DELIGHTFUL DANCE MANY ELK KILLED BY L. A. OF A. O. H. NEAR PARK

AS A CLIMAX OF THANKSGIVING DAY AFFAIR AT ELITE HALL IS SPLENDID.

A fitting climax to the many pleasures and attractions of Thanksgiving day in Missoula was the annual ball of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the Elite hall last evening. The ladies have a reputation as entertainers of which they are jealous and it was certainly well guarded last evening. Nothing that they could do was left undone for the pleasure of the company that came and danced the last Thanksgiving day hours away. It was a big, jolly crowd, which brought to the hall a spirit bubbling with the sentiment of the day, and not once was this spirit allowed to subside. Everybody danced and danced often. The music was good and the floor was in fine condition and of course everybody danced well—so the dancers took each other.

HUNDREDS OF THE ANIMALS REPORTED SLAIN AFTER CROSSING BOUNDARY.

Livingston, Nov. 30.—(Special)—The hunting season came to end in Montana tonight and game wardens and Yellowstone park officials estimate that more than 500 elk were killed within a radius of 10 miles of Gardiner, near the Yellowstone park boundary, the elk stampeding over the park line and falling easy prey to hundreds of hunters who have been in camp for a couple of weeks. Yellowstone officials are not alarmed at the slaughter as, according to them and the Park county game warden, most of the slain animals were cows and twice that number will die of starvation before the winter is over, as at the present time more than 6,000 elk are grazing in and near the Yellowstone park. Two boxcars loaded with dead elk arrived here today and more carloads are coming. Under Montana laws each hunter was allowed to kill one elk. Mrs. Victor Schody this morning stepped to the door of her kitchen at Gardiner and killed a large bull elk within 10 feet of her house, with a single shot.

PAYS HIS FINE.

Livingston, Nov. 30.—(Special)—O. G. France, a wealthy orchardist of Wenatchee, Wash., member of the Wenatchee Produce company, was released from jail here today after paying a fine of $15. He pleaded guilty to the charge of hunting without a license.

THANKSGIVING FEED STARTS ROUGH HOUSE

Yesterday Sheriff Kelley treated his prisoners to a Thanksgiving repast that was a delight to the 28 men confined in the county jail. There was everything on the bill of fare that could be desired by a man, be he free or confined, and it was eaten with a relish. The meal was topped off with a box of red apples, and some snatches. In fact the feed was too good for the deputies were called in to stop three or four fights later in the afternoon, the officers believing the prisoners adopted a very poor way to express appreciation.

MINSTREL ELKS GET BACK FROM TRIP TO THEATERS OF BUTTE AND ANACONDA.

(BY A. MINSTREL.)

When the local Elks' Minstrels returned from Butte yesterday they were agreed on one point and that was that they all believed that they had extracted, to the last drop, all the pleasures to be derived from theatrical life and were willing to lay down their arms for another year. The Elks had been sprung so many times that the fun was all out of them and as the company was concerned and the songs had been sung until they presented a frayed edge. No one seems now to envy Gillette, Dockstader or Carle his place on the billboards with his name in big red letters under the picture and the flattering press notices which are conspicuously displayed in connection with the likeness.

The German band was at the height of its glory on the first day, when everyone wanted to be in that band, but when time came to clean off the paint, the fun went out of it and after that, although it was carefully watered and kept in a dark place and all attention given it, yet its steadily decreased in popularity with the members until at Anaconda it was almost impossible to get any to go in it. Then strong-arm tactics were resorted to by the three who had been painted. These looked about for more volunteers, but no one responded, then these seized the nearest person to them and held him while the chief painter smeared a big blotch of bright red paint over the victim's forehead, after which backing out was no use. The four then caught the next unsuspecting victim, and finally, by resorting to this method of shingling, completed the number necessary to play in that band. There was no German band at Butte, much to the thespians' pleasure. The train was late at Anaconda, due to the band's getting out at all the stations and playing upon the least provocation while the engineer was forced to hold the train or lose his passengers. Quite a number undertook to sleep on the train, but anyone attempting to do this was remanded by an orchestra of cymbals and drums and in case this failed to raise them, the sleeper was given treatment with a clothes brush which never failed to have the desired results. Grouches were short-lived and when anyone did get peeved the others gathered around him and asked him to speak louder, that they didn't want to miss a word, complimented him highly on the color of his eyes, etc., until he was joked back into good humor.

There is a fashion about trouping and one night stands which is hard to get away from. There is a great change from routine work and one doesn't mind eating at all hours of the day and for a short time much pleasure can be derived from it on account of the irregularity. It is interesting to watch the stage hands clear off the stage after the performance and before the make-up has been washed from the faces of the actors, the scenery is packed and rattling off down the street on a long wagon. Anyone wishing to view the hands in the act of taking down the sets would choose to advantage a position as far to one side as possible, for the reason that if he is standing at the place where the prima donna usually sings her song with the spotlight playing on her and is intently regarding a piece of scenery floating off in the general direction of the Pacific ocean, a west-bound part of a palace may take him between the shoulders blades. It is considered bad form to strike a match to light a cigarette or cigar on any other place than the signs notifying you that "No smoking is allowed." Dotty Dimples of the Dainty Dorothy company and Cissie Le Vere of the Sweetest Girl company have left their names and a few remarks on the walls of the dressing rooms, which never fail to form interesting reading for the amateurs who usually append their names to the list of stars.

The play was well received at each performance and after the low the company was entertained at the homes of the Elks in the towns in which they played, where banquets, speeches and songs were always the order and a lively or pleasant junketing trip would be hard to figure out. It is only a short time now until the Missoula Elks will be the hosts of a large number of visiting Elks who are coming here at the dedication of the new home on the first of the year, when they are assured of a hearty welcome and a return of courtesies. Just how well the wives of the Elks like to have their husbands shining as stars before the footlights and attending the accompaniment of the singing is not known, but one was seen yesterday on his way home carrying a huge bouquet for his spouse and said he was taking it home in the hopes of "squaring things up."

At Anaconda the large copper smelter was visited after the parade and also the fish hatcheries, which are always interesting sights, and at Butte the upper works of the mines were looked over. Summing up the entire affair, the Elks feel that while they have given lots of time and hard work to the show yet they are well repaid for their troubles in the pleasant and enjoyable time which they had. They feel that the Missoula Elks have made a very favorable impression upon their neighboring brethren.

NEARLY BURNED OUT.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 30.—Reports from the district where brush and timber fires have been raging for several days are much more encouraging tonight. In several localities the fires still are burning and large forces of men are seeking to check the flames. But the worst is over, as the fires almost are extinguished for lack of fuel. The loss will be heavy, but cannot now be estimated.

With Mr. and Mrs. Myers. Every Thanksgiving day for 14 years in succession, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hartman and their daughters, Miss Laura and Miss Eudora, have been entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Myers. Yesterday was one of the most delightful of these occasions and each one of the company about the table gave thanks for the circle unbroken.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Entertain. Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Elmore entertained a company of friends most happily at Thanksgiving dinner last evening. Mrs. O. E. Peppard, who is now in southern California, had sent

These were Mr. and Mrs. Converse and Miss Myrre Converse, Hermann Kohn and his son, Irvin Kohn, Leo Solomon, O. E. Peppard and son, Bert Peppard, and Robert Borland of Miles City.

At the Y. W. C. A. Home.
