

SOCIETY

"One for the money, two for the show, three to make ready and four to go!" The old lingo of childhood comes to mind very often these quiet days when society is expectantly waiting for something to happen.

The long August afternoons of the past week have been given over to anticipation and preparation for autumn activities. Teachers, university students, camping parties and automobile touring parties have been coming in brimful of vacation enthusiasm, while others have been leaving for some new work or play in points east or west. The air is pleasant even though there are few formal functions to chronicle.

The notable feature of the summer months just passed is the ever increasing devotion of American people, both rich and poor, to out-of-door living. An evening walk through the residence streets of Missoula shows the whole population out of doors, whether sitting on verandas or walking, driving or motorizing. Tents or sleeping porches may be found as an adjunct to the majority of Missoula homes. Moreover, everyone who couldn't go camping has managed by some hook or crook to go for a fishing trip or a picnic. The radiant, sun-burned faces that are in evidence now, wherever one turns, give promise of fun and frolic as well as serious purpose in coming social function.

Camp Miramonte.

Monday evening marked the return of one of the jolliest camping parties of the season from a trip a little out of the ordinary. By means of pack-horses, Camp Miramonte was established far up in the heart of the mountains where fear of wild animals was greater than the fear of intrusion from civilization.

Explorations were made in every direction—to the falls, to Devil's wash basin, to the lakes, and even to the famous goat temple. A 10-mile tramp over the mountains was as insignificant an event for the girls as it was for the boys.

The camp motto was, "Never leave until tomorrow what you can eat today," and never was there a motto so completely observed.

Treat and huckleberry pies were as common as bacon and potatoes. Even the boys tried their luck at cooking, and on Sunday morning served a 12 o'clock breakfast which would have tasted good even in town.

Breakfast was served any time between 10 and 12; dinner at 6, and the evening spent around the campfire making candy, popping corn, telling ghost stories and singing songs. There was also a male quartet which added greatly to the entertainment. One evening was spent at an imaginary country "barn raisin," which was carried out completely, even to cider and doughnuts.

On a large fir tree passersby will find the inscription: "Camp Miramonte, August 18-28, 1911," that marks a spot long to be remembered.

Those who composed the party were the Misses Helen Mills, Grace Rummel, Anna Rummel and Mabel Garlington; Messrs. Ralph Arnold, Dr. Stryker, George Schottenberg, Frank McClure, William Abbott, William Kuhn, Clarence Rummel and King Garlington. Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Brewer acted as chaperones.

A Musical Evening.

Mrs. Nellie Arnold invited the Misses Edmee, Lorettá and Juliette Deschamps, Mrs. Arthur Deschamps, Miss Jean Sloane and Miss Helen Arnold to enjoy a musical evening Thursday at her home on East Front street. Each guest in turn added to the entertainment with piano or vocal numbers. Miss Lena Smith and Mrs. Arnold served the young ladies with delicious refreshments at the close of the evening.

MRS. JOHN SHRYOCK LEADS CAMPERS INTO CLEARWATER

ONE HOUR OF GOOD SPORT.

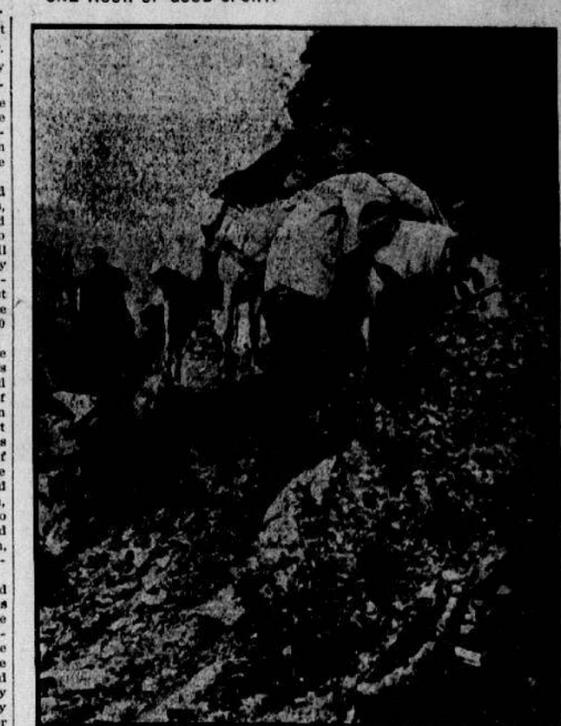

The elements requisite for a successful camping trip with a pack outfit were demonstrated last month by Mr. and Mrs. John Shryock, Stanley Yergey and Edmund Lewellin. With four saddle horses and two pack horses the party traveled 250 miles through some of the finest scenery in Montana without a mishap and without a break in harmony to mar the pleasure of the outing.

