DONKEY SOARS IN GLEEFUL TRIUMPH

UNDERWOOD BILL PASSES TO THE SENATE AND DEMOCRATS CELEBRATE A BIT.

ONLY FAINT APPLAUSE

Parties Are Divided on Final Vote, but Majority is Overwhelming and as Good as the Bill is Passed the House Lays Off for Rest of Month to Give the Senate a Chance.

Washington, May 8.—The Underwood tariff bill, proclaimed by the democratic party as the answer to its platform pledge to reduce the tariff downward, was passed by the house late today. The vote was 281 to 139, five democrats voting against the bill and two republicans voting for it. Four progressives supported the measure and 14 opposed it, while one independent progressive joined with the majority.

When Speaker Clark announced the vote in loud tones that revealed his satisfaction, exuberant democrats started a stifled democratic donkey over the heads of their colleagues in the rear of the chamber. A faint ripple of applause followed and the gavel fell on the first chapter in the history of President Wilson's extra session of congress.

With the bill on its way to the senate, there was a rush of representatives to their homes tonight. In the house adjournment will be taken three days at a time beginning next week, until June 1.

Republicans and progressives, led respectively by Representatives Mann and Muddock, protested to the last against the measure, the lowest tariff bill ever written, and proclaiming, as the democratic avalanche bowed them over, the virtues of different tariff commission plans.

Mixed Vote. The republicans who voted for the bill were Carey and Stanford of Wisconsin.

The democrats who opposed it were Broussard, Deane, Leary and Morgan of Louisiana, and C. B. Smith of New York. Progressives who voted for the bill were Kelley and Ruple of Pennsylvania, Nolan of California and Bryan of Washington.

Minority Leader Mann made a lengthy speech on a point of order by Mr. Underwood to rule out a provision for a tariff board on the motion of Representative Payne of New York to re-commit the bill.

MYSTERY SHROUDS TRAGEDY OF A MURDER AND SUICIDE ON RESERVATION HOMESTEAD

H. A. Wellington is dead, his wife is so seriously wounded that she can hardly survive, a 14-year-old boy is critically hurt and their assailant, H. A. Stansky, is dead from a self-inflicted shot through the head, at the Wellington farm, three and a half miles from Dixon, on the Flathead reservation.

Mrs. Wellington was in such weakened condition that she was unable to talk coherently, but she managed to tell of the tragedy at her home, though she gave no intimation that she knew aught of the identity of the man who had done the shooting.

The theory at Dixon is that Stansky was a rejected suitor of Mrs. Wellington, but there is nothing to substantiate this more than that all parties came from the east.

OFFER TO HELP WILSON

New York Editor Tells a Pretty Story of His Last Visit With Financier to Illustrate the Latter's Staunch Patriotism and Utter Willingness to Devote His Resources to Country.

New York, May 8.—"When you see Mr. Wilson tell him for me that if ever there should come a time when he thinks any influence or resources that I have can be used for the country, they are wholly at his disposal."

"The election had taken place, the inevitable had happened, and using Speaker Cannon's phrase, Mr. Wilson had become Mr. Morgan's president as much as mine—perhaps, in fact, a little more.

"Suddenly turning those piercing eyes on me, Mr. Morgan said: 'Do you remember that American speech you made in London?'"

"I remembered very well. It was not a speech—only a few remarks at the close of a private dinner in reply to an anglicized sycophant who had mistakenly thought to curry favor with Mr. Morgan by speaking contemptuously of Mr. Bryan, who, on the preceding day, as it happened, I had introduced to him at a reception."

"And do you recall," he asked, "those lines from Scott that you quoted when that man—I can hear now the emphasis upon those two words—when that man had left the room?"

"Half a minute, gentlemen, is a long time, but for fully that period, I should say, Mr. Morgan sat perfectly still. Then, unconsciously, beating time upon the arm of his chair as he used to do in church, he repeated as if soliloquizing: 'Who never to himself hath said 'This is my own, my native land.'"
