

DEFIANT MILITANTS SAY THE TRIAL WAS UNFAIR

AFTER CONVICTION ON ARSON CHARGE THEY MARAUNGE COURT IN GREAT STYLE.

London, July 3.—Two militant suffragettes, Kitty Marion and Clara Green, were sentenced today to three years' penal servitude for setting fire to the stands on the Hurst park race course on June 9 and causing $70,000 damage.

When the verdict of guilty was brought in Miss Marion said: "We have been convicted upon the flimsiest circumstantial evidence. If we had been charged with criminal assault we would have been set free on such evidence. I will hunger-strike and I will refuse to leave prison under the 'cat and mouse' act. I will insist on staying there until dead or released a free woman."

Miss Green said: "We have not had a free trial. We have not been tried by our peers. Women will never receive justice until women as well as men are on juries."

When the judge pronounced sentence, suffragettes in the gallery of the court shouted: "No surrender" and began singing the suffragette battle song, "March On." The demonstrators were ejected from the building and the prisoners were removed to their cell shouting: "We shall fight and we shall win."

No witnesses were called by the defense and the prisoners did not testify. Their counsel argued that the charge had not been proved.

one of the packs picked up the trail again, and led off toward the hills east of town. In the meantime another posse was organized by Sheriff Neville, and took up a systematic hunt and patrol of the railroad yards.

As reports from the bounds in the hills had not been encouraging up to 9 o'clock, a man named Shade, who has just arrived here from North Dakota with two English bloodhounds, got busy with his hounds and took up the trail. Shade is an experienced prison guard and was satisfied that his dogs could follow the negro in spite of the rain unless the fugitive uses pepper.

It was nearly midnight when the last news of the hunt was received here and it was encouraging to the officers. John Kendrick, in charge of the prison hounds, rode in from Peterson creek, 10 miles east of town. He said that both packs of hounds had taken up the same trail and from their actions he was sure they were on the right trail and that it seemed to be getting fresher and more easy to follow.

Quick Action. Warden Conley's house is just across the street from the penitentiary. This made it an easy matter to spread the alarm when the murder was first discovered. But the prison authorities handled the matter in splendid fashion. The two squads of guards, consisting of 20 men, were in their saddles and on the trail in short order. There was no confusion and the search made was thorough.

Wilson the murderer was sent to the prison from Butte on a grand larceny charge. He acted as waiter in the house and had but six weeks to complete in serving his sentence. The following is his description: Five feet 10 inches tall rather slim; blotch at base of nose and large scar across lower forehead. He had been a "top-head."

ALONG PINE CREEK IS MUCH ACTIVITY

Kellogg, July 3.—(Special).—A contract for the driving of a tunnel 100 feet on the Highland-Surprise ledge, which was opened up early in the morning has been let to Martin & Hanson, according to Henry Gilbert, one of the heavy owners in the property. The chances for a railroad up Pine creek are believed to be good, according to Gilbert, who reports that the matter has been put before the O. W. & N. officials. Gilbert believes that once sufficient tonnage is shown, the Pine creek spur will be a reality.

AFFAIRS OF MARKET AT STANDSTILL

TROUBLE IN THE BALKANS DEPRESSES SPECULATION AND WALL STREET IS QUIET.

New York, July 3.—Affairs virtually were at a standstill today in the stock market. The principal theme was the outbreak of serious hostilities among the Balkan nations and the consequent depression of European exchanges. Fear was expressed today that the renewal of war would delay the return to the usual channels of Europe's hoarded millions of gold.

The immediate effect on this market was a small downward movement in sympathy with the foreign exchanges. London sold some Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific. At home there were no developments on which to base speculative movements, and the crisis in the Balkans was utilized as a bear argument. Trading, however, was entirely perfunctory. The volume of business fell to the lowest of the year.

United States 2 per cent bonds declined again today, the bid price falling 1/8 more to 98. No large transactions in government bonds were reported, but it was evident that the refunding provisions of the new currency bill had caused some banks to readjust their holdings.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,116,000. United States bonds declined 1/8 to a point on call on the week.

Grain and Provisions. Chicago, July 3.—Persistent rumors that a large amount of export business had been done gave the bulls control of the wheat market today, but the resulting gain largely disappeared when diligent inquiry failed to show that the stories had much basis in fact. The late prices were relatively weak, but 1/8 to 1/4 over last night. Corn finished 1/4 off to 1/2 up; oats a shade lower to 1/4 advance, and provisions varying from 1/4 down to a gain of 1/2.