With their baggage selected and packed by experienced mountaineers, just enough for reasonable comfort and not too much for the two horses to carry over the roughest trails, and all hands, including Mrs. Shryock, ready to make light of hardships and to enjoy the beneficent influence of forest and stream, lakes and mountains, the party set forth from Missoula at 8:30 the morning of August 8.

Just below Belmont creek on the Blackfoot river was the first night's camp, and the second night they found comfortable lodging at the mouth of Blanchard creek on the Clearwater. On the third day the trail began to hint of the wilderness and civilization was fast growing to be a faint memory of other days. There were, however, some excellent farms along Cottonwood creek, notably the Jakway ranch, where a last opportunity was found to telephone into Missoula. The third night was spent at Dunham's cabin, pretty well up the west fork of Monture creek.

On the fourth day nature opened her book of wonders to the eager eyes of the venturesome wanderers. The waterfalls along the canyon of Monture creek made a beautiful picture for every turn, and the trail over the continental divide, which was crossed about noon, gave visions of far-away mountain peaks leaping up in foamy crests into the blue of the sky or dropping down into purple depths of shadow. Camp was made about 4 o'clock in the afternoon of this fourth day at a cabin on Young's creek. The best fishing of the whole trip as well as the grandest scenery marked the day.

On the fifth day the trail led down Young's creek to Big Prairie on the south fork of the Flathead river. On the way several good-sized brown bears were sighted and put to flight, but they were not shot. Big Prairie was made camp headquarters for the next three days, with excursions to the White river, seven miles below, and to various points on Young's creek for fish. Phenomenal catches were made during those three days of fishing. All fish under 15 inches were thrown back alive into the stream and finally even the big ones were thrown back. Regretful at leaving so beautiful an abiding place, the party broke camp on the ninth day and started on the return trail. This led them down Basin creek and past the lofty Goat peaks to the falls on the north fork of the Blackfoot river. Following leisurely down the stream, photographing many of the most glorious views for future enjoyment, the party came upon Cooper lake and found it absolutely perfect in its clear, cold beauty, reflecting the mountain walls that stood high around it. Approaching the home stretch all too soon, the travelers reached Gwando about noon of the fourteenth day. Two more days brought them into Missoula, tired for the time being, but on the whole and in the long run, rested and refreshed beyond description. The comparatively slight expense of such an outing and its possibilities for healthful exercise added to the joy of exploring far reaches of scenery that are not accessible to camp wagons or automobiles, make it one to be repeated. Mrs. Shryock says she is going again next year, and her friends, who have looked over the photographs taken along the way say that they, too, are going "next time."

A LUXURIANT GROWTH OF HAIR

Does Not Follow Neglect of the Scalp.

Aside from combing it when they think necessary many people give no attention whatever to their hair. Then when the hair begins to fall out it never occurs to them that their trouble is the result of personal carelessness.

An occasional application of Newbro's Herculide will not only prevent loss of hair but permits a luxuriant growth.

Herculide kills the germ that causes dandruff and to this germ most hair losses are attributable. It keeps the scalp clean and free from dirt, allowing the hair to grow unhampered by accumulation of dandruff.

Newbro's Herculide is sold by all druggists and its manufacturers have such confidence in its germ destroying power that they authorize all drug-gists to guarantee the one dollar size bottles to do as claimed or money refunded.

Applications may be obtained at good barber shops. Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet to The Herculide Co., Dept. R. Detroit, Mich. Missoula Drug Co., Special Agents.

SAFEBLOWERS CAUGHT.

Berlin, Sept. 2.—Eight detectives surprised five safeblowers while they were at work in the building of a contractor here last night and a veritable battle resulted. Several hundred revolver shots were fired before the offenders overpowered the criminals, all of whom were wounded. Two of the detectives received bullet wounds.

REMEMBERS EMPLOYES.

New York, Sept. 2.—Seven hundred employees who had worked for the William DeMuth company for a year, learned today that they were sharers in the $25,000 set aside by the will by Mr. DeMuth, to be divided pro rata on the basis of their wages. Mr. DeMuth, a wealthy pipe manufacturer, died on June 24.
