I know a man whose daily life is one of painless surprises; he has scant business in his store, no matter how he tries; he wonders why the buyers pass right by his open door; he wonders why they spend their cash at his next neighbor's store; he says his wares are just as good as what the people buy; but yet the people pass him up—he says, he wonders why; he has his windows neatly filled with good things on display; but folks keep going past his door in just the same old way; he sees good business pass his store, each day it makes him flinch; he cannot understand, he says, the other merchant's elation; but the other fellow understands, to him it's no surprise, if you want to get the business, you have to advertise.

The Missoula Trust and Savings bank will open in the new quarters this morning. The removal from temporary quarters made Saturday night and yesterday was devoted to getting things straightened out in the new place. It will be a few days before the new rooms are entirely finished, but the work is nearly enough complete to make it easy to do business. It should be easy, indeed, to do business in such surroundings as the new quarters furnish. The banking rooms are handsome, convenient and complete in their arrangement and their equipment. The massive vaults are models of strength; the safety-deposit department is designed for the convenience of its patrons as well as for their protection. The provisions for the comfort of the ordinary patrons are specially attractive. And the simple elegance of the marble and mahogany finishing appeals to the artistic sense of the visitor.

"There are a good many little things yet to be done," said President Keith to the Man About Town, "but I suppose there would be just as many of these if we waited another week. There is always a provoking delay in the delivery of some of the last things needed, and we have had more than our share of waiting. But we're moved now and we'll do our waiting at home. We shall be glad to see all our friends in the new place, which is really the old place."

The prospects for the completion of the outside work on the new Florence hotel are brighter. Last week's progress with the masonry was encouraging and there is nothing now in the way of ordinary weather conditions, to prevent the inclosure of the big building in ample time to enable the contractor to work all winter on the inside. This will make it possible to deliver the finished building according to the time schedule, which should give Missoula its old hotel, made over, in early spring. The appearance of the outside walls is pleasing. The site of the structure will not be fully appreciated until the remaining story is inclosed; but there is enough of the work done now to give some idea of the extent of the improvement which the new Florence will make in the business center of the city.

Over on the south side, the paving contractors are making the most of the good weather. The work under way is all the paving which will be done this season. Experience has shown that cold-weather pavement is not much good. The bridge has yet to be paved and the work on South Higgins avenue and Fourth street, also. When this is finished another of the famous mudholes will be a matter of history. There are two or three more of these yet to be made into good highways, notably the west end of Main street. This work, however, must go over until next spring. That it will be done then is the expressed wish of every man who is heard to talk about the condition of the streets these days. The new Higgins avenue has given the city a reputation which must be maintained. It will take some lively scratching to do this, but it has to be done. What is being done is being well done, which is the main thing.

FAMOUS MUSICIANS WILL BE HEARD TONIGHT

BEETHOVEN TRIO CHANGES DATE AND WILL APPEAR AT UNIVERSITY TONIGHT.

Owing to a combination of circumstances unforeseen, the Beethoven trio, a musical organization that was to have given a program at the university's assembly hall on Wednesday evening of this week, will be heard tonight. The concert is to begin at 8:30 this evening and will be given in assembly hall.

Arrangements for the appearance of the Beethoven trio were made by Miss Gertrude O'Hanlon of Chicago, who was in Missoula several weeks ago. The trio left Chicago last Tuesday, and on arriving in Missoula Saturday evening, found that it was not scheduled to appear here until Wednesday evening. The sending of many telegrams determined that, by some change of program not communicated to its members, the trio was to appear in Sheridan, Wyo., this evening, in Billings tomorrow evening and in Missoula Wednesday. So, as this arrangement would have meant a long jump into Wyoming and back into Montana, an attempt was made to exchange the dates. This was done last night and the Beethoven trio will be at the university tonight.

The Beethoven trio of Chicago is composed of M. Jennette Loudon, piano; Otto B. Roehrborn, violin; Carl Brueckner, violoncello. It represents the very highest type of ensemble playing. The members of this trio have played together for eight years without change. The program to be given tonight at the university is of good music, but of such variety that all lovers of music will be interested. The German, Russian and Bohemian composers are to be represented and each of the artists will give a solo.

Mr. Roehrborn and Mr. Brueckner are members of the Theodore Thomas orchestra, the former one of the principals of the string section and the latter a cello soloist. Miss Loudon is a well-known player and teacher of Chicago.

This is the program that will be given this evening at the university:

Program.
Trio—Op. 57, B flat major, Beethoven First movement.

