

Varsity Concludes Training Visit in Spokane

Montana Football Team Goes to Walla Walla Today for Last Game.

Spokane, Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Today the varsity football team concluded its Spokane training with a hard practice at Fort Wright.

A large crowd of soldiers, officers and officers' wives watched the morning practice and were loud in their admiration of the varsity's play.

Contrasts have been signed with Gonzaga for games in 1914, 1915 and 1916, all to be played in Spokane.

Coach Heilman, who coached the team last year, assisted in the practice.

Where the Wedding Repast Was Served

STATE DINING ROOM AT THE WHITE HOUSE, AND MISS JESSIE WILSON, THE HOUSEKEEPER.

In the beautiful state dining room at the White House was served the wedding repast, following the ceremony in the east room, when Miss Jessie Wilson became the bride of Francis B. Sayre.

of trustees when Mr. Wilson was at Princeton; Cole M. House, Charles R. Crane of Chicago; Chairman William F. McCombs of the democratic national committee and Mrs. McCombs.

Little Miss Mary Tumulty, 9-year-old daughter of Secretary and Mrs. Tumulty, was the only child in the reception line.

There was an impromptu dance in the east room after the reception at which the tango and other late dance steps were danced.

The bridemaids wore gold bracelets, gifts of the bride, the ushers wore stickpins given them by the groom.

After the guests had gone the bridal party assembled in the breakfast room and the bride cut the wedding cake with the sword of Dr. Cary T. Grayson, U. S. N., the president's physician and companion.

Then there was a merry dinner, an affectionate good-bye and the couple whirled away in a White House automobile on their honeymoon.

They eluded the curious by going through the kitchen and the executive offices before taking their automobile.

The bridal party were the guests this evening of the Misses Margaret and Eleanor Wilson at the White House.

The bride and groom, both blonde and of about the same height, she known as the White House beauty because of her classic Grecian features, and he, a tall, lithe, young man, athletic in appearance with sharp features and a fair complexion, were busily occupied during the forepart of the day making in the bridal party, their relatives and house guests to whom alone the White House was accessible before the wedding hour.

Preferred Quiet Wedding. The two young people who have lived the hardships of the poverty settlements in big cities and who have inquired into life's social and economic problems first hand, would have preferred a quiet wedding, limited to the family circle and close friends, such as it might have been had not the parents of the bride been elevated to the foremost social position in the gift of the nation. Reluctantly was it made an official affair.

Only 400 Invitations. There were but 400 invitations issued, 600 less than at the Roosevelt wedding seven years ago, but the Wilsons are newcomers in Washington, whereas the Roosevelt administration was then five years old and officials and their wives had had a greater opportunity to establish intimate relations at the White House.

Members of the cabinet and their wives and families, as well as the justices of the supreme court of the United States and their families, the ambassadors and ministers, representing kings and emperors throughout the civilized world, the vice president and Mrs. Marshall, the speaker of the house and Mrs. Champ Clark, Senator Kern and Representative Oscar Underwood, the democratic leaders, and Senator Gallinger and Representative Mann, the minority leaders of congress, and their wives—these were the persons invited because of their official position, though among them were many close friends of the Wilson family.

Senators and members of the house generally were not invited. If they had been, the east room could not have held them. It was the same arrangement as was carried out at the Roosevelt wedding; in fact, the preparations, decorations and general scheme of the day's program were along somewhat the same general lines.

As at the Roosevelt wedding, the diplomatic corps decided to appear in uniform, and in consequence the assemblage was a brilliant one.

The program had been mapped out to the final detail, the White House attaches fixing each part of it with the exactness characteristic of functions at the executive mansion.

High officials and relatives entered at the north front, but the guests generally came in at the east entrance, through the glass conservatory decorated with ferns and palms and revealing through big windows the south grounds with their fountain and Italian pools, the hedges and shrubbery—the exquisite gardening of years.

A Picture of Grandeur. The east room as it was prepared for the wedding was a picture of grandeur. The three crystal chandeliers with their pseudo-candle lights were but half illuminated, spreading a dim but suffused light over the gold-trimmed walls with their cream-colored pilasters, their huge vases and mantels of colored marble.

The walls of the east room are covered with wood paneling, the ornamental ceiling is done in stucco and set in the walls are 12 low relief panels, their subjects from Aesop's fables. The window draperies of heavy yellow silk damask were hung loose today and the shades drawn.

The windows were draped with a large lambrequin of old gold plush with curtains on either side. Wherever there was a loop or wherever the overhanging borders of the lambrequin joined, there were large ropes of smilax and bunches of lilies. In front of these windows a platform approached by two semi-circular steps had been erected.

The platform itself was covered with a rug, and immediately above the steps was a kneeling bench upholstered in white cloth tied with white satin ribbons and filled out with white roses and lilies. Behind this, with just enough space for the officiating clergyman to stand, was a mass of palms and smilax with a great bunch of lilies.

All Stand.

Everybody stood on the glistening parquet floor, for there are no chairs in the east room except on rare occasions, at musicales. The so-called official guests, including members of the cabinet, the vice president and the speaker of the house and their families, the justices of the supreme court and the diplomatic corps and their ladies were grouped in the southern half of the room, the guests generally stood in the northern half with the immediate families of the bride and groom in the aisle between, surrounding the dais after the bridal party had reached the floral bower and improvised altar.

Looking down the main aisle from the dais, the green carpeting met the red rugs of the long corridor which bisects the lower floor of the White House leading from the state dining room to the east room and bordering the trio of parlors—the red room, the blue room and the green room. The United States Marine band, grouped behind palms, was to occupy a part of the great reception hall of marble floor and buff-tinted pilasters.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" Can't Harm Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste, and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without gripping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy, they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle.
