HAMILTON BREVITIES

Hamilton, Sept. 29.—(Special.)—J. G. Conkey left yesterday afternoon for Helena, where he will take in the sights of the state fair.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Williams, residents of Charles, passed through this city this morning on their way to their home. Mrs. Williams met her husband at Missoula, as he was returning from a visit at his old home at Eau Claire, Wis.

Mrs. Norton of Missoula is visiting relatives here this week.

Mrs. C. S. Kendall left yesterday afternoon for Helena, where she will join her husband, who has been at the fair all the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Shappee departed yesterday afternoon for their home at Trempealeau, Wis., following a two weeks' visit at the home of their son, A. E. Shappee, of this city.

MAY LOCATE IN THE VALLEY.

Hamilton, Sept. 29.—(Special.)—H. Bauman, David J. Oima and Gus P. Johnson, residents of Chicago, have been spending the past 10 days looking at orchard lands on Hamilton Heights. They have been impressed with what they have seen and expect to return to the valley next season for the purpose of locating on Bitter Root land permanently.

GREAT RAVALLI COUNTY FAIR WILL BE OPENED NEXT THURSDAY MORNING.

Hamilton, Sept. 29.—(Special.)—Next Thursday morning the gates of the great Ravalli county fair will be opened for another exhibition of Bitter Root products. The fair will be held at the training track of the Bitter Root stock farm, the same place as last year. The grounds will be under the direct supervision of P. J. Shannon, a member of the board of commissioners of the fair. Work has already been started on getting the covered racetrack in shape for the exhibition. At the half-mile training track a man and team have been at work for several days putting the track in shape for the races, which are expected to far exceed those of last year in interest.

The woman's department will be in charge of a committee appointed from the Bitter Root chapter of the American Woman's league. The committee, composed of Mrs. F. H. Drinkwater, Mrs. J. M. Flugstad and Mrs. W. E. McGlauffin, will look after the art, domestic science, flowers and fancy work. Lectures will be given by Dr. Lillian Miller and Mrs. Roy Jeffrey. At the last meeting of the league it was decided to maintain a rest room, as was done last year, but the plan this year is more comprehensive. A trained nurse will be in charge of this room each day, and with competent assistants will be able to care for small children left in her charge. At the same meeting of the league it was suggested that a baby show be made a feature of the fair this year, but no definite action was taken.

A departure from the methods of last year, in the matter of getting the exhibits in place, has been attempted this season. In case a person has a good exhibit, but is unable to get it to the grounds, he has only to notify J. E. Reardon or D. C. Welby, who are already at work gathering up exhibits from various parts of the valley. If you have products of any sort which would make a creditable display and have no time to transport them to the grounds, it is up to you to let the commissioners help you out.

J. J. Fitzgibbons, chairman of the racing committee, is making good progress with the racing card. The plan of making up each day's events the evening before will be followed the same as last year. Fitzgibbons has been scouring the country in his efforts to get a bunch of fast horses at the grounds for the races. A large number of local horses are already taking daily workouts at the track. Fitzgibbons returned yesterday from the state fair, where he induced the owners of 20 horses to bring their steppers to the fair. Billy Matham, the oldest running horse in training in America today; Maxine Masgrave, a valuable running mare owned by Dawson & Co., and Volting, a horse seen in many of last season's running races, will lead the string to arrive from Helena. Four races will be pulled off each day, three running events and one harness go.

WOMAN WANTS DAMAGES.

Fairview, Okla., Sept. 29.—Fifty thousand dollars damages is asked by Mrs. Cassie V. Norman from W. D. Wilson and 24 prominent citizens of Ames, in a petition filed in the district court today. It is declared the defendants applied to her husband such epithets as "light-wad," "bushel-foot," "backslider," "knocker," and various other names, by reason of which it is asserted, Norman became insane.

ANGLERS ENTERTAIN ROYALLY

TROUT BANQUET, TROUT HISTORY AND TROUT LIES FILL A HAPPY EVENING.

The banquet given last night by the members of the Western Montana Anglers' association was in every respect a success. More than 150 of the members and their friends sat at two long tables, laid in the Palace hotel cafe, and partook of red-bellied trout, cooked to the queen's taste. The fish were delightfully served, the accompaniments were dainty and the sweet cider which washed them down was fine bait. Good fellowship prevailed and good music added to the enjoyment of the good food and the good talk. It was all right. It advanced the cause of the anglers' association a long way. Rev. H. S. Gately asked the blessing, which preceded the meal.

Walter M. Bickford, the father of the association and the good friend of its work, was toastmaster and filled the chair at the head of the table in formidable style. At the outset of the after-banquet program, Judge Bickford explained briefly the purpose of the association and reviewed the work which it has done. He said that Missoula has the best bunch of anglers in the state and a fine lot of fellows who don't fish but are willing to help the cause along.

The toastmaster read telegrams of regret from Representative Charles N. Pray, Game Warden Avare, Chairman Mathewson of the state game and fish commission, and D. Gay Stivers of Butte, all of whom were sorry they could not be present. Then, very appropriately, Judge Bickford introduced Mayor Evans to respond to the toast, "How to Protect the City Sewers from the Invasion of Trout."

