

AMERICAN WOMEN IN GERMANY

THOUSANDS BORN HERE AND WORK THERE AND TAKE INTEREST IN EXPOSITION.

Berlin, April 2.—More than 14,000 women of American birth—14,138, to be exact—are in Germany. This is perhaps the largest number of American women in connection with a noteworthy exposition which has just been opened in Exposition hall in the zoological garden here, under the title of "Woman in Business and in the Home." The exposition, of which the German empress is the chief patroness, was planned and is being carried out solely by women, and is devoted entirely to women's work in all fields of endeavor.

The multiplicity of occupations represented is astonishing. Besides German peasant women spinning thread from wool and flax at spinning wheels and weaving it on hand looms into enduring fabrics—on all but vanished art in America—are exhibits showing woman's work in medicine, in invention, in commerce and trade, in gardening, farming, architecture—in short, in virtually every department of human effort. Interesting exhibits from Germany's African colonies show what women are doing in making the far-off countries the homes of civilized men and women; there is a noteworthy collection of paintings by women artists, and everywhere arise columns displaying figures showing woman's part in the world's work.

A striking feature of the exposition is the department devoted to the German women living in other countries and the women of other countries living in Germany. As is natural, in view of the great numbers of Germans in the United States, America is especially well represented in this department. In the front rank of German women in America appears the name of Mrs. Carl Schurz, with a reference to the fact that as long ago as 1855 she established a kindergarten in her home in Watertown, Wis. Contributions of exhibits from scores of prominent American women appear.

Among well-known names are those of Johanna Gadske, Mrs. Bayard Taylor, who is the daughter of the famous astronomer, Hansen; Mrs. Lillian Bayard Taylor Killian, wife of a New York surgeon; Mrs. Hugo Muensterberg, Mrs. Cecile Behrens, Madame Fanny Bloomfield-Zeisler, the pianist; Mrs. Maria Lydia Winkler, president of the German-American Woman's Club of New York; Mrs. Gisela L. Weber and many others. Mrs. Martha Ziegler, wife of the Imperial German consul in New York, secured all the American exhibits.

The duchess of Connaught, who was a princess of Prussia, and the duchess of Albany, who was a princess of Waldeck-Pyrmont, are the honorary presidents of the department devoted to the German women in foreign countries.

Of the 14,138 American women in Germany, 660 are engaged in commerce or trade, 151 on farms, 304 in the public service and 494 as domestic servants. There are 11,192 who have no stated occupation and 1,351 who live on independent incomes.

The queen of Rumania, "Carmen Sylva," whose interest in woman's work is well known, and the Crown Princess Marie are represented in the exposition with a special exhibit. The queen is the special patroness for the occasion of the German Lyceum club, under whose auspices the exposition came into being.

SPANKING CHILDREN.

Spanking children is less frequent as human parents grow more humane and reasonable. It is a very serious matter and merits strong condemnation. Instead of receiving universal condemnation, spanking is still common, and it is even treated by the newspapers as a frequent subject for jest.

The faults of little children are largely the results of ignorance, accident, and the grown person's point of view. Grown persons would justly resent any punishment visited upon them for ignorance, accident, or an unknown point of view.

Corporal punishment by teachers is disappearing, but parents still claim they have the right to strike their own children. They have no such right. Show the school advances to higher standards for parents.

Can the reader see that the following acts are related: Slapping the hands of babies; spanking small children; whipping big children. Then the grown-up stage of action when the strong take advantage of the weak; when people disregard the rights of others, in the family, in business, and in society; when men are flogged or hanged; when armies fight each other on the battlefield.

ORRINE CURES WHISKEY AND BEER HABIT

ORRINE is the standard remedy and is everywhere recognized as the most successful and reliable home treatment for the "Drink Habit." It is highly praised by thousands of women, because it has restored their loved ones to lives of sobriety and usefulness, and the weekly wages which at one time were spent for "Drink" are now used to purchase the necessities and many comforts for home. Any wife or mother who wants to save her husband or son from "Drink" will be glad to know that she can purchase ORRINE at our store, and if no benefit is obtained after a trial the money will be refunded. Can be given secretly.

"We have been selling Orrine for a number of years and have had many people tell us of the good results obtained from its use. We do not hesitate to recommend Orrine to anyone in need of a 'Drink Habit' remedy."
Costs only $1.50 per box. Ask for free booklet telling all about ORRINE.

A PERMANENT CURE FOR CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

Although those may dispute it who have not tried it, yet thousands of others, who speak from personal experience, assert that there is a permanent cure for chronic constipation. Some testify they were cured for as little as fifty cents, years ago, and that the trouble never came back on them, while others admit they took several bottles before a steady cure was brought about.

The remedy referred to is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been on the market for over a quarter of a century and has been popularized on its merits, by one person telling another. The fact that its strongest supporters are women and elderly people—the ones most persistently constipated—makes it certain that the claims regarding it as a permanent cure for constipation have not been exaggerated.

It is not violent like cathartic pills, salts or waters, but operates gently, without griping and without shock to the system. It contains tonic properties that strengthen the stomach and the bowels so that in three medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with and nature is again solely relied on. Among the legions who testify to these facts are Mr. Jas. A. Lushman, Logan, Utah, and Josephine Estley, Sheridan, Wyo., and they always have a bottle of it in the house, for it is a reliable laxative for all a family from infancy to old age.

Anyone desiring to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

DICKENS' WIT AND WISDOM

Home a Word.
"Though home is a name, a word, it is a strong one; stronger than magic ever spoke, or spirit answered to in strongest conjuration."—Martin Chuzzlewit.

