little-pig litters for which he has been waiting so long. It has arrived a bit late for the early fishing, but the little pigs can be used in the Blackfoot for some time yet before the water gets too high. George had so many advance orders for this bait that all but one of the little pigs were sold at once. That one has attracted much attention in the Heimbach & Kelley store. There have been many of the newer fishermen of the city who have examined this bait with genuine interest. The older fishermen, like Aus Hartley, Heimbach and Chick White, do not pay so much attention to it; it is an old story with them. "There is one good thing about this little-pig bait," said Tom Hickey to the Man About Town yesterday. "When a man uses this bait he gets real fish. He doesn't come in with a basketful of baby trout that had not learned to swim when they were caught. There should be more of it used. Then there would not be so much of the slaughter of infants as there is. I have seen some mighty small trout brought in lately; they should have been thrown back to grow."

The floor is in excellent condition and there will be plenty of room for enjoyable dancing and a fine orchestra is promised. The affair will be, for the most part, a costume party in which a few specialties will be introduced, thus adding much to the enjoyment of the guests. The dance will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock and promises to be one of the prettiest events that has yet been given by the dancing school.

MAY DAY CARNIVAL TO BE GREAT

PLANS AND WORK PROGRESSING AT UNIVERSITY—PARADE A FEATURE.

With the annual play disposed of, the May day carnival committee assumed charge of affairs at the university yesterday. The committee has begun a thorough campaign of advertising for the big event, and the next week will see things fly. A big street banner will be stretched across Higgins avenue this morning and every day henceforth will be a busy one. Yesterday Manager Forbis flashed a brilliant red poster on the campus, advertising the meet. The posters were attractively gotten up and contained some announcements that were surprising, even to the students. There can be no doubt but that the carnival this spring is going to be the biggest ever. There will be new stunts, more room and greater enthusiasm than ever before.

The May day carnival is an affair at the university. It is a riotous and wholly hilarious affair, which is enjoyed equally by students and visitors. The carnival will start out with the Maypole dance on the campus, in which all of the girls of the university, led by the May queen, Miss Hanon, will take part. After the dance the queen will be escorted to the gymnasium, where she will open the carnival proper. There the excitement will begin. The gym is already full of booths, from which will be sold confetti and all other carnival necessities. There will be shows of all sorts, "nigger-bats" booths, and in the gallery a grill, conducted by the sororities and fraternities. This year in order to give the merry-makers more room, a giant tent will be erected and connected with the gym. There other booths and shows will be, giving opportunity for all to move about.

The parade on Friday afternoon, which has in the past been rather an impromptu affair, will be featured this year. A lot of surprises may be expected.

DR. ELROD LECTURES ON NEW GLACIER PARK

Dr. M. J. Elrod delivered an interesting illustrated lecture on the "Glacier National Park" at the county high school building last evening. Dr. Elrod has spent several summers in the park and has written a number of articles about it, and his lecture was, therefore, of real interest. The lecturer was fully acquainted with his subject and described the beauties of the new national park very entertainingly. Through his effort public interest is being aroused in the Glacier park. He knows that the reserve has great possibilities as a show place, and he has been working hard to make others realize it. A thoroughly conducted personal exploration of the whole park has given Dr. Elrod an acquaintance with every show place in it. These he illustrated and described last evening.

ALLEGED BURGLAR GIVES REAL NAME

Arthur Martin, arrested for breaking into a house at Ravalli, was arraigned in the district court yesterday and pleaded not guilty. He gave his true name as John Gagner and County Attorney Mulrony was granted permission to change the information filed against the man as Martin.

EWING ARRAIGNED.

W. H. Ewing, the former convict who ran away from the road camp at Tardan and forged and passed two checks before being captured, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Small yesterday. He will plead today.

APPEALS DISMISSED.
The Clearwater Short Line Railway company dismissed its appeal from the award of district-court commissioners in two condemnation cases yesterday. The defendants were Constantine Lockman and Lizzie Woods.

SUIT DISMISSED.