Heavy selling on the advance in the wheat pit shook the confidence of buyers, especially during the last half hour. It was also brought out that the weather nearly everywhere in the northwest had been showery, cool, and that there was no distress in sight for the spring crop.

Corn scored a fair advance because of predictions of a lighter movement from the interior and because of chinch bug damage in Kansas and Illinois. Fine weather, though, and a disposition to curtail rises over the holidays acted later as an offset.

Oats followed the general course of other grain, but kept inside narrow limits with trade light. Holders of provisions took advantage of higher hog prices, and realized profits in a vigorous manner. Eventually most of the active options were under last night's level. Today's range:

July wheat opened at 89 1/2 to 90; high, 90 1/2; low, 89 1/2; closed, 89. July corn opened at 61 1/2 to 62 1/2; high, 61 1/2 to 61 1/2; low, 61 1/2; closed, 61 1/2. July oats opened at 41 1/2 to 42 1/2; high, 41 1/2; low, 41 1/2 to 41 1/2; closed, 41 1/2.

Dun's Review. New York, July 3.—Dun's Review Saturday says: High temperatures throughout most of the country curtailed retail distribution somewhat, while the holiday accentuated slightly the prevailing dullness in most wholesale lines. Needed rains in the agricultural regions have improved the crop outlook, and harvesting of winter wheat is progressing under ideal conditions. Private estimates indicate some gain in cotton prospects, while the government report on Thursday placed the condition at 81.8 per cent, against 80.4 a year ago.

The submission of a practical plan for separating the stock interests of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads were, on the whole, a favorable factor in investment markets, although renewed war in the Balkans, this time between the allies, rendered the European monetary situation more unsettled.

The lull in the iron and steel trade continues as to finished lines, but a larger demand for pig iron appeared during the week than for several months past. Buying of equipment by the railroads has been restricted of late, but in volume of new orders is coming forward in finished products. Stocks of the leading textile distributors and retailers at the end of the first half-year are abnormally low, but replenishment is being confined to immediate needs until the tariff bill now nearing its final stage has been passed.

Business in leather showed an improvement, with a steady demand for all grades, and footwear salesmen report fair-sized orders for immediate delivery, although contracts for spring are below expectation. Railroad gross earnings, so far for June, show an increase of 7.8 per cent compared with the same month a year ago.

Total bank exchanges at 120 leading centers during June show a gain of 10 per cent over the same month last year, but a loss of 48 per cent as compared with the corresponding month of 1911.

Business failures for the week were 230 against 27 the corresponding week last year. There were 25 failures in Canada, against 23 last year.

Bradstreet's Report. New York, July 3.—Bradstreet's statement of trade Saturday says: The widespread hot wave and the approach of the mid-year holidays have stimulated retail trade in light summer fabrics and furnishings, but made for a lull in most of the heavy and industrial lines, the latter in most cases arranging for a three-day suspension of operations. The result is a somewhat irregular week closing a half year which, while not fulfilling sanguine expectations, has proved better than feared, bred of tariff revision and worldwide tight money; had led most observers to predict.

Bank clearings for June and the six months shows fractional gains over last year; there were fewer failures in June than in any month for two years past; and the six months aggregate is below that of 1912, although a few large failures have swelled liabilities above last year.

The really few failures of the week are mainly favorable, chief of these being the breaking of an extremely hot wave which destroyed life and imperiled crops; the resumption of pig iron buying on a scale not seen for months past, albeit at the expense of prices; the largest sales of raw wool reported for a long time likewise at low quotations; the amount of much needed moisture in the corn and spring wheat areas; the assurance of a record winter wheat crop, and the planting of a record area in cotton.

Knocked into River by Train. Deer Lodge July 3.—(Special).—An unknown man who was on the bridge over the Deer Lodge river at the north end of the Northern Pacific yards when No. 1, the North Coast Limited, crossed it tonight, was struck by the train and thrown into the river. Three men saw the accident, but do not know the man. His body has not been found.

MULHALL'S PAPERS PRESENTED

of the correspondence will be introduced as evidence. Demands for a wider lobby investigation have been made in the house end of the capitol and the rules committee today took up its task of framing a resolution to provide for an inquiry of a far-reaching character.

Henry B. Martin of Washington, the active figure in an anti-trust league, took the stand today and admitted that he and Lamar had had many conferences, had agreed upon an investigation of the United States Steel corporation and had taken an active part in trying to exert influence in many Washington matters.

