MILITANT SUFFRAGETTES BEGIN CAMPAIGN OF VIOLENCE AND DESTRUCTION.

THEY ALLEGE CONSPIRACY

Say There Was a Plot to Withdraw Franchise Bill—Big Batch Tries to Force Way into Parliament Buildings and Lands in Jail—Young Men Try to Duck Warlike Squad.

London, Jan. 28.—As a protest against the withdrawal of the franchise bill by the government, the suffragettes resumed their militant tactics tonight. While a deputa-tion, which the chancellor of the exchequer, David Lloyd-George, had refused to see until tomorrow, was trying to force its way into parliament, against an overwhelming force of police, and the members were being placed under arrest for resisting the officers, other bands of women went through Whitehall breaking windows of the government offices, and through Cockspur street, where the great plateglass windows in the establishments of shipping companies were ruthlessly smashed.

The women also visited Oxford, Regent and other streets in the shopping district, where some damage was done. Later, mail boxes were attacked, quantities of liquid being poured into them.

Many Arrested. In the suburbs, too, the suffragettes, by damaging property, took steps to bring their cause before the public. Twenty-one women were arrested in the vicinity of the parliament building, but were allowed out on bail after the house adjourned. Most of the police stations had one or more women prisoners charged with destroying property.

The demonstration in Whitehall was not so large as some of them previously held, the force of police and the drenching rain militating against any great demonstration. The wildest excitement prevailed, however, and besides protecting property and arresting women engaged in window-smashing or who refused to move on when ordered, the police had the greatest difficulty in protecting the women from an unruly crowd of youths, who hustled every woman wearing the suffragette colors.

Roughly Handled. In several instances the women were roughly handled. An attempt to duck four women in Teafarlane square was frustrated by a police posse, which had to ride through the crowd.

The entire deputa-tion of 21 women who attempted to make their way into the house of commons to interview Chancellor Lloyd-George was arrested. The prisoners included Mrs. Drummond and Sylvia Pankhurst, who marched in front. Before starting on their mission, the delegates listened to Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and other leaders.

DRAFT WHAT THEY SAY IS THEIR LAST NOTE AND WILL RESUME THE WAR.

POWERS MAY PREVAIL

Some of the Balkan Delegates Believe They Should Await Turkey's Reply to Ukase of the European Countries' Ambassadors—Possibly It is Just Another Bluff.

London, Jan. 28.—With the presentation of their note to the Turkish delegation, the date for which, however, has not yet been fixed, some of the Balkan delegates consider that their mission in London will be ended. The Greek premier, Eleutherios Venizelos, announced tonight that he would leave before the end of the week and the others within the next few days. The financial advisers and military officers attached to the Bulgarian delegation will start for home tomorrow.

Despite this, the diplomats have not given up hope and many still think the Balkan note is another attempt to exercise pressure on Turkey and that the allies really intend to await the answer of the new Turkish cabinet to the joint note of Europe, a course which the powers always have advised.

"Another day lost," exclaimed those who believe that the only solution is to be found in the resumption of hostilities, when the meeting of the delegates of the four allied nations adjourned this afternoon.

"Another day gained," retorted those who believe that peace is to be reached by postponing extreme measures. The meeting of the allies lasted five hours. The delegates reviewed the whole situation and debated both sides of the question—the resumption of the war and the policy of delay, trusting to time to solve the difficulties. The head of each delegate reported the conversation he had with Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, and reference was made again to the advice to the ambassadors to observe prudence and moderation. This greatly strengthened the arguments of that section favoring procrastination, their view being that after the powers' note to Turkey, which was in favor of terms of the allies, if the latter continued to follow Europe's advice, Europe would continue to give its support.

The note was left with Stojan Novakovich, head of the Serbian delegation, the delegates "entrusting him to choose an opportune moment for its presentation." Some believe that he will present it tomorrow. Others are of the opinion that this particular form was adopted with the object of avoiding an immediate rupture and giving Turkey time to reply to the powers.

