

CONDEMNATION SUIT POSTPONED

FIGHT FOR LAND FOR KOOTENAI POWER SITE IS PUT OFF UNTIL FALL.

Libby, Aug. 8.—(Special.)—The Kootenai falls condemnation case, in which the Kootenai Power Construction company is seeking to condemn certain land owned by the Great Northern railway and others in order that it may be used in the development of the big power project there, has been continued by Judge J. E. Erickson until September 15. Some of the land that is sought to be condemned is within the Great Northern's right-of-way. The railroad track runs quite close to the falls and the power company claims that a part of the right-of-way is necessary in the proper development of the project that is now under way.

Pending the settlement of the case, work on the project is to go ahead, it is understood, and will be completed probably in something less than two years. A small force of men has been working at the power site during the past week and engineers are at work in the field that it is proposed to cover.

that no foreign-built ship admitted to American registry should be allowed to participate in mail-carrying contracts unless it was constructed with particular reference to speedy and economical conversion into an auxiliary naval cruiser.

A somewhat similar restriction was made upon granting of the free toll privilege to American vessels engaged in foreign trade. The provision adopted by the senate specified that owners of vessels engaged in foreign trade must agree to sell their ships to the United States in time of war or other emergencies in order to be exempt from the payment of tolls when passing through the canal.

The subject of railroad-controlled ships brought out a defense of the house bill by Senators Clapp, Poindecker and others. Chairman Clapp of the interstate commerce committee, said some regulation must be enacted to separate definitely the railroads and the steamship lines. The suggestion that the Canadian Pacific railway might be able to operate its ships through the canal while American railway-owned ships would be prohibited, had been brought up, he said, for the purpose of clouding the real issue.

Senator Lippitt of Rhode Island, said that co-operation between railroads and steamship companies had benefited New England and that the people of his state did not join in the general denunciation of the railroad lines and their steamer connections. He denied charges that had been made that the New York, New Haven & Hartford railway controlled all the Long Island Sound steamer lines. A greater portion of these freight-carrying steamers, he said, were independent of the control of that railway.

COAL MINERS WANT RAISE.

Sheridan, Wyo., Aug. 8.—Arrangements were completed today for a conference between the operators and miners of northern Wyoming at Sheridan August 16, to determine a new wage scale and working agreement, starting September 1, the date of the expiration of the old contract. The miners will hold their convention here on Tuesday and about 25 delegates from 10 unions will be present. District officers and the executive committee of the miners will aid in the deliberations. A committee representing the miners then will be appointed to meet with the operators' committee and present the mine workers' demands.

BUNKER HILL WINS INJUNCTION

CALEDONIA COMPANY IS RESTRAINED FROM CONDUCTING ITS OPERATIONS.

Mullan, Aug. 8.—(Special.)—In the case of the Bunker Hill and Hullivan company against the Caledonia company, involving apex rights, at Wardner, Federal Judge F. S. Deltrich has handed down a decision restraining the Caledonia company from operating its property, except under certain conditions, until settlement of the suit now pending in the courts between the two companies. The case may come up this fall and it may be delayed until spring. As a result of the court's order the Caledonia has been closed and ore shipments stopped. About 55 men were employed at the mine. In handing down the restraining order, the court agreed to permit such developments work as would assist the defendant company to demonstrate its case, and ore actually encountered in this work might be shipped, and the net smelter returns, less $7.50 for mining, deposited in the First National bank of Wallace, pending settlement of the case. Charles McKinnis, manager of the Caledonia, states that his company will not work under such restrictions, and that the mine will remain closed until the case is settled or the restraining order withdrawn. According to Mr. McKinnis, there is no truth in the story that the case would be settled out of court. "The only way this case can be settled out of court," he says, "is for the Bunker Hill to withdraw its action." The dispute is over the apex rights on the Caledonia vein, both companies claiming the surface on which the vein outcrops. Many people believe the suit has been started as a means of lowering the market value of the Caledonia stock.

The Ajax property near the Hercules at Burke, has encountered a heavy flow of water in the lower tunnel, 2,400 feet from the portal.

Just Gede has sued the Bear Top Orofino company for $5,100 for the loss of a thumb, resulting from injuries alleged to have been received when he was in the employ of that company.

The auxiliary power plant on Prospect creek, near Thompson Falls, is now in process of building. Thirty-three men are employed at the work, which is expected to be completed early this fall. The first property to receive power from the new plant will be the Iron Mountain company at Superior. Nearly all the machinery is on the ground for the plant, which is being built primarily for the purpose of furnishing power for the work of erecting the larger plant at Thompson Falls.

The Bullion property at Borax, east of Mullan, has made an excellent showing in a raise from the lower tunnel during the past week. The work now shows about 18 inches wide of clean copper ore, which will run about 15 per cent.

The Hecla mine at Burke is reported to be producing $115,000 per month and it is also common report that the company will increase its dividends to $30,000 per month.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES FOR NEW YORK HOME

selected the four women to serve on the national committee of the new party.

A Great Convention.

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 8.—The showing made by the first national convention of the progressive party, Colonel Roosevelt said tonight on his way to Oyster Bay, was one that would give the country a new impression of the strength of the movement and lend impetus at the outset to the campaign. "It was a great week," said the colonel. "It was a great convention." When the movement to form a new party was started, he continued, many men who had led the fight against him in the republican convention said no progressive convention would be held or that if one were held, it would be a failure. By this time, he thought, they probably had changed their minds and realized they had made a mistake in what they had done in the republican convention. Even the leaders in the new party, he said, were surprised at the size and character of the convention.

In the new party, Colonel Roosevelt said, he would have opportunities which he could not have had in the republican organization. He referred to the progressive platform as containing planks which he desired, but could not have had in the republican platform had he been the nominee of that party. Mr. Roosevelt said he had read Woodrow Wilson's speech of yesterday, but declined to comment on it. The colonel will go at once to Oyster Bay on his arrival in New York to rest a few days before his campaign trips begin. When his train reached Elkhart, Ind., several hundred persons were at the station. They gave the colonel such a noisy welcome that, although he tried several times to begin a speech, he could not make himself heard. So he spent the time in shaking hands with those who crowded about his car, singling out the children for special attention. "These little fellows will grow up some day," he said.

TO THE JURY TODAY.

Helena, Aug. 8.—(Special.)—The case against Mrs. Anna Vollin, charged with introducing whisky on the Fort Peck reservation will go to the jury tomorrow. Testimony was introduced today tending to show that after a convivial evening in Culbertson, Mrs. Vollin slipped three flasks of whisky into her suitcase and took them with her on the reservation, where she lives.
