CHILLY NIGHTS

Though I gaze with melancholy at the woods' dark evening hole; though I have to place an order for a new supply of coal; though I hear with trepidation that the children need new shoes; though I contemplate the frost time with a sudden case of blues; though I note that our stern windows are shy some names of glass; though I see the dry leaves littered over flower beds and grass; though I've seen the last baseball game of the year on Campbell park; though I miss the long, bright evenings and I don't like the early dark; though I need an extra blanket when I crawl into my bed; though the thought of passing summer fills me with an aching dread; yet there is some compensation as the fleeting minutes fly—though the frost is on the pumpkin, soon we'll have the pumpkin pie.

BROWN IS HOPEFUL

Frank D. Brown of Granite county, historian of the Montana Society of Pioneers, is one of the men well pleased with last week's meeting of the society. He feels that material progress has been made toward providing for the care of its indigent pioneers, a plan upon which he has worked faithfully for several years. "The sentiment in favor of a pioneers' home is stronger, I believe, than it ever was before," said Mr. Brown last night to the Man About Town. "Certainly it never found more definite and positive expression than it did this year among the pioneers who met in annual session. There will be another effort made to secure action by the legislature at the next session, and the joint committee, named by the pioneers and by the sons and daughters, will be actively at work in support of the proposition. In the meantime, General Warren has a plan to lay before the governor which, if it is adopted, will provide temporarily for such of the pioneers as are not able to take care of themselves. I hope the state will interest itself in the matter, and that it will be kept actively before the people for the rest of the time before the legislature meets again. It is a disgrace to this state that there are pioneers in the porches."

A FINE CHANCE

W. E. Miller of San Francisco, who has been in the city on business for several days, spoke pleasantly regarding Missoula last night to the Man About Town. "The location and climate of your city are certainly all that could be asked," said Mr. Miller. "And your people have taken good advantage of the opportunities which they have for making a charming city. But there is one opportunity which you are overlooking, it seems to me. I have walked across your splendid bridge several times while I have been here, and each time I have looked at the island and have wondered why Missoula has not made a beautiful park of it. I am told your people are sometimes in the spring, but the island, it seems to me, could be raised and walled with an exceedingly great expense, and the results would be so wonderfully beautiful that they would more than pay for the expense and the effort. I can imagine a park there which would be so beautiful that it would be famous the country over. The bridge is a splendid structure, and it would afford a view of the island park which would be incomparably beautiful. It strikes me as strange that the city has not already done something in this direction."

OFF ON A VACATION

Jason J. Jones, mail clerk in the Missoula postoffice, started yesterday to celebrate his vacation. Mr. Jones has been in the local service as carrier and clerk so long that he has become an appreciated fixture. He has recently earned his vacation, and his friends hope he will enjoy it to the utmost. Last night he started up the Bitter Root valley where he will stay until the term of his leave expires. He isn't going to waste any time in hunting or fishing, except as mild exercise, but is going to rest thoroughly as many hours a day as he can, and he does not anticipate that there will be anything to prevent his putting in the full measure of 24 hours, and he hopes that the salubrious climate of the valley will make it possible for him to extend this to about 36 hours. Meanwhile, the postoffice will get along the best way it can until J. J. gets back.

HELLO BILL

Secretary Ferguson of the chamber of commerce returned last night from a business trip to Illinois and Ohio, sat with the east and glad to get back to comfortable weather and good water. "It was a pleasant trip," said he, "but it was hotter than any place on earth has any right to be. It was hot all the time, not just for a day or night, but all the time. There was never such hot weather when I was a boy, back in Illinois. It has developed lately. But I saw the home folks and the home town. I saw Joe Bullett Bush pitch a game of ball, and I saw Margaret Ilbington in her new play. I did the business which took me east, and I hurried home as fast as the Olympian could bring me. And that's about all."

A GOOD PLACE

"Always, since they have had it, the people of Missoula have appreciated the Elks' building, but it never stood them in better stead than it did last week, and it was never used to better purpose. As the headquarters of the pioneers' convention, the club rooms and offices of the Elks made an ideal meeting place for the trail blazers, and they enjoyed the quarters immensely during their hour of intermission. The lodge room, too, made just the right sort of dancing

Security Is Worth Something

WORK ON FOUNTAIN IS PROCEEDING RAPIDLY

Contractors start placing huge native stones for drinking place. Yesterday the contractors who are to build the fountain at the head of Higgins avenue commenced the task of fitting together the enormous pieces of native rock which are to form the body of the drinking place. From the hills near the city the men who are erecting the fountain have secured some massive pieces of stone. No attempt has been made to carve or change the appearance of the rocks. They will be piled one upon another in a striking and unusual manner so that the water will have the appearance of issuing from a cliff of rock. When the men quit work last night the fountain had commenced to take form and it is already evident that it will be a worthy ornament to the main thoroughfare.

CONTRACTORS START PLACING HUGE NATIVE STONES FOR DRINKING PLACE.

The work which the city has done in improving the appearance of the north end of Higgins avenue is attracting a lot of attention from people who pass through the city over the Northern Pacific. Every time a train stops at the station, crowds of passengers may be seen admiring the garden plot which has been cultivated at the intersection of Railroad and Alder streets. The fountain will add to the beauty of the square and will provide the city with a northern entrance fit to be compared with that which the Milwaukee has built at the south end of the Higgins avenue bridge.

