BURNS' STORY RELATED IN COURT

one more witness for the government will be called on Monday and then the government will rest its case.

Threats of death for telling about explosions were related by Mrs. Alta M. Hawkins. Mrs. Hawkins, attended by a nurse and suffering from injuries received in a recent shooting, was carried into court on a cot.

Mrs. Hawkins testified that a day before the explosion that caused a loss of $15,000 on the property of Albert von Spreckels in Indianapolis in 1909, she was told by Ernest G. W. Busey, an ironworker union official, that something was going to happen on jobs where non-union workers were employed.

"He told me to look in the newspapers the next day and read about it," said Mrs. Hawkins. "In the papers I saw nothing. Then he told me it did not come off that night but to watch the next night. I did, and about midnight heard the explosion. Busey called me up on the telephone and told me I must keep my mouth shut. He said if I didn't I would be killed."

The witness said she was shot several weeks ago while hunting.

Raymond J. Burns, who said he knew the identity of the Los Angeles Times dynamite five months before the arrest, told today of more conversations he had had with Herbert S. Hockin. Burns described Hockin as a "spy" within the ranks of the union officials.

"In February, 1911, Hockin again met me in Chicago," said Burns. "I inquired for details about the Los Angeles explosion. Hockin said he had learned that Olaf A. Tveitmoe of San Francisco was paying money to M. A. Schmidt and through Ed Nockels, a union official in Chicago. Tveitmoe himself was taking care of David Caplan. Caplan and Schmidt were the ones who, Hockin said, had helped J. B. McNamara to blow up the Times building."

"Hockin also stated that in the previous November J. J. McNamara had met Tveitmoe at St. Louis when it was arranged for three more explosions in Los Angeles. The next month I told Hockin there had been some other explosions about the country and I asked him about them. He said he knew nothing of them."

Raymond Burns also described "shadowing" J. B. McNamara and McManigal to Toledo and Detroit, where he with three other detectives arrested the dynamiters on April 12, 1911.

"When Hockin told you Tveitmoe and Ahton Johannsen were planning to blow up W. J. Burns in San Francisco or Seattle by putting a bomb in his room, did Hockin tell you the source of his information?" asked Attorney William N. Harding for the defense.

"Hockin told me he had learned from J. J. McNamara that they were planning to get rid of W. J. Burns on the Pacific coast. W. J. then was on the coast investigating the Times explosion."

Burns next related how he "lost" McNamara who meantime had caused another explosion at Los Angeles and how James B. McNamara had "covered up his tracks."

Afterward the witness said the workers and detectives for weeks watched who "connected with" J. J. McNamara.

"You say you knew early in November that the man in the Wisconsin woods shadowed by your men was the dynamiter of the Times building? Why didn't you arrest McNamara right there and then?" asked Attorney Harding.

"Because we were trying to get the men really responsible for the explosion," answered the witness.

"You mean men higher up in the union?"

"Yes, sir."

"You say you knew that Ortle E. McManigal caused explosions at Peoria. Why didn't you arrest McManigal?"

"For the same reason. We were after the men higher up."

Coughing at Night.

One bad cough can keep the whole family awake at night. Phil Disor-neau, Schaffer, Mich., says: "I could not sleep on account of a bad cough, and I was very weak. I used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and soon the cough left and I slept soundly all night." Missoula Drug Co.--Adv.

REPRESENTATIVES TO SIGN ARMISTICE TODAY

become the storm center of a bitter controversy. In a speech early in the week he declared that the territorial force, which in England is the second line of defense, was a total failure, that it was more than 30,000 short of its normal strength and was largely composed of youths. He invited the officers to admit that it does not satisfy the country's vital needs.

Viscount Haldane, the former secretary of war, who is the father of the scheme, replied that Lord Roberts was a great soldier, but failed to grasp the problem of statesmanship involved.

The liberal party generally opposes increased military expenditures. The report that the Indian princes are making a great naval contribution of dreadnoughts and cruisers has not been confirmed. The project apparently is only under discussion.

The conservative members hail it with praise, but the liberal press shows lukewarmness, particularly if it should involve increased taxation to the Indian peasant.

Protocol Ready.

Constantinople, Nov. 30.--The cabinet has approved the protocol of an armistice which will be signed at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. An trade has been issued sanctioning the protocol.

The armistice will be signed by the Turks on the one hand and the Bulgarians on the other in behalf of the four allies. Thus it will apply not merely to the Tchatalja lines and Adrianople, but to all Turkey in Europe.

The armistice will last as long as the preliminary negotiations for peace continue.

It is stipulated that the position of the belligerents remain exactly as at the time of signature.

Up to the present, there have been no pour parlers on the subject of the terms of peace. Therefore statements with reference to the fate of Adrianople and the demarcation of new frontiers are unfounded.

At the Dardanelles.

Athens, Nov. 30.--The Bulgarian army, which left Saloniki on board 19 Greek transports, has landed at Dardagatch.

The Seventh division of the Bulgarian troops were shipped aboard the Greek transports at Saloniki several days ago. According to dispatches at that time, they were bound for Gallipoli peninsula, where Turkey also was strengthening her forces by Anatolian troops. An attempt was contemplated by the allies, assisted by the Greek fleet, to take the Dardanelles. Sofia dispatches on November 2 announced that the Bulgarian troops had occupied Dardagatch.

This is the first news of the transports since they sailed from Saloniki and the possibility of the signing of an armistice has given rise to concern as to how they should be disposed of.