Drafting a Reply. Constantinople, Jan. 28.—Officials of the foreign office are engaged in drafting in French the text of Turkey's reply to the joint note of the European powers. It is expected the reply will be ready tomorrow.

Rockefeller Can Talk

WILLIAM G. ROCKEFELLER.

William G. Rockefeller, Wall street financier and brother of the Standard oil magnate, who so successfully eluded the process servers of the Pujio investigating committee for several weeks, was not so lucky in his attempt to escape from the camera man. The picture was taken at Palm Beach, Florida, a few days ago. Rockefeller still insists that his voice is too weak to permit him to talk to the money trust investigating committee, but at Palm Beach he has been seen daily conversing with his wife and son. His voice is low and husky.

BODIES OF BOGART AND PETERSON ARE FOUND IN CABIN UNDER SLIDE

Asleep in their bunks and dreaming not of danger, were David D. Bogart and his companion, Joe Peterson, of Salt Lake, when they met death from an avalanche of snow which crashed down upon their cabin on the mining claim six miles from the town where they had been working. "That was the manner of their death was definitely determined yesterday when a rescue party of 10 found the bodies of the two men whose death was reported in yesterday's Missoulian. How Dave Bogart and his companion died is known and this much has relieved the suspense under which the brother, Frank Bogart, of Helena, and many friends have been laboring since the first came that both men had probably perished. Very little is known of Joe Peterson. He and Mr. Bogart were well acquainted and had often worked together, but no one could be found in Salt Lake yesterday who knew anything of Peterson's history or of his relatives.

The first news of the finding of the bodies reached Missoula yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock when Coroner Marsh received a telephone message to that effect. Late last night the details of the day's search were given over the phone by Frank Bogart who went to Salt Lake from here yesterday. The searching party made an early start yesterday morning and reached the scene of the snow slide before noon. After searching through the mass of snow and timber and earth brought down by the avalanche, the cabin was discovered. Its roof had been entirely carried away and the interior of the room was packed with snow with the exception of the corner where the men were bunking. Here an open space had been left. Both men were undressed and in bed. The bodies were not situated in the least and it is the opinion of those who made the investigation that death came from suffocation, the heat and smoke from the stove in the cabin probably having assisted in this process. Just when the men met death will perhaps never be known. They left Salt Lake December 6. Dave Bogart protesting that the weather was unfit for such a trip, but being urged on by members of the mining company, who wished to be represented on their claims. The miners were never heard from since that time. The condition of the snow shows between three and four feet of new snow above the crust of the old slide. This led the searchers to believe that the men have been dead from three to four weeks.

Today's Plans. This morning Frank Bogart will leave Salt Lake with 20 men to bring out the bodies. The members of the party will work in relays and it is thought that both bodies can be brought to Salt Lake before night. Coroner Marsh will leave for Salt Lake this noon and prepare the bodies for shipment to Missoula Thursday. Dave Bogart will be buried here, but funeral arrangements were not completed last night.

HOUSE DIVIDED ON FILIPINO QUESTION

REPRESENTATIVE JONES MAKES SERIOUS CHARGES AS TO ADMINISTRATION.

SAYS LUXURY PREVAILS

American Rulers Alleged to Move Capital in Summer to ResPt Specially Equipped — Representative Murray Resents Allegation of Graft Against Governor-General.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Division that exists within democratic ranks over granting independence to the Philippines was emphasized in the house today when the American administration in the islands was made the subject of a severe attack by Representative W. A. Jones of Virginia, chairman of the house committee on insular affairs.

Representative Jones' suggestions for Philippine independence, which have been considered favorably by President Wilson, were opposed by Representative Murray (democrat) of Kentucky, while criticism of President Taft and Governor General Cameron Forbes brought a sharp reply from Representative Murray (democrat) of Massachusetts.

The speech of Mr. Jones was both a demand for independence and a severe arraignment of the administration in the Philippines.

Representative Murray charged him with having "slandered Cameron Forbes" and "defamed President Taft."

Denied. Mr. Jones denied these charges, but insisted the administration of the islands had violated the spirit at least of the laws governing the Philippines.

