WIDOW OF MAN KILLED IN DISASTER SAYS GAS CAUSED THE EXPLOSION.

Los Angeles, Sept. 23.—Clarence S. Darrow announced today that he would demand of Judge Bordwell on Monday a two week's delay in starting the trial of the McNamara brothers, which is scheduled for October 11. Mr. Darrow said the delay has been made necessary because of harassments for which he held the prosecution responsible. The request will be made when Attorney Harrington appears in court Monday in contempt proceedings instituted by the district attorney.

W. J. Ford, assistant district attorney, said the prosecution would vigorously oppose a continuance of the McNamara trial.

Darrow declared that the defense had been so harassed by side issues, such as the contempt proceedings against Harrington, Mrs. Ortie McNamara and George Behm, McNamara's uncle, that it had not had sufficient time to prepare for the trial.

Ford said that more time had been allowed the defense in its preparation for the trial than had been given in other cases in this country. He asserted that the "sooner the defense called its witnesses into court to testify the sooner they would be free from any proceeding against them to ascertain what they had been doing in the alleged influencing of the witnesses for the state."

Another angle to the McNamara case developed today. Suit for $50,000 damages was brought against the Times by the widow and mother of A. Churchill Harvey Elder, who died as a result of the disaster at the plant of that newspaper October 1, 1910. The suit was directed against Harrison Gray Otis, president and general manager of the Times; Harry Chandler, treasurer and assistant manager, and Harry E. Andrews, managing editor.

The plaintiffs allege that the explosion in the Times building was caused by gas. They charge the defendants with having negligently permitted the establishment to become filled with gas and with having failed to provide proper means of escape from the building in accordance with city ordinances.

Elder was assistant city editor of the Times. When the explosion occurred he jumped from a third-story window and was severely injured when he struck the pavement that he died as a result.

PROGRESSIVES TO MEET.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The first conference of progressive republicans to consider plans for gaining control of the republican national convention next year will be held in Chicago October 1, according to an announcement here today by Walter L. Houser, chairman of the progressive republican campaign committee. An invitation has been extended broadcast to progressives to meet in Chicago to "consider the present situation and to plan for the future."

At this conference the presidential boom of Senator Robert M. La Follette is expected to be formally launched.

Two Historic Photographs

These pictures are of interest in connection with the recent celebration at Stevensville of the twentieth anniversary of the departure of the Hitter Root Indians from their old home to their reservation at Jocko.

The upper photograph was taken by Frank M. Ingalls in Missoula at the conclusion of the successful negotiations between Chief Charlot and General Carrington. Standing are General Carrington and Major Ronan; sitting, are Chief Louison and Michel Revals, the blind interpreter. A copy of this photograph was presented to Mrs. Ronan by General Carrington, who inscribed it thus: "Mrs. Mary Ronan will please accept with my regards this picture in which I am happy to be associated with her husband who, more than any other man, has worked for the welfare of the Flathead Indian. Henry B. Carrington, U. S. A." It was one of the interesting features of these final and successful negotiations, that General Carrington was willing to accept the advice of the men of the west who knew and understood the Indians. It was to his desire to be square with Charlot that he owed his success in treating with the old chief. It will be remembered by those who have been reading The Missoulian that General Carrington delayed his meeting with Charlot long enough to don his military uniform, believing that the gold lace would impress the chieftan. It was well that he took this precaution. Had he met Charlot in civil attire, he would have been dimmed by the splendor of the old chief's attire. Charlot did not wear his Indian costume. To the surprise of all who were connected with the conference, he appeared in a handsome suit, a pug hat and was decorated with a beaded sash which resembled the regalia of a secret-order initiation team. The lower photograph was taken at the time; it shows the makeup of the old chief which started all who were familiar with his loyalty to Indian tradition. It was his concession to the white man and marked the beginning of his willingness to concur in the agreement to move.

believes that reciprocity would inure to the benefit of both countries.

Twice during the day the president was introduced as "the best and greatest president of the country." He modestly protested on each occasion. At the Masonic club, the president said he had on two occasions worn the "Masonic apron which ad belonged to George Washington, who was the greatest man in the history of the country."

Need of Judicial Reform.

In his speech on the need of judicial reform, the president said: "One of the real reasons for discontent is the character of the procedure and the slow administration of justice in our courts. I believe that the states of this country and the young attorneys of this country should devote their attention to a constant discussion and pressure upon the legislatures for cutting short judicial procedure and expediting justice. It is the one thing in my judgment that is more easily reached and more needed for our government than any other."

"I wonder what you have thought of the tendency that we have had in that kind of legislation from the time the constitution was adopted in this country and our courts were organized until now and especially in the west and as you go west. Trial by jury is a good thing. It brings into the administration of justice the people and in a popular government they feel safer in that they are called in to determine issues of important facts; but trial by jury, my friends, as stated in the constitution, was a trial by jury of the facts under the inspiration of a judge that had the power to call the jury what the law was, and had the power to hold the courtroom under his control and not let it be taken away by the counsel for the prosecution or the counsel for the defense. And yet the suspicion of the people of the judges has been such, the movement of all legislation from the Atlantic westward has been such to take away from the judges the power they had under the English system that we have copied and the system that we put into our constitution.

