

TENNIS PRACTICES ARE SPOILED BY RAIN

HAMILTON CRACKS UNABLE TO CONDITION THEMSELVES FOR COMING TOURNEY.

Hamilton, June 26.—(Special.)—The local tennis players who will meet the Bitter Root Inn racket wielders on the Inn courts on Sunday, are having an exciting time dodging showers in an effort to get into condition for the grueling games. The showers delay just long enough to encourage the players sufficiently to get them onto the courts. When the net is stretched and everything ready for practice the deluge comes and practice is postponed. In spite of these handicaps fragmentary periods of practice are allowed each day. The rain showers have been sufficient in number to worry the most sanguine, but other things have intervened. Draper Bartlett dodged a shower last evening and was just getting warmed up when a messenger appeared at the courts to inform him that one of his horses had the colic. A veterinary was hurried to the Bartlett home and had just succeeded in relieving the suffering horse when another shower put in an appearance. In spite of little practice this week the local club will send good representatives to the Inn on Sunday and it will take some good tennis to defeat them. M. A. White and Draper Bartlett will compose one team for doubles, George Dick and W. N. Hassler the other. The same men will also appear in singles. McHenry (grafton), John Gravelle and others may show in singles if enough games are played. The games are scheduled to start at 10 o'clock.

HAMILTON ANGLER CATCHES LARGE TROUT

VALLEY FISHERMAN GRABS BIG BULL TROUT, TWENTY-EIGHT INCHES IN LENGTH.

Hamilton, June 26.—(Special.)—Nels Hawkins of this city created considerable excitement on the streets this noon when he appeared with a monstrous bull trout which he pulled out of the Bitter Root river this morning. The fish was caught directly below the mill dam and weighed eight and a quarter pounds, and measured 28 inches in length. The fish was landed with an ordinary pole and line, considerable time being consumed in getting the fish onto land. Some time ago The Missoulian told of a large bull trout that makes its home below the dam, and of continued warfare against the fish by local fishermen. The big catch of today caused many to ask if Hawkins' trout is the "big one." Several anglers, who have met the "big one," in one way or another, declare that it is not, stating that there is a bull trout below the dam that could swallow such a small fry. Nevertheless, the fish caught today by Hawkins is the biggest one seen on local streets in some time.

MOREAUX IS SUED BY VALLEY RANCHER

Hamilton, June 26.—(Special.)—Suit has been started in the district court by David D. Adams against A. T. Moreaux, the action being for the purpose of annulling a deed. The complaint alleges that a tract of land was sold by the plaintiff to the defendant, Moreaux giving him a note for $500 and a mortgage on the property for $200. The complaint further alleges that Moreaux represented to the plaintiff that he was interested in the Bass-Thousand-acre ranch and had also bought the May ranch and was well fixed financially, when, as a matter of fact, he was insolvent at the time, his note, as a result, being worthless.

CORVALLIS NOTES

Corvallis, June 26.—Miss Frances Myers entertained Wednesday afternoon at a towel shower for Miss Martha Booth Porter, whose marriage to Rev. R. L. Lewis will occur next week. A profusion of yellow and white flowers, ferns and vines were used in decorating the rooms, and the same color scheme, yellow and white, was carried out in the dainty menu of the luncheon. In a contest of forming words from the bride-to-be's name, Miss Ethel Van Vleet won first prize. At the conclusion of the delightful afternoon the guest of honor was presented with a neat hand-made book, containing a favorite recipe from each guest. Those invited; Misses Mabel and Hazel Whitesitt, Ona Martin, Kathryn Rawlins, Hazel Boyer, Ada Johnson, Myrtle Naughton, Marguerite Bohler, Lorene Chaffin, Florence Har, Pauline Cummings, Ethel Van Vleet, Mrs. Alvin Whitesitt, Mrs. M. E. Robbins, Mrs. Lee Simmons and Mrs. M. E. Cobb.

HAUGAN NOTES

TARIFF BIG STICK FOR PRESIDENT PROPOSED

AMENDMENT TO GIVE HIM POWER ON COUNTERVAILING DUTIES PROPOSED.

Washington, June 26.—Urgent desire to arm the president with a tariff "big stick," one of stronger and greater proportions than provided in the amendment suggested by the finance committee majority, developed today in the democratic caucus in the senate on the tariff bill.

Discussion of the proposed countervailing duty on wheat and flour, which the committee recommended, led to a general debate on retaliatory and countervailing tariff rates, and Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia proposed the adoption of an amendment that would give the president power to enforce countervailing tariff rates on all commodities of commerce against any nation refusing to deal with the United States on a reciprocal tariff basis.

