

SOCIETY

Socially the most quiet of all the year thus far has been the week just passed. But the lack of formal functions has not dimmed the brightness of the social atmosphere. It is the time of harvest, when young and old make haste to gather in all the rest and recreation that is vacation's due. "Only two more weeks before school begins," the young people say and then plan for one or two more little jaunts out into the mountains, while their elders get away for a week or two on the Pacific coast. In many instances all the members of the family go together, camping and visiting. In any event, the quietude of these weeks is not dullness, but delightful rest.

Complimenting Mrs. Ellison.

Mrs. J. M. Keith entertained delightfully at bridge Friday afternoon in compliment to Mrs. E. H. Ellison of Minneapolis, who is visiting Mrs. E. T. Sterling. ### Married in Idaho.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Park are in Missoula for a few days visiting in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Matheson and receiving congratulations from those of their friends who heard of their marriage last Wednesday in St. Anthony, Idaho. Mrs. Park was before her marriage Miss Louise Stahl, well known and liked in this city. The wedding was solemnized at 8 o'clock in the evening of August 14, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Frok at St. Anthony. The ring ceremony was used. Mrs. J. S. Matheson of this city was matron of honor and P. S. Park was groomsmen. A profusion of pink and white carnations and marshall Neil roses adorned the house and the table where was served an elaborate wedding supper after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Park will return Friday to St. Anthony, where they will make their home on Mr. Park's ranch.

An Apron Shower.

Miss Estella Watters asked a number of young ladies to Mrs. McTaggart's home on Toole avenue Thursday evening in honor of Miss Elsie Herweg in anticipation of her housekeeping needs in the near future. There were dainty little white creations for fancy work and afternoon tea and big gingham envelopes for kitchen and laundry service, each apron carrying a message of love and each one greatly appreciated by the recipient. A part of the evening's entertainment was the tying of a comforter for Miss Herweg's housekeeping outfit. The young ladies raced to see who should have the honor of placing the last stitch in the comforter, and after a lively contest Miss Anna Reily won the honor, which carries with it the prophecy that she will be the next one of those present to be married. Mrs. Robert McTaggart, the hostess, was assisted in serving delicious refreshments by Mesdames Gallagher, Kelley and Alcorn. Miss Freda Heckler added greatly to the pleasure of the evening by her music. Those present were: Misses Elsie and Edith Herweg, Leona LaGrandeur, Freda Heckler, Katherine and Florence Gallagher, Anna Reily, May Denny, Miss Kelley of Toronto, Canada, and Miss Estella Watters.

Bring the Children to Be Photographed

The Ingalls gallery has a reputation for the photography of children that has been deserved by the merit of its work. The hobby of the gallery is child portraiture. Here a child's nature is understood, humored. The pictures obtained show the child at its ease, not in assumed, unchildlike pose. We study the children's moods and take the proper picture at a time when the most childlike, natural pose is assumed. Let us demonstrate our ability in this line of photography. We are sure we can interest and satisfy you.