The mayor aptly replied that he believed a more vital topic to be, how to keep fishermen out of the sewers and he would agree to use his influence with the police judge to have the morning-after fines made as light as possible. He expressed approval of the work of the association and satisfaction at being present at the banquet.

Judge Woody was the next speaker. He told about "Old-Time Sport With the Rod." He described the excellent fishing which western Montana streams afforded when he first came to Montana in 1856. He said the Missoula river was then as clean and as full of fish as the Bitter Root. It was no trick to catch fish then. The judge said he believed he was the first man to fish with an artificial fly in Montana and he told about it. He was fishing in the Deer Lodge river. He had a horsehair line and had filed a hook out of a wire that he got from an old tin pan. He got tired of catching grasshoppers for bait and proceeded to cut a lock of his own hair which he attached to the hook and which he found served admirably. He caught 100 trout with it before he quit.

The judge told some other stories but the one started the yarns of the evening and the judge set such a good pace that it was hard to follow him.

John M. Lucy came next, with "Irish Fish and Blue-Eyed Girls," as his theme. He said there were no fish in Ireland and he'd rather not tell about blue-eyed girls as he wished to avoid trouble. But he told some good stories and sailed into Judge Woody's yarn in a way that was scandalous. He asked why the judge didn't use a hairpin instead of digging a wire out of a tin pan. He talked about ministers and beer and everything but fish and made a fine speech.

John H. Tolan responded to "The Fish I Never Caught." He told about that fish and paid an eloquent tribute to the pastime of Isaac Walton.

Tyler B. Thompson, called upon to tell "The Difference Between a St. John Salmon and a Dicky Chicken," told some ancient Montana history that crowded Judge Woody pretty closely and contained some clever reminiscences. He had some of the fellows scared lest he tell some things which he didn't.

William L. Murphy responded to "The Man Who Never Caught a Fish" and before he got through made some of the regulars look sick. His was a specially bright and witty speech and captured the house.

A. L. Stone was asked to define "The Difference Between Ananias and a Missoula Angler." He contended that there was no difference, except that Ananias was stricken dead.

Dan O'Hern's toast was "The Missoula's Anglers' Association," and he illustrated his reply with some clever stories. His early training in fishing was in Iowa and it's different fishing for trout and bobbing for catfish. But Dan was able to discuss the subject just as well as if he had been born on the banks of Lolo.

Frank McHaffie was given a minute and a half in which to tell about two months of fishing on the Blackfoot. He started in but the bell rang before he had warmed up. He did mighty well as far as he got.

Dan Heyron in a clever speech presented the famous Lemley cuff buttons which the famous Lemley caught this summer, sixty miles from where a fish swallowed them, three years ago; and caught them in the same fish that swallowed them. Lemley wasn't there to receive them but Bill Cave acted as his proxy.

The toastmaster attempted to dismiss the banquet at this stage, but President Heimbach of the association protested, and said that the judge was very arrogant in not permitting those to speak who wanted to do so. For one he wouldn't stand for it. He then made a neat speech, in which he referred to the splendid service which Judge Bickford has rendered the association and then presented the toastmaster with a diminutive hand reel, a tapeline with which to measure his trout, and a handsome flybook. Judge Bickford's response was graceful and

BIG CHARLTON STORE SCORES HEAVILY

DISPLAY AT NEW FIVE, TEN AND FIFTEEN-CENT ESTABLISHMENT DELIGHTS PUBLIC.

The formal opening of the E. P. Charlton 5, 10 and 15 cent store on Higgins avenue yesterday afternoon and evening was attended with much success—also by throngs of people. It was a most pleasant affair from every point of view. The visitors, who came in crowds that were entirely unexpected by the management, were certainly surprised at the display and variety of goods with which the new store has opened. Manager E. J. Gardner was in turn surprised and delighted with the number of people the opening attracted, feeling that the turnout indicated a keen interest in the line of articles which the store will sell. The arrangement of the store is ideal, both for the purpose of displaying the goods and to give quick and efficient service. At each counter a pretty girl presided, and if the careful attention in showing the goods and the courteous treatment which the young ladies displayed yesterday is a fair sample of the everyday routine that will be maintained, the clerical force of the new establishment will be ideal.

Kapstein Smiles.

That Mr. Kapstein, northwest inspector of the Charlton stores, was pleased was evidenced by his smile which he wore all afternoon and evening. "This evidence was substantiated last evening when he said: "Our opening has pleased me very much. We have had more people here during the hours the store was open today than on any other day we have had at the openings of some of our establishments in cities much larger than Missoula. It has been a very encouraging day; it speaks of an interest in our class of goods which I hardly expected to find in Missoula at this time. It will mean that the Charlton company will see that the stock here is kept entirely up to date and includes everything which we offer anywhere in this district. I have enjoyed this day and will always remember it with a feeling of pride and satisfaction."