MARIA M. RUBERSON IS FREED FROM PAIN

Mrs. Maria M. Ruberson died early yesterday morning at her home, 1311 South Fifth street, after many years of suffering from a complication of diseases. Mrs. Ruberson was 51 years of age and a native of Missouri. She had resided in Missoula during the last nine years, and in Red Lodge for six years before coming here.

Two daughters, Mrs. M. H. Crawford and Miss Mattie Ruberson, and a son, J. M. Ruberson, survive her in this city. Two brothers, L. H. Caldwell and Alex. Caldwell live in Billings. Funeral arrangements will not be completed until the arrival of these brothers.

DISTURBING FACTOR IN BUSINESS IS TARIFF

C. A. BARNES TELLS INTERESTING STORY OF BUSINESS CONDITIONS AFTER TRIP.

C. A. Barnes has been busy during the last few days gathering up the many ends of business in his department of the Missoula Mercantile store after being away for a month and more in eastern cities. Mr. Barnes was called by Vermont on account of the illness and subsequent death of his mother. Following his sad service at Burlington and Bakersfield, Mr. Barnes made a purchasing trip through the great market centers of the east.

Series of Scares.

In response to questions about conditions of business as he found them, Mr. Barnes said: "Business is running on the whole about as it did in 1911 and 1912. A series of scares created in New York brought brief respite to business and caused some conservation which I believe not to be serious. The Mexican war scare, conditions of drought and shortage of crops in the middle west have caused some local disturbance, but the bankers of the east began to look more cheerful after the secretary of the treasury offered to distribute $50,000,000 to assist in moving the crops of the year.

The Tariff.

"The one great disturbing factor in business is the tariff question. Large interests are clamoring for settlement of rates, one way or another, only so that they may have rest after so long suspense. It is claimed that foreign manufacturers are preparing for tariff reductions. It is estimated that there is over $100,000,000 now held in bond in the New York port, waiting for the adjustment of this issue, when the matter is finally settled, the goods will be poured into channels of travel and American manufacturers and American labor will be entered into keen competition with European products. The result is easy to foresee.

West is Secure.

"Notwithstanding all this agitation, we of the west do not alter our plans. We believe in having a full stock of merchandise on hand and we have purchased accordingly. Whatever is new in wearing apparel to be seen on Broadway, will appear in Missoula not many days later. The new garments happily combine pleasing appearance with sensible make. We have a whole book to write about fine and substantial clothing and we hope to have it printed soon in the advertising columns of The Missoulian."

MEN'S CLOTHING SHOP WILL BE OPENED SOON

By September 12 there will be a new men's clothing shop open for business in Missoula. Sidney H. Peers and Fields A. White, both young men of enterprise and experience in judging and selling men's wearing apparel, are busy getting fixtures and stock in preparation for the United Clothing shop which they will open at 314 North Higgins avenue. The stock of the new store will be unique in that each suit and each overcoat will be sold for $15. Each will be all wool and union made. In addition to handling a stock of ready-made goods, Messrs. Peers and White will be agents for high grade suits made to order by the Ed V. Price Tailoring company of Chicago. The Ed V. Price firm is recognized as a leading tailoring establishment in the middle west. With its great resources at their command to complete their stock of one-price, ready-made garments, the proprietors of the United Clothing shop feel well prepared to please all classes of buyers.

NEW M. E. PASTOR WILL PREACH TODAY

REV. MR. CROUCH OCCUPIES METHODIST PULPIT FOR FIRST TIME THIS MORNING.

Rev. Charles D. Crouch, assigned by the recent Methodist conference to the First Methodist Episcopal church, will preach the first sermon to his new congregation this morning. He will also occupy the pulpit at the evening services.

Rev. and Mrs. Crouch have been in Missoula for several days and expect to be settled in the parsonage within the next two days. Rev. Mr. Crouch comes to Missoula well known throughout this part of Montana as in the whole state. He has been prominent in the affairs of the church and enjoys the reputation of one of the most capable of Montana ministers.

Before the conference assignments, Mr. Crouch was pastor of the Stevensville church. He had held that position for four years, however, since his retirement from the office of presiding elder of the Yellowstone district. The Stevensville church was taken as an opportunity to rest after the wearing term as presiding elder and to recuperate for the strenuous duties of a larger congregation. Prior to his service as presiding elder, which office he held for four years, he was pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Great Falls.

LAWYERS INDORSE LAW SCHOOL

PROFESSOR LEAPHART FINDS ATTORNEYS IN THE STATE SUPPORTING VARSITY.

That attorneys throughout the state are taking a lively interest in the university law school and are anxious to do what they can in its development, is the encouraging opinion of Professor G. W. Leaphart of the law school faculty who has been visiting in cities of the state for the last ten days. The feeling towards the university as a whole, too, is good, he says, in all the towns he visited. Montana people are realizing the value of their university as an asset to the state and as the school for their children.

Professor W. W. H. Mustaine, director of physical culture, returned yesterday from his old home, Lexington, Ky., where he has been visiting since the last of July. He expects to be very busy for the next week getting his department ready for the freshmen gymnasts and particularly for the coming of the football season. The question of selecting a football coach is a pressing matter. "Before I left for Kentucky I suggested the names of a number of good football men to the president," said the physical director. "He selected several expecting to make his choice from them. I know that he has one good man in mind now that can be secured. Whoever he selects, though, I am confident will be a man well able to give the varsity the best of training."

SHORT LINE SUED.

Batte, Sept. 6.—(Special)—Two suits asking for a total of $40,000 were filed against the Oregon Short Line railway this afternoon. Twenty thousand is asked for the death of William Aglos, and the same amount for Mike Kolen-dras by the administrators of both estates.
