

EFFICIENCY SPEECH INTERESTING

DR. G. STANLEY HALL DELIVERS INTERESTING ADDRESS AT UNIVERSITY.

Dr. G. Stanley Hall, president of Clark university, addressed a record-breaking crowd in University hall yesterday morning. The big assembly hall was filled, the high school having been dismissed early in order to give the students time to attend the lecture and the number of town people being large. Dr. Hall's address was extremely interesting and the speaker held his audience during the whole hour of his speech. "Efficiency" was the subject which he chose. Efficiency, he said, is the keyword and the master influence of our modern civilization. Endeavor was the strong influence in past centuries, but the day has come when endeavor must be accompanied by efficiency. Dr. Hall told of the attention which men in all lines of business are now paying to the subject. He described the efforts made by contractors to promote efficiency among bricklayers and other laborers, of the various experiments which have been made with the idea of determining the scheme by which the greatest amount of work can be done with the least exertion. Similar experiments, he said, are being made in every line of endeavor. "The science of efficiency is remodeling religion, science and business today. In this work, the speaker declared, the schools and colleges of the country are taking the lead. By training the younger generations to work efficiently, to rely not upon endeavor alone but upon endeavor supplemented by efficiency, the institutions of learning are educating the race to efficiency.

The natural instinct for play, said Dr. Hall, is not an overflow of spirit but the primal power which leads men and women to do things. It is the force which inspires great works of all kinds. By guiding this force in efficient directions greater results will be obtained.

ONE COW LESS.

It was a queer-looking cavalcade that wended its way across the bridge yesterday. In the van was a wagon drawn by four horses. Two cows and a saddlehorse brought up the rear of the procession. Two men accompanied the caravan. One drove the horses and the other drove the cows. At the south end of the bridge one cow decided that the pace was too stiff and laid herself down and passed peacefully away. The horses started at a street car and tried to climb the railing. The motorist stopped the car and assisted in refueling the tractor. The team was led past the car and was soon on its way, minus one cow.

PRESS AGENTS TALK OF THEIR SHOWS A Musical Feast. The St. Paul Symphony orchestra, under the conductorship of Walter Henry Rothwell, left St. Paul March 26, on a spring tour of the northwest, which will include 53 cities and require six weeks' time. Fifty-five musicians in addition to Mr. Rothwell and the managing staff of the organization will make the trip. The orchestra will visit Missoula, Tuesday, April 2, for matinee and night performances at the Harolds theater. Louis W. Hill, president of the St. Paul Orchestra association, is giving the details of the trip his personal attention, and it is not unlikely that he will accompany the orchestra on part of the tour. "I consider the St. Paul Symphony orchestra as an important educational factor," said Mr. Hill, when asked the purpose of the tour. "Its educational value to St. Paul is incalculable. There is no reason why the territory tributary to St. Paul should not benefit by the orchestra, and as the St. Paul season closes in March, we decided to send the orchestra west." Although a young organization, it being only six years old, the St. Paul orchestra has advanced so rapidly that it is now considered one of the standard musical organizations in the United States. It has brought St. Paul to the front as a musical city and given that city the name of being the most liberal supporter of high-class music in the United States. Following are the cities which probably will hear the orchestra on the spring tour: St. Cloud, Brainerd, Bemidji, Thief River Falls, Winnipeg, Grafton, Devils Lake, Minot, Williston, Glasgow, Great Falls, Hatre, Kalispell, Spokane, Wenatchee, Everett, Anacortes, Bellingham, New Westminster, Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, Tacoma, Centralia, Portland, Aberdeen, Olympia, Ellensburg, North Yakima, Walla Walla, Wallula, Lewiston, Pullman, Coeur d'Alene, Missoula, Deer Lodge, Anaconda, Butte, Bozeman, Livingston, Billings, Miles City, Glendive, Dickinson, Bismarck, Jamestown, Fargo, Crookston, Hibbing and Superior. The orchestra will make the tour in a special train of the Great Northern railway. Edmund A. Stein will be general manager and Miss Gertrude O'Hanlon will be tour manager. HAZZARD ON VISIT. Henry B. Hazzard, United States naturalization examiner, is spending a few days in the Garden city checking up the books in connection with the naturalization business at Clerk of Conton's office.