It would enable the president at any time to interpose against any nation which might discriminate against the products of the United States the same tariff rates exacted on American goods. Such a clause in the tariff, it was argued, would place the United States in a position to defend the country against any unreciprocal action or attempt to shut off its foreign trade.

Among the senators who attacked the idea were Sherman, Reed, and Martin. The caucus was forced to recess for the afternoon session of the senate and debate was resumed tonight.

After the battle over free sugar and free wool had been won yesterday by the administration forces, senators opposed to the schedules approved, renewed their activities for an amendment which would extend the time when the sugar and wool schedules are to become effective after the passage of the act.

SPEER DENOUNCES SPYING ON JUDGES

"I have looked in vain through the statutes to find the definition of duties. This critic and censor of judges need not be a practitioner or even a lawyer. For many years, however, I have observed that they were restricted to examination and report on the marshal, clerk and other disbursing officers, most of whom are directly appointed by the department of justice, and, who, of course, should be responsive thereto. Now, however, they exercise functions infinitely graver, infinitely more dangerous to the three-fold distribution of power under the American system. The court may be in session, the calendar may be thronged with assignments, gathered. The examiner appears on the scene. It is given out to the newspapers that he is to investigate the judge. He appears in court. He casts a critical eye on the proceedings and sometimes takes notice, with an air not wholly insignificant. He inter-views disgruntled attorneys. Sometimes when the ruling is made he hastens to the attorney losing and suggests error.

"In the meantime, the examiner imports to the judge no information whatever of any complaint. There is then no chance for defense, even if defense to an unauthorized inquisitor was not unworthy of the judicial station. Who then, can forecast the respect the examiner will make? When it will be made is equally uncertain. Finally, the attorney general himself informs the public in the most public way that no charges have been preferred, but alas, the harm, the irreparable, causeless, cruel harm is done.

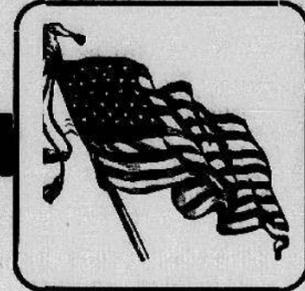

"This method is very, very recent. I dare declare that no other could be more offensive to the chastity of judicial vigor. With experience of four years in the service of my state and 24 years in the service of my country, I declare that no other proceeding can be so destructive of the confidence and support accorded the judiciary by the masses of the people. It is a continental and not an American method. Aye, it is more Russian than American.

"And shall this un-American method continue? By it and similar aggressions upon the dependence of the judiciary shall the august fabric which Marshall and the great judges who held with him have builded, and the curplings of the mob, the heers of the hoodlums, amid the mouthings of the demagogue, crumble into nothingness? The independence of the judges is the chief felicity of the constitution. Will we now be asked to crook the pregnant hinges of the knee that thrift may follow fawning? No greater curse can be inflicted upon the nation, said John Marshall, than a cringing judiciary. If the magistrate to whom the judicial power of the nation is entrusted be dragged down from the serene reserve they now maintain, if they must be subservient to the politicians who hold departmental offices, then truly the noble notice, 'Let justice be done though the heavens fall,' will be supplanted by the odious 'to the victors belong the spoils,' and the high judicial station, the once glory of the nation, will become the ignoble nest of party strife. Forget not, my brother, that the dignity of our noble profession depends upon the undefined purity and the righteous authority of the courts wherein you are the priests of justice."

500 FLAGS

Have Been Received for Fourth of July

The Old Flag

WALTER G. DOTY

In the National Magazine

Let it quietly wave o'er the breasts of the brave
Where they sleep in the mountain or dell,
Or high on the staff, let it dangle and laugh
In the breezes that love it so well.
Oh, banner of light, with your crimson and white,
With your field of the heavens' own blue
And your glorious stars brighter made by the sears
That our heroes have suffered for you!

Float ever, droop never, forever, old flag!
Though the armed world assail you, what coward would lag
To rise in defense of our beautiful flag?

By a thousand campfires, have the vows of our sires
Ever been that the flag should still reign,
And they battled and bled till the rivers ran red,
But the flag floated free from all stain.
Let us keep it unfurled to enlighten the world—
Right's emblem as ages go by,
Ever glad to the sight is that banner so bright
As it ripples in glory on high.

Float ever, droop never, forever, old flag!
Though the armed world assail you, what coward would lag
To rise in defense of our beautiful flag?
For our fathers have taught
That our lives are as naught
When compared with your safety, O glorious flag!
