TEDDY STRIKES SOME HARD BLOWS

ments in this connection as in previous speeches.

Colonel Roosevelt's reference to the Ballinger-Pinchot case was his first extended discussion of the case in this campaign. He asserted that Mr. Taft supported Mr. Ballinger against every honest official in the interior department and especially against Gifford Pinchot and Louis Glavis.

Never Read Glavis Evidence.

"Glavis," he said, "put into the hands of the president a detailed report showing that the Cunningham claims were fraudulent, as everyone knew, and now admits that they were fraudulent. Taft did not read the evidence in the case and he actually placed the direction of the case in the hands of Ballinger and signed the letter prepared by Oscar Lawler, attorney in Ballinger's office, which whitewashed Ballinger from office."

Suppressed Papers.

"He deliberately suppressed the Lawler memorandum upon which his decision was based and sent to the senate in its place a brief signed by Attorney General Wickersham, dated two days prior to the president's decision of the case in September, which was about three months before it was actually prepared. It was afterward discovered and proven before the investigating committee by Louis J. Brandeis that this brief, put in evidence by the president before the senate of the United States as the basis of the decision rendered by the executive as judge in the Glavis-Ballinger case, was not in existence at the time Mr. Taft rendered his decision; that at that time Mr. Wickersham had not even read the evidence; that the brief had been written after Glavis had been returned to private life."

Taft Confident.

Springfield, Ohio, May 18.—Confident that his chances for capturing this state's delegation to the republican national convention have greatly improved since he crossed the Ohio river, last Monday, President Taft closed the week's campaigning with a speech here tonight.

When the president makes his last speech at Dayton, Monday night, he will have traveled about 2,000 miles in Ohio, will have spoken in every congressional district in the state and have visited 73 of its 77 counties. In his talks today to farmers in the counties along the eastern border from Lake Erie southward, the president's feeling of confidence was strengthened. He discussed Canadian reciprocity and Mr. Roosevelt's tariff revision proposals. He bluntly declared Mr. Roosevelt had changed his opinion in regard to reciprocity to get votes.

The president's opinion of Mr. Roosevelt's tariff reform ideas was said:

"Now that Roosevelt has finally come to answering a question on protection which he has avoided for years and years, he has reached a discovery. He is in favor of that kind of protection that will produce a profit in business so that most of it goes through the office down into the pay envelope of the wage employe. That is a very good kind of protection if you can get it."

"You can promise these things and say that is what you would like to have, but until he develops a statute which shall show you how he is to do it, you and I have a right to say 'That is all very well, that is painting something to sell, not to use.'"

LIVING COST DISCUSSED.

Spokane, May 18.—Discussion of the high cost of living, especially as applied to ministers, occupied much time of the general committee on missions of the United Presbyterian church of North America today. When the committee ceased its labors tonight it had considered 147 cases and granted aid to various churches amounting to $73,207. There are still many applications to be considered before the committee leaves on Tuesday for a visit to the Puget sound points. Many of the members of the committee will occupy local pulpits tomorrow.

E. B. CRAIGHEAD IS PRESIDENT ELECT

try, as far as I know, who can be moved."

Among the many letters and telegrams of recommendation sent to Mr. Hall by prominent educators, to whom he had appealed for information and opinion concerning his hope for the presidency, is the following, written by President George H. Denney of the University of Alabama:

"I am now writing to say to you that I believe President E. B. Craighead of Tulane university might be willing to consider the presidency of the university of Montana. I know of no better man in the country. He is by odds the ablest college president in the southern states and I would heartily congratulate the University of Montana if he can be secured."

"You may be surprised to know that President Craighead is willing to lay down the work at Tulane university and accept a position in Montana. His reason for so doing is precisely the reason that actuated me in leaving Washington and Lee to accept the presidency of the University of Alabama. That reason is the very simple fact that the state university has the right-of-way as far as the future is concerned."

"President Craighead is one of the best public speakers in the south. His work at Tulane has been nothing short of wonderful. He has executive ability of the first order. When he took hold of Tulane it was a scattered and clumsily adjusted institution of many separate and awkwardly related parts. He has hammered the institution into a single unit, given it a compact and effective organization, standardized the courses of study in the various departments and placed it among the leading institutions of the country."

