

It Is Your Duty to Help Montana "Get the Aggies" This Afternoon

VARSITY PLAYS COLLEGIANS TODAY

MONTANA TO MEET STATE AGGIES ON MONTANA FIELD AT THREE THIS AFTERNOON.

GAME WILL BE THRILLER

Odds Are Even and Neither Team Appears to Have Advantage. Though Wise Ones See Better Chances for Varsity on Dry Field—Both Teams Confident of Victory.

"GET THE AGGIES."

Today the varsity meets the state Aggies in the most critical football game that has been played on Montana field in years. The business men, through the chamber of commerce, have agreed to close the town from 2:30 until 5 o'clock. The game will start promptly at 3 o'clock, giving everyone plenty of time to get to the grounds in time for the first kickoff.

Grizzlies and Aggies, nursing in their more or less adamant bosoms a rivalry developed during ten years of intercollegiate athletic relations and intensified by the fervor of this fall's struggle for the state football championship, rested upon their arms last night ready for the fray today, which is to settle matters for another year.

Full five years have passed since the Aggies stalked as real contenders in the football field. Since the oldest undergraduate can remember, the varsity has triumphed without trouble over the easterners. But this year the old order has changed. With a new coach and new material, the Farmers present a powerful football machine, heavier than the varsity, though handicapped by inexperience.

Local weather prophets look for sunshine today and Uncle Sam expects rain. The odds are, then, that it will be fair this afternoon, in which case Montana's advantage will be increased considerably, it is thought.

INTO QUAKER OATS GRAND JURY PROBES

Chicago, Nov. 13.—The federal grand jury began an investigation today of the affairs of the Quaker Oats company. It was said in the district attorney's office that this was a sequel to the government's civil suit for the dissolution of the so-called breakfast food trust, which was filed last June.

TRAIN DERAILMENT BRINGS DEATH TO MANY

BROKEN RAIL BLAMED FOR DISASTER ON CENTRAL OF GEORGIA RAILWAY.

Eufaula, Ala., Nov. 13.—Fourteen persons were killed and more than a hundred injured, some fatally, early today, when three coaches of a Central of Georgia passenger train left the rails at a point 17 miles south of here and plunged down a steep embankment. The train, which consisted of five cars crowded with excursionists, was en route from Ozark, Ala., to Eufaula, where a fair is being held.

Blamed on Broken Rail. A broken rail is said to have caused the accident. As the crowded excursion train rounded a curve the three cars at the rear, packed with passengers, suddenly left the track and, breaking away from the others, rolled down a steep embankment.

Occupants of the two coaches which remained on the rails immediately bent their efforts to rescue the hundreds who were caught in the tangled mass of wreckage. Relief trains bearing surgeons and nurses were dispatched from Ozark and Eufaula, where many of the dead and injured later were taken.

Because of the isolation of the place where the wreck occurred and the confusion which prevailed, identification of the dead and injured was slow. Not until tonight were the names of a majority of those killed known with certainty.

Railroad officials issued a statement tonight, in which they ascribed the wreck to a broken rail. It was announced that an investigation would be made.

INSURGENT LEADERS WAITING ON WILSON

Nogales, Nov. 13.—Eyes were directed toward official Washington tonight by the actors in the exchanges between President Wilson and General Carranza through William Hayward Hale. It was considered probable that the next step would be either in the form of some announcement from Washington or a continuance of the negotiations through Mr. Hale here.

chatting with Consul Frederik Simpson and callers. General Carranza referred to the Mexican situation but once today. "I will not enter into transactions with the Huerta government directly or indirectly," he said. "Nor will I accept the mediation of anybody."

STRIKING IT RICH

HUERTA BEGINS TO BACK UP AND IS NOT SO BELLIGERENT

CONTINUANCE ASKED FOR THE POWER HEARING

POSTPONEMENT FOR SIX MONTHS MAY BE TAKEN BY STATE COMMISSION.