Martin asserted that the resolution under which the Stanley steel trust investigation was begun was introduced practically as he and Lamar had drawn it, although Representative Stanley, who introduced the resolution, knew nothing of Lamar's connection. He vehemently denied that he knew Lamar had "hatched the resolution about New York" before it was introduced in the house.

G. Harold Powell, manager of the California Fruit Growers' exchange, testified late today as to his activity to prevent lemons being placed on the tariff free list. Mr. Powell said the fight in favor of free lemons had been conducted by the lemon exporters of Palermo, Sicily, and the lemon importers of New York. He said the California fruit interests had spent a total of $14,354 for research work in Italy and California, traveling expenses and all other charges connected with its efforts to keep lemons on the dutiable list.

Confirmation of David Lamar's claim that it was he who drew the congressional resolution under which the Stanley committee investigated the United States Steel corporation was given to the committee today by Henry B. Martin, head of a so-called "anti-trust league."

Martin's testimony, less gripping and less startling than Lamar's yesterday, when the latter blandly told of confidential relations with Wall street leaders and his impersonations of congressmen, was corroborative and supplementary to Lamar's on several points. He testified that after Lamar told of the steel trust investigation, he, Martin, induced Representative Stanley to introduce it. He did not tell Stanley that Lamar was his author, but did not try to suppress that fact.

He disclaimed knowledge that Lamar had used the resolution before introduction in dealings with financiers and protested he knew nothing of Lamar's telephone impersonations.

Persistent questioning by the senators failed to make Martin divulge what the "anti-trust league" was, or who composed it. He declined to give names of members or tell of the disposition of thousands of dollars he said it had spent.

Edward Lauterbach, the New York lawyer who figures in David Lamar's impersonations of congressmen in telephone talks with New York financiers, was not on hand today as the senate lobby committee had expected when it resumed taking testimony.

Henry B. Martin of a so-called "anti-trust" league here was called to be examined on Lamar's statement that after he had drawn a resolution for a congressional investigation of the United States Steel corporation, he gave the resolution to Martin, who, in turn, induced Representative Stanley of Kentucky to introduce it in the house. Before Martin was called, Lewis Cass Ledyard, attorney for J. P. Morgan & Co., who had testified yesterday as to Lamar drawing the steel trust resolution, resumed the stand for a moment to testify that his information on that point came from Lamar and Lauterbach.

Senators gave Martin a lively examination in an effort to disclose what the "anti-trust league" was and who composed it. Martin testified that M. L. Lockwood of Oklahoma was originally its president; he was secretary; Cotter T. Brice of this city was treasurer, and Herman Schultheis, also of Washington, was counsel. At one time the "league" depended on Attorney General Monnet of Ohio for legal advice, he said.

Martin declined to give names of the league's members because they would suffer "the anger of the great trusts who would ruin, blacklist them, and secure their discharge from employment."

He said he had presented to the secretary of the navy evidence of frauds in armor plate contracts and that he had given information to other government officials regarding violations of law by the railroad trust, coal trust, steel trust, harvester trust and elevator trust at a cost of more than $100,000.

Further questioning brought out that Lamar in 1909, when the Wickersham railroad law amendments were before congress, had supplied arguments and information that Martin presented to members. Martin thought such information had led to the striking out of the sections to immunize railroads from prosecutions.

"Did Lamar prepare the draft of the resolution for the investigation of the steel trust?" demanded Senator Cummins. "It is my recollection that I asked him to prepare it," said Martin. He added that he had no specific arrangement with any member of congress for its introduction.

"This resolution was used in New York as a basis for an attempted reconciliation between Edward Lauterbach and the Morgan firm," said Senator Cummins. Martin insisted he knew nothing of that.

Under questioning Martin testified that the resolution was introduced in the house virtually in the form he and Lamar agreed upon. "Did you tell Representative Stanley who finally introduced the resolution that Lamar had prepared it?" "I don't think so."

"Did you try to suppress that fact?" "Not in the least."

SHOOT IS CALLED OFF. Leavenworth, Kan., July 3.—A message today from Colonel W. A. Shunk, commanding the central department of the United States army, announcing the calling off of the rifle and pistol competition that was scheduled to begin at Fort Leavenworth, July 15, is causing much speculation at the fort on account of the close connection with the Mexican situation. Officers take the orders to mean that the troops would be needed for immediate field service. No reason to cancel the shooting competition was given in Colonel Shunk's message.