THE BEETHOVEN TRIO

Of Chicago, Will Appear at the Assembly Room of the University Tonight

Instead of Wednesday evening, and will give a delightful and artistic program, consisting of solos and ensemble playing on the piano, violoncello and violin. The Bloomington, Illinois, Pantagraph has the following to say of the pianist, Miss M. Jennette Loudon:

"A very fine concert was given last evening by the Beethoven Trio, of Chicago, consisting of Miss Jennette Loudon, pianist; Mr. Otto Roehrborn, violinist, and Carl Brueckner, violoncellist. The entire program was delightful and a real treat to music lovers, each artist playing in a most artistic and finished manner, and the ensemble work was extremely well done. Chief interest centered in Miss Loudon, a Bloomington girl, and one of the earliest members of the Amateur Club. Her friends were delighted to hear her again and showed their pleasure by repeated and prolonged applause. All the music upon the program from the Beethoven Trio at the beginning to the brilliant Rubinstein Trio at the close was very cordially received. It was one of the best concerts the club has ever presented and it is proud to claim Miss Loudon as a former member."

Program begins at 8:30. Prices, 75 and 50 Cents
Reserved seats at the Nonpareil and the University.

RUELL COSNER WINS WITH PERFECT SCORE

M'LEOD MEDAL AND CASTING RECORD FOR CLUB ARE WON IN ONE PERFORMANCE.

Ruell Cosner won the McLeod challenge medal for accuracy in fly-casting and at the same time with a perfect score of 100 per cent, established a new record for Anglers' club tournaments, yesterday afternoon. Cosner's performance was a thorough surprise, for the record of Ray Cyr, former holder of the challenge medal, had been considered unapproachable. Cyr made a percentage of 99.7-15 in the tourney a week ago, thus winning the medal as his first holder. The remainder of the club members were challengers in the contest yesterday.

Cosner's victory in the accuracy event was not his only triumph yesterday, as he also made the high score in the distance fly-casting and won the prize of an automatic reel donated by the Frost company of New York.

The weather yesterday was warm and bright and much in favor of the tournament. A good crowd of spectators gathered on the slough banks and the number of entries was gratifying. The only drawback was a little annoyance caused by some neighborhood youths who had disarranged the anchored targets.

The list of competitors and their scores follows:

In the accuracy contest—Ruell Cosner, 100 per cent; George Heimlich, 99.6-15 per cent; Joe Bourgeois, 99.4-15 per cent; Dan McQuarrie, 99.3-15 per cent; Horace Allen, 99 per cent; M. R. Henderson, 98.12-15 per cent.

In the distance event—Ruell Cosner, 72 feet; George Heimlich, 68 feet; M. R. Henderson, 65 feet; Dan McQuarrie, 64 feet; Joe Bourgeois, 64 feet; Horace Allen, 62 feet.

IMMIGRATION MAN LIKES FAIR

HEAD OF MILWAUKEE DEPARTMENT SPEAKS OF WESTWARD FLOW OF SETTLERS

The state fair has a loyal supporter in C. E. Shaner, immigration agent of the Milwaukee railroad, who was in Missoula for a short visit after finishing with the exposition at Helena. He was accompanied by Mrs. Shaner, who came with him from Chicago, his headquarters.

Mr. Shaner declared himself very pleased with the fair this fall. He said that of course, it was natural for Montana people to call it the best fair ever but, nevertheless, he would not hesitate to place it the first among Montana fairs he has seen.

In speaking of the work of his department, Mr. Shaner remarked particularly of western movement of colonists stimulated now by the low rates effective on all transcontinental railroads. He said that although many of the colonists moving now were going to the coast, Montana could expect her share. The wealth and opportunities of Montana, he said, are familiar to everyone in the east, and the people particularly interested are prosperous farmers who are able to buy good farms and who are coming to stay.

The Theaters

At the Bijou.
There is a great time in store for patrons of the Bijou theater during this week, opening with tonight's performance. It is a week of mirth and joviality there. Every act on the new program is snappy, dashing and the kind well calculated to act as a scintillating laugh tonic. The big surprise will be "Van," the famous cartoonist and story entertainer from the Chicago Record Herald. He makes millions laugh and looks on the better side of life every day. He is now on a transcontinental tour and we got him to stop over for three days. He says he is going to draw caricatures of local citizens tonight.

Weiser and Reeser are blackface comedians, or wholesome wrinkle-wreckers. Space forbids telling you all the funny things they do. Then there is a splendid array of three reels of photoplays including a two-reel Vitaphone feature film, "The Lost Millionaire." It's a feature program every bit of it, nobody can afford to miss it.

EMPRESS

A photograph and a grand opera record are cleverly worked into the story of "Twickenham Ferry" and are the means by which a country lad recognizes and finds a prima donna, whom he thinks he loves. The opera singer, however, knows what it would mean to the boy if she accepted his affections—and she is very much inclined to—and so repulses him and sends him back to his country sweetheart. It all ends well, of course, and the happenings pictured in the country resort and the city theater make up a story of unusual interest. In addition to this feature drama, there is also on today's bill another dramatic subject and two comedy reels played by prominent comedians in the movie world. Ed LeVasseur and Willard Perry will sing a popular duet and the Empress pipe organ and concert orchestra will play both afternoon and evening.

Before you is not "can I afford to cook with gas?" but, "Can I afford not to cook with gas?" When you buy coal a large part of what you get is smoke, another large part is ashes. Of course you get some heat. But if you buy coal to get the heat, why not buy gas?