"If a judge is not frightened by anybody and will carry on a court as his court, then you will have your administration of justice as it is in England.

"If you examine the statistics you will blush as Americans that we have not shown ourselves more adaptable to the issue which has arisen here with respect to whether crime shall be punished and have not made a machinery that has accomplished the purpose.

More Power for Judges.

"The tendency of legislation ought to be toward giving the judges more power and then making the judges responsible. There is no difficulty about making the judges responsible.

either. I know it is proposed to make a short cut and cut his head off without any reason, just because the people wish it, under the theory of a judicial recall. I agree that the movement has foundation on the basis which I have stated, namely, that the courts have not fulfilled the function that they ought to fulfill, but I do not agree that, therefore, they ought to kill the court and that is what I think you are doing if you make every tenure of office dependent on election. Gentlemen, that won't do, make your judges responsible, impeach them. Impeachment of a judge would be a very healthy thing in these times; I agree. I have known instances in congress where there was ground for impeachment that ought to have been carried through, but on inquiry I found that the difficulties between the member of congress and the judge had been settled by compromise and the thing had passed away. It is not necessary that we should have an impeachment by the legislature if that is a clumsy method, as it is. We can have some other method of investigating the qualifications of judges, and if they don't fill the measure to remove them. Have some sort of judicial hearing in which the facts shall be considered."

In his speech tonight President Taft declared that attacks made upon the tariff board were not candid criticisms of that body's work based on the showing made, but came "from the thoughtless heat of political controversy, and ought to have no weight with unbiased friends of the public weal; upheld the wisdom of his selections for the tariff board and announced that he never expected to see the tariff taken so far out of politics that it would not be the subject of political debate. He agreed that the members of the board were not tariff experts, but said that it was better so. Mr. Taft denied that the board was partial and pointed out that, of its total membership of five, only two could really be termed members of a political party. Two others were professors skilled in economics and the third was an editor of a stockman's journal.

President Taft will spend the entire day tomorrow at Baldwin, Kansas, with the exception of 30 minutes at the state university at Lawrence, Kan. The president's train departed for Kansas at 11:30 o'clock. The Post-Dispatch, commenting on the visit here of President Taft, will say, tomorrow:

"The crowds which greeted the president in the city and county were not large but the demonstrations were friendly. With but few exceptions the 12,000 persons who heard him at the Coliseum remained throughout the entire speech."

The Globe-Democrat will say: "President Taft's reception here yesterday was cordial rather than noisy or demonstrative, which showed the confidence that the citizens of St. Louis have in the chief executive."

ALL IN READINESS FOR THE FAIR

GREAT PROMISES ARE MADE AS TO THE EXCELLENCE OF THIS EXPOSITION.

Helena, Sept. 23.—(Special.)—With several hundred men at work at the state fair grounds during the week, the preparations for the fair next week are now so well advanced that there is an assurance everything will be in readiness when the gates open Monday, "Southern Montana day." In every department the displays are larger and more varied than ever before, and the amusement program is the best ever given here. There are 150 running, and 60 harness horses on the track, and the races promise to be a big feature.

It is probable there will be three instead of two aeroplanes at the fair. Bud Mars will not be here until Wednesday and St. Henry will take his place with Dickson the first two days. It is probable St. Henry will be kept the entire week.

Sam Blythe to Speak

Louis W. Hill, who was scheduled for an address Thursday, will not deliver one. Instead, James J. Hill will make one Saturday. On Thursday Sam Blythe of the Saturday Evening Post will be the orator.

In the evening there will be two bands on the street; if the visitors desire they can have a street carnival and on Friday there will be given the state fair ball to which prominent people in all parts of the state have invited as the guests of the society women of Helena.

There will be double transportation to the grounds, by the street cars and the Great Northern, with the interchangeable ticket system in use. The Northern Pacific will run special trains both from the east and west and if the weather is good the attendance will break all past records.

PARNELL'S SISTER DIES.

London, Sept. 23.—The Pall Mall Gazette says the woman who was the fashionable bathing resort on the north coast of Devon, where she was known as Miss Palmer, was Annie S. Parnell, a sister of the great Irish leader. Though nearly 60 years old, she was a powerful swimmer and accustomed to going out in the rough weather. It is thought that she was seized with cramps.

MISTAKEN FOR A BEAR.

Centralia, Wash., Sept. 23.—Mistaken for his companion for a bear, Robert Waddle of this city this morning shot and killed C. J. Cates of Bucoda, Wash. The two men were lifelong friends. While hunting in the deep woods they had taken divergent paths with an understanding that they were to meet several hours later.

OLD-TIME REMEDY DARKENS THE HAIR

Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

From time immemorial, sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost everyone knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair, for curing dandruff and falling hair, and for making the hair grow.

In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. The Wyeth Chemical company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this sort, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is turning gray or coming out, don't delay, but get a bottle of this remedy today, and see what a few days' treatment will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agents, Missoula Drug Co.