"He has not only increased its endowment and resources, but he has elevated its standards and brought to the institution prestige and power. His work has been a marvel in many ways and I know that all of the college presidents of the south have wondered at the magnitude of his achievements at New Orleans."

"I have known President Craighead intimately and I can testify as to his high personal character as a man. I have never known a finer character. He is a man of attractive personality, of force, of decision, and of purpose. I believe that he will do for the University of Montana what he has done in such a splendid way for the Tulane university, and I believe he would accept the presidency of the University of Montana and rapidly bring it to the front as one of the foremost universities of the country."

A Long List.

Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell is among the long list of prominent university men of the United States who have endorsed Dr. Craighead. The following list of telegrams is taken from a great sheaf that forms part of the committee's files:

Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell: "I learn from Ithaca that you are considering Craighead of Tulane for the presidency of Montana university. He has done remarkable work at Tulane and as trustee of the Carnegie foundation. He has been progressive, judicious, wise and ready to co-operate with others. To get Tulane's president would advertise favorably Montana university."

O. C. Lester, professor of physics, University of Colorado: "I understand President E. B. Craighead is a candidate for the presidency of the University of Montana: May I be allowed to commend him to you most heartily? He is a noted educator, a man of commanding presence, of tried and proven executive ability; a thorough scholar, a splendid orator, genial in manner, tactful and a good mixer. Am sure Montana would be proud of him and that he would make the university one of the strongest in the west."

S. E. Mezes, president of the University of Texas: "Dr. E. B. Craighead in my judgment is a strong and sagacious executive, worth your careful consideration for the presidency of your state university. He is also a scholar, a gentleman, and an excellent public speaker. He makes our commencement address next June."

Edwin A. Alderman, University of Virginia: "I cordially endorse President Craighead for the presidency of Montana university. He is a man of large experience in the administration of private and state institutions. He has unusual ability as a public speaker and distinct talents for co-operation with men. He is energetic, scholarly and has a most agreeable personality."

Ridge Odell Lovett, president of Rice Institute: "As president of Rice Institute and former head professor at Princeton, I most cordially recommend Dr. Craighead of Tulane for the Montana presidency. He is an able administrator of successful experience, successively in normal school, technical institutes and university. He has a wide reputation. He is a charter trustee of the Carnegie foundation."

James K. Patterson, president of the University of Kentucky: "I commend to you Dr. Craighead, president of Tulane university, for president of the University of Montana. He is a man of eminent ability, scholarship and experienced administrative capacity, an excellent organizer, an eloquent speaker and a gentleman. He has doubled the resources and educational staff and buildings at Tulane."

Charles Foster Smith, professor of Greek, University of Wisconsin: "I recommend for Montana's president Dr. Craighead, a successful president successively of Clemson, Central Missouri Normal and Tulane. He is a great speaker."

R. W. Simpson of Clemson college: "I am and have been for years well acquainted with Dr. E. B. Craighead. He was president of Clemson college, South Carolina, for many years while I was president of the board of trustees. Dr. Craighead, in my judgment, is a very remarkable man. His many attainments will fit him to fill any position in any institution in the United States. His executive ability is unexcelled and he is the finest platform speaker I have ever heard. I was president of the board of trustees and chairman of the executive committee during all the period of the building and organization of Clemson college. Do not construe this as fulsome flattery. I have but expressed my honest convictions. Dr. Craighead was highly esteemed by all people in South Carolina."

Frank Thilley, Cornell university: "Montana university would be most fortunate in securing the services of Craighead of Tulane. As president at Warrenburg college, Missouri, Craighead's work won admiration of entire state. He has made Tulane the foremost university of the south and has gained a national reputation as a wise and strong administrator. He has a ripe educational experience, comprehensive and accurate knowledge of American and foreign universities, sound, clear judgment, great foresight and tact, is personally magnetic and a brilliant speaker and would make your university one of the greatest in the west."

A Ross Hill, president of University of Missouri: "President Craighead is an able scholar and administrator. He is a fine speaker, genial companion and progressive educator. He has good standing with educational leaders of the country and I believe Montana cannot equal him for university president. I recommend him."

His Life.