The dispute brought out the fact that an investigation of Philippine affairs recently had been discussed by the house committee on insular affairs, but no action taken.

Representative Murray, a member of the committee, declared that had he known Chairman Jones intended to "charge Governor Forbes with being a 'graffer'" he would have insisted on having Governor Forbes brought before the committee where he could reply to the attacks.

"I have not charged Governor Forbes with being a grafter," retorted Mr. Jones.

"You have been muttering unjust to him in the speech you have made," said Mr. Murray.

Mr. Murray further declared many members of the insular committee were "wondering whether it is wise to submit the resolution of the party to the support of the Jones bill, which would give the Philippines independence in eight years. He declared the United States should not withdraw from the Philippines until it had made treaty of neutrality with other nations, so Japan could not seize the islands.

"I shall undertake to prove," said Mr. Jones "that the government which the United States has forced upon the Philippines and under the domination of which they are forced to live, is oligarchy of the intolerable, despotic and unscrupulous character."

"Twice the legislature had failed to pass supply bills," Mr. Jones said, "because the lower branch had insisted upon reducing the salaries of members of the Philippine commission, and because the commission refused upon its right to appropriate large sums for the Benguet road, a highway built at a cost of several million dollars through a mountain gorge to a resort called Baguio, to which the government is transferred from Manila, several months each year."

In Luxury. There, he continued, United States officials had handsome homes, clubs, houses, polo grounds and other sources of amusement and recreation.

He charged that when the supply bills failed, the governor general ordered the appropriation of sums equal to the total appropriations for the previous years.

"Nothing that our government has done in the Philippines," he added, "has aroused more feeling and created more resentment on the part of the helpless Filipinos. It has shaken, if not destroyed, the confidence of the Filipino people in the United States in justice and fair-dealing, and has removed every vestige of sentiment which may have existed in favor of United States annexation."

HELEN TAFT FIGURES IN A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

HORSE OF MISS MARTHA BOWERS BECOMES UNMANAGEABLE AND RIDER IS HURT.

Washington, Jan. 28.—When horseback riding late today with Miss Helen Taft, daughter of the president, and two other companions, Miss Martha Bowers, daughter of the late Solicitor General Lloyd Bowers, was thrown from her mount and had her right arm broken. Her horse was instantly killed through a collision with a street car.

Miss Taft and the others escaped injury.

The party was riding down a steep hill when Miss Bowers' horse became unmanageable and dashed away at breakneck speed. At the foot of the hill, which was in the fashionable part of the city, the horse ran into a street car, throwing Miss Bowers violently to the pavement.

Aided by Miss Taft, Miss Bowers was carried to a nearby physician's office.

Miss Taft immediately telephoned for the White House automobile, and rode to the hospital with Miss Bowers. The president's daughter saw to it that everything possible was done to relieve the suffering of her friend. Physicians made a careful examination of Miss Bowers' injuries, and found that in addition to a double fracture of the right forearm, she had sustained lacerations of the scalp and bruises about the body. It was said tonight that Miss Bowers was resting comfortably.

FRAUD? Austin, Texas, Jan. 28.—An investigation of the report that "through mistake or fraud," the state of Texas had 4,000,000 acres of land to a Chicago syndicate which erected the state capitol, instead of the 3,000,000 acres provided for in the contract, was ordered by the lower house of the Texas legislature yesterday. The state capitol was erected by a syndicate known as the Capital syndicate and also as the Farwell syndicate.

(Staff Correspondence.) Helena, Jan. 28.—The house today finally passed the Drinkard anti-lobbying bill, by a vote of 41 to 28, thus preserving the previous alignment between the progressive and anti-progressive membership of the body. There was a great deal of oratory by the opponents of the bill, in an endeavor to defer the issue, but the friends of the measure refused to be beguiled. Representative Drinkard made a robust talk and plainly intimated that members who wanted to vote right on measures affecting the people had only to watch how the members from Silver Bow voted and then to line up on the other side.