If we would make the word mean more than a peck on which to hang our affections, it would be a long step towards curing social evils. A home that is what it is meant to be, is more potent for good than all the churches in Christendom. It is the salvation of a nation.

Show me a land where the home has ceased to mean the abode of harmony and love, and has become a mere stopping place between social duties, and I will show you a decadent nation. It is not a place where a mother spends her days slaving for the rest of the family. It is not a place where the children make demands on mother and father while making no return.

A home worthy of the name is one where justice reigns. Think that over. How many men are strictly just in their relations to their families? How many women are fair in their dealings with those about them? How many children play the game with a strict observation of the rules of "give and take"?

Fathers who either tyrannize or are overindulgent by turns—mere money getters—mothers, who are nagging household drudges, and children steeped in selfishness are found on every side.

We are fond of saying that love makes a home. I do not believe it is the most potent factor for real happiness. Love may exact slavish obedience, and make sorry drudges of even the best loved.

No, it is not love that is the foundation of the happy home—it is justice first—and then love.

Both are necessary to ideal conditions, but love can be left out rather than justice.

PRESS AGENTS TALK OF THEIR SHOWS

Much Sought as a Star.

Marcus Kellerman, baritone soloist with the St. Paul Symphony orchestra which has started on its 2,000-mile spring trip on a special Great Northern train, will be one of the principals with the Metropolitan Opera company next season. Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the big New York company has tried to get Kellerman as one of his stars for a number of years, but the artist chose to remain in concert work, traveling with the Damrosch orchestra.

Kellerman, in spite of his German name is decidedly an American. He has great confidence in the American's future in the music world and thinks that the great singers and composers of the next 10 years will be Americans.

"The idea that grand operas cannot be sung in English is absolute rot," said Mr. Kellerman. "They can be sung in English as well as in German, French or Italian. Victor Herbert has proven this with his 'Natoma.' The American composer has not been given a chance. His work is just beginning to be recognized. The New York and Chicago opera companies have more Americans on their lists of singers than any other nationality and the list is constantly growing."

Kellerman is a protege of Charles P. Taft, brother of the president. It was Mr. Taft who heard Kellerman sing when he was a youngster in Cincinnati and immediately furnished the money to send him abroad for study. He will be heard in Missoula when the St. Paul Symphony fills its engagement here April 9.

An extraordinary program will be seen at this popular theater tonight and tomorrow night. The feature comedy picture will be headed by John Eltinge, the world's well-known female impersonator. He has traveled two seasons with Harry Linder.

Last season he was seen in "The Fascinating Widow." Mr. Eltinge was secured at an enormous salary to pose for several comedy pictures put out by the Pathe company.

The next comedy will be by the famous Edison company and an adaptation of Ethel Browning's series, "Lost Three Hours." This unique comedy, with just a touch of pathos, depicts the wit of a young wife. Her husband, "A Jolly good fellow," has a way of remaining at the club until wee sma' hours of the morning. His endeavors to deceive her as to the time reced, and as a result a new resolution is made and kept.

"A Visit to the Dome of the Milan Cathedral." This film is unsurpassed in delineating the marvelously beautiful architecture of the ancient cathedrals of Europe. All the delicate carvings is distinctly shown in a series of foreground views and the whole forms a picture of instruction and interest.

"The Turning Point" is an unequalled educational drama telling a heart's interest story of how a mother's picture prevented great

Feature Program Tonight and Thursday
A KALEM MASTERPIECE.
You Remember Ellen

You remember Ellen, our hamlet's pride, How meekly she blessed her humble lot, When the stranger, William, had made her his bride, And love was the light of their lowly cot. Together they toil'd through winds and rains, 'Till William, at length, in sadness said: "We must seek our fortunes on other plains; Then, sighing, she left her lowly shed."

They roam'd a long and weary way, Nor much was the maiden's heart at ease, When now, at the close of one stormy day, They see a proud castle among the trees. "Tonight," said the youth, "we'll shelter there; The wind blows cold, the hour is late." So he blew the horn with a chieftain's air, And the porter bow'd as they pass'd the gate.

"Now, welcome, lady!" exclaimed the youth, "This castle is thine, and these dark woods all!" She bled him crazed, but his words were truth. For Ellen is lady of Rosna Hall! And dearly the Lord of Rosna Hall loves What William, the stranger, would and wed; And the light of bliss, in lordly groves, Shines pure as it did in the lowly shed.

This pretty and quaint portrayal, adapted from the famous poem of Thomas Moore, and its appeal is through the delicate touches which denote superlative acting, masterly producing and picturesque settings.

In addition to this feature picture, three photoplays of the highest merit will be shown.

Fishing in Florida

Very interesting; showing the combined sport and industry of catching the monster 500-pound Jewfish of our southern coast. Always the Best. Music and Songs

"His Mexican Sweetheart" showing their only value is to satisfy vanity. It's a drama, with plenty of thought, told in a very pleasing manner.

"The Baby Tramp." This is a real fun-maker, introducing Weary Jake and Short Sam in some very comical mixups.

"Fishing in Florida" is a very interesting picture, graphically illustrating the combined sport and industry of catching the monster Jew fish of our southern coast. The fish often weigh upwards of 500 pounds and fight hard for life and liberty.

At the Bijou, a feature production by the Kalem company, will be presented tonight and Thursday at the Bijou. This pretty and quaint portrayal has been adapted from Thomas Moore's famous poem.

You will find this delightful subject entirely different from former dramas made in Ireland. Its appeal is through the delicate touches which denote superlative acting, masterly producing and picturesque backgrounds. Every scene in this production was made in Ireland. Perfect photography, beautiful scenery and strong heart interest make this Kalem masterpiece. In addition three photoplays will be presented.