Edwin Boone Craighead was born at Ham's Prairie, Mo., March 3, 1851. He received his baccalaureate degree and, later that of master, at Central college. He pursued post-graduate studies at Vanderbilt in 1884 and 1885. The next two years were spent in special work at the universities of Leipzig and Paris. He was professor of Greek in Wofford college, North Carolina, from 1890 to 1893; the following three years he was president of the South Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical college; for four years he was at the head of Central college in Missouri and then, for three years was president of the state normal school of Missouri. Since 1904 he has been president of Tulane university of Louisiana.

It is of interest to know that Dr. Craighead is yet president of Tulane. He has not yet announced his leaving that institution for the University of Montana.

BIG EASTERN MEN TO EXTEND AID

Mayor Fred C. Busse, Judge Peter Grosscup, former United States Senator W. E. Mason and Attorney John Smiler, who defended the Standard Oil company. According to attorneys for the defense, some of the noted character witnesses from Chicago and elsewhere will be present in person at some time during the trial.

The greater part of the session was consumed in the re-examination of jurors already accepted as to their political bias.

The switch to politics as having an important bearing on the availability of talismen for jury duty in the case was brought up by the prosecution, in asking for permission to reopen the examination of Juror M. A. Cravath.

An Admirer of Job Harriman.

The juror was asked if he were not a great admirer of Job Harriman, recently socialist candidate for mayor of Los Angeles, and counsel with Darrow in the McNamara cases. He replied that he considered Harriman and "Bolt" La Follette the two greatest men in America.

"If it should appear that Mr. Harriman became implicated with the defendant, either slightly or more seriously, would your friendship for him influence your judgment?" was asked by Captain Fredericks.

The juror replied in the negative, saying that he did not know Harriman personally. Answers to other questions touching upon labor and capital resulted in a challenge for cause, which was resisted at length by the defense, but allowed by the court.

Chief Counsel Rogers of the defense then gained permission to re-examine the other jurors as to their political beliefs.

In Fairness to Harriman.

Before the conclusion of the session, Captain Fredericks announced he had not intended to convey the impression that Mr. Harriman would be involved in the case. State witnesses, he said, might refer to Harriman as having knowledge of the alleged jury corruption, but no attempt would be made, he said, to charge him with any offense. He said he made the statement in fairness to Mr. Harriman.

When all of the talesmen had been examined the prosecution announced it would exercise no peremptory challenge. The defense peremptorily challenged F. W. Taylor, a Los Angeles capitalist and former Chicago banker, and F. E. Cole, a fruit grower.

When the places vacated had been filled no more names remained on the panel and the court ordered a special venire of 10, returnable Monday afternoon.

Chills and Malaria

Mississippi's malarial regions held no terrors for Mr. R. B. Powell, so long as he used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as directed.

It is hard to conceive of a man improving in health and appearance where so many had malaria. Read the experience of R. B. Powell, who kept himself free from malaria, chills and fever while in the most infected sections of the United States.

"Twelve years ago my business brought me to the Mississippi bottoms. I had just recovered from a long spell of sickness and I feared I would not be able to withstand another attack. I found much chills and malaria fever among the people and it was impressed upon me that I must take something to keep my system in such good condition that disease would not be able to gain a foothold, or I could not stay in the bottoms. I purchased a case of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and began using it as directed. I soon found it so thoroughly agreed with me and so assisted in digesting everything I ate that I never had any use for any other medicines. I improved so much in the malaria district that when I came home my best friends scarcely knew me. I have kept Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in my home since and though I am now 58 years of age, can do as much hard work as any man. I sincerely recommend it to all my friends." R. B. Powell, 923 East 9th St., Little Rock, Ark.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

STANDARD OF PURITY AND EXCELLENCE SINCE 1860

aids and improves digestion. Therein lies one of the most important reasons why it is so valuable. All the nourishment in the food eaten is assimilated and taken into the blood and the whole system, in consequence, becomes stronger and more able to ward off disease. Instead of the body being an easy victim to sickness, it gains in strength and vigor.

Prescribed by doctors, used in hospitals, and recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war.

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY—never in bulk, by druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct.

If your dealer cannot supply you, write us, and we will tell you where it can be bought. Medical booklet and doctor's advice free on application.

New Drug That Quickly Removes These Homely Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as a new drug, othine—double strength, has been discovered that positively removes these homely spots. Simply get one ounce of othine—double strength, from any first-class druggist in the city of Missoula and apply a little of it at night, and in the morning you will see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of