Helena, Nov. 13.—(Special.)—The hearing to inquire into the reasonableness of the rates charged by the Montana Power company in the 23 cities or towns in which it operates may be postponed six months. The company requested this continuance at the hearing that began today in order to complete the task that was begun last July of making a complete inventory and appraisal of all the property of the company as the basis for scientific rate-making.

Mexican Dictator Asks Charge O'Shaughnessy If Action Can Not Be Withheld—He's Told There's Not Much Chance—He May Yet Be Induced to Resign.

Mexico City, Nov. 13.—The statement made by the minister of finance Wednesday night that he had been unable to present Mr. Lind's message to General Huerta was verified today. The provisional president had gone on a visit to Tepic, a suburb, without the formality of notifying his personal friends or official associates. It was not until a very late hour last night that those entrusted with the task of giving Mr. Lind's message were able to locate him.

DIAMOND SWINDLE IN NEW YORK UNCOVERED

HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH OF GEMS MISSING WITH WOMAN.

New York, Nov. 13.—With the disappearance of a young woman who was recovered in fashionable hotels in Fifth avenue and the discovery by the police of many diamonds in pawnshops, a diamond swindle amounting to more than $100,000 is believed to have been uncovered. A man with whom the young woman formed a partnership for the sale of diamonds on memoranda is also missing. The grand jury will begin an investigation tomorrow.

JUROR DIES SUDDENLY MURDER TRIAL RESET

Bozeman, Nov. 13.—(Special.)—The trial of Dominic Romeo for murder in the first degree, which has occupied the attention of the district court since Monday morning, was brought to an abrupt halt yesterday by the sudden death of Joseph B. Quantie, one of the jurors. Court convened at 9 a. m., but Quantie failed to appear and Bailiff Sam Harper was sent for him. He found Quantie lying dead in his cabin, and he had evidently been dead for some hours. The case was investigated by the coroner, and it was clear that death resulted from apoplexy. The Montana statutes, it is said, do not provide for the procedure in case of the death of a juror during a trial, and after some efforts to fill Quantie's place and the examination of several jurymen, Attorney George D. Pease, for the defendant, challenged the entire jury. Judge B. E. Law dismissed the jury and reset the case for Monday, December 1.

DID YOU DO IT?

We asked you, yesterday morning, to figure out for yourself the relative cost of reaching the buying public in western Montana by every method which you could think of. Did you do it? If you did it, you know from your own figures that there is no other method which will reach these people in a day as cheaply as the twelve-hour advertising service of The Missoulian and The Sentinel. You know, if you figured fairly, that this twelve-hour advertising service is many times cheaper than any other method that you can devise. You know, too, that it is more effective. There is no other method—of any price—by which you can reach as many people in this field as cheaply as you can through this twelve-hour advertising service. Compared with any other publicity method and measured by any standard whatever, it is the cheapest and best advertising service that you can find. Your business plans are not complete if they do not include a contract for advertising space in this twelve-hour service.

MRS. JOSEPHUS DANIELS ENTERTAINS FOR BRIDE

Washington, Nov. 13.—Miss Jessie Wilson, the White House bride-to-be, was honor guest at a luncheon given today by Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, at her home. It marked the first of a series of similar functions to be given by the wives of cabinet officers in compliance to Miss Wilson. Thirteen guests sat down to the luncheon table, and Miss Wilson is to be the 12th bride of the White House. This was not by design, however, as the Daniels' table seats just 14.

GREAT POWERS' SUPPORT ASSISTS WILSON PROGRAM

RECEIVERS FIND SAFE EMPTY

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Receivers for a private bank owned by Solomon Lewissolin today broke open the safe where the depositors' money, amounting to $20,000, was supposed to be. The receivers found a cash total of $3.38, but Lewissolin was not found.

THE PRESIDENT DECLARES THE SITUATION HAS BECOME MORE FAVORABLE.

SETTLEMENT IS LIKELY

Shutting Off of Financial Aid From Abroad Is Hurting Huerta—He Is Fast Drifting Into Bankruptcy—Rumors of Split in His Official Family Continue to Come.

ON SUNSET LINES GREAT STRIKE IS BEGUN

MEMBERS OF FOUR UNION ORGANIZATIONS WALK OUT, LEAVING THEIR TRAINS.

Houston, Texas, Nov. 13.—Approximately 2,500 trainmen and engineers on the Atlantic division of the Southern Pacific railroad on the Sunset lines, went on strike at 7 o'clock tonight in accordance with an ultimatum presented to the officials of the road here yesterday by delegates representing the four union organizations involved. The walkout came after more than six months of futile negotiations which sought an amicable adjustment of difficulties between the company and the men.

Washington, Nov. 13.—United support from the great powers abroad for the American policy toward Mexico, shown in a variety of quiet diplomatic activities, gave President Wilson and Secretary Bryan confidence today that the elimination of General Huerta as provisional president of Mexico soon would be an accomplished fact.

That the financial blockade instituted by the United States had effectively tied the pursestrings of Europe; that diplomatic pressure was being exerted on all sides at Mexico City; that close friends of Huerta were applying their influence, and persistent reports saying Huerta had gone into mysterious seclusion, combined to raise the hopes of the Washington government that definite progress toward solving the Mexican problem was being made.

President Wilson had prepared early today a statement of the situation, outlining the communications presented by Charles O'Shaughnessy and John Lind, but within a few hours such favorable advice had been received as to cause the president to withhold the document from publication.

"There are elements in this case," said the president, "that I cannot discuss at present, but which make it look, in the very much more favorable light."

The president spoke thus of the situation to a half-hundred Washington correspondents at their semi-weekly conference. It was apparent that he felt decidedly encouraged by recent advice. Asked about the word "favorable," he explained that he meant "favorable to a settlement."

The president gave no detail to show upon what his optimism was based, but he made it clear that a primary condition of settlement was the casting of Huerta and all those who stood for the kind of government he was conducting. It was evident that the president had received important dispatches, but he declined to say whether they were from Mexico City or Nogales, the constitutionalist headquarters.

Later, however, it was learned that from other high officials the plan of financial isolation was bearing fruit and that the plan for Huerta's elimination was being acquiesced in by foreign governments, especially some of those which had previously recognized him and upon which he had come to rely for aid.

One of the important factors in the situation which caused Washington calmly to await developments was the report through authoritative channels that members of the Huerta official circle were divided, some of them urging his resignation to avoid international complications. They were reported to be using every effort to prevail upon him to make a formal announcement of retirement at a fixed date.

The situation has progressed to the point in the view of many officials where even a definite rejection of the American demands by Huerta would not alter his future materially. Confidence prevails that he is drifting into certain bankruptcy and cannot much longer resist the pressure exerted against him.

Another influence that is expected to contribute to Huerta's overthrow is the extension of moral support to the constitutionalists.

GREAT DEATH TOLL GROWS WITH NEWS

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 13.—News received today continued to add to the total of disasters on Lake Huron in last Sunday's storm, and the full toll taken by the gale is not yet known. Bodies of sailors of five and perhaps six vessels were found on the shore of the lake. Wreckage from two other boats, still missing, was cast up by the waves, and no trace has been obtained of two other vessels or their crews, which number more than 40 men.

McGea, Wexford and Charles S. Price. It virtually is certain that these vessels went down with all on board. There also are several bodies not identified. Wreckage of the steamer Argus and Hydus has been cast ashore. Neither of these boats has been heard from since the storm swept the lakes. The freighter Isaac M. Scott is missing, but no wreckage from it has been found. Word was received this afternoon from Captain Ely of the tug Sarnia City that he had sighted the wreck of an unidentified steamer while his tug was passing Port Austin. She is believed to be a total loss. Greatest among today's tragedies was the confirmation of the loss of the steamer John A. McGea, a 432-foot freighter. Twenty-eight bodies of her crew have been washed ashore.
