

MISSOULA PRODUCT CHOSEN TO LEAD GREAT TEAM

KEITH JONES, GARDEN CITY BOY, IS ELECTED CAPTAIN OF NOTRE DAME.

Keith (Deac) Jones, who is the greatest football player ever raised on western Montana's hardy fare, will lead Notre Dame's great eleven next year. "Deac" was chosen over Eichelbaum, named by all critics as all-western fullback and second choice on Walter Camp's all-American eleven, to captain the team that beat West Point and the University of Texas and established a right to be listed as the greatest team in the country.

Jones' election was hailed with delight by all Notre Dame men, all of whom call him all-American material and predict for him a brilliant year in 1914.

Jones was born and reared in Missoula and is the idol of the present generation of Garden City youngsters. He was always an aggressive, husky chap, but he didn't break into football prominence until he went east.

A Great Tackle. Although he weighs only 168 pounds, Jones plays tackle in such a way as to make him a candidate for sectional honors. Thus do they speak of him in the east. "According to many of the leading experts who watch the game every year, Jones is the best lineman in the country. Robin, who refereed the West Point game, ranked him as the greatest tackle playing football today. A number of critics who have attempted to give out the leading dope this year have given him consideration in picking all-star teams. Deac came very near landing a berth on the All-American eleven.

"The captain of the 1914 squad will play his last year of college football next season. He knows the game from A to Z. There is not a doubt in the minds of the coaches that Jones will be the man to carry the team into the limelight from the first, next year.

"The fellows could not have chosen a better man for the position," Coach Harper said after the election. Jones is a hard, faithful worker and his teammates have the confidence in him that is necessary for a winning team. As I said after the South Dakota game, I would not trade him for any other tackle in the country."

The Texas Game. That story describes Jones' work in the West Point game. The following excerpt from the description of the Texas game further illuminates the career of the Missoulian.

"The natives down in Texas looked on the Notre Dame team as some sort of a freak and the only way they would bet was that their great tackle, McDaniels, would stop every play directed at him. The Texas star was pitted against Deac Jones, whom many Notre Dame men consider as being All-American material. After three minutes of play McDaniels was carried off the field and didn't get his senses back until well along in the evening."

DANIELS FLAYS PERSONS HYSTERICAL

tariff have passed, and the report of Secretary of Commerce Redfield declares that "the flooding of our markets with the cheap wares of Europe has not happened," as predicted, and America's foreign trade is still evidencing a healthy growth.

"The latest exhibition of hysteria is the effort to prevent the passage of the currency bill. It is well known by everybody that this bill is certain to become a law substantially as now framed, and the principal features of it are as good as upon the statute books, and yet those who would destroy confidence in the American government and its ability to control its finances dub as hysteria the effort to pass a long-needed currency reform promised for years.

Conservation. "Take conservation. The waste of our resources has been so wanton as to rob unborn generations. Men have risen up and declared it must stop. Those who wished to take all the coal for this generation and permit a few concerns to grab up all the mines and minerals, declared that the conservationists were crazy. By this graft they had their wealth.

"Those who wished to impose imperialism upon our country, forgetting that government by consent of the governed is the basis of our liberty; those who wished to annex lands across the seas and change our government to one-half free and half colonial, were as logically certain to be eventually reversed as were those who held out for slavery in the face of Lincoln's prophecy that this country could not exist half free and half slave. They are the hysterics. They have gone around us though hooded and spurred to ride other men, and some of them have applauded at public dinners the song, 'Damn, damn, damn the Filipinos.'

"This so-called hysteria, denounced by standstillers and reactionaries, is democracy—the rule of the people. In every generation the standstillers have sought to have forward-looking men declared fanatics and lunatics. Bright and bold were the destroyers of English liberty! Jefferson was a leveler and a demagogue! They were all hysterics."

The Theaters

Anna's Diamond Stockings. This is how Anna Held, who is coming in a big company to appear at the Missoula theater for a matinee and evening show on Saturday, explains her fond of diamond stockings: "Where did I get the diamond stocking stunt? It came about in a curious fashion. I was at the Folies Bergere, Paris, one night, when an urgent message came to me from Comte de Paris, one of the descendants of the old French nobility. He was a middle aged man and in strict-ing contrast to the general run of French nobles, wealthy. He came around to the stage door, and I saw him in my dressing room. "Anna Held," he said, "there is only one thing needed to complete your wardrobe, and I have brought it to you." He handed me a jewel case and when I opened it, a large exquisite diamond sparkled and flashed under the electric light. "The only condition I make," he said, "is that you must wear it on the stage, so that in some way it will counter-balance the flashing sparkle of your glorious eyes." The following night when I appeared that diamond was mounted on my left stocking. That gave me the idea. And now my $250,000 stockings are, I candidly admit, the rage."

Vaudeville. An entire change of two high-class vaudeville acts and three reels of pictures open at the Bijou theater tonight. The dancing and singing act of the two Specks is a headline feature on any bill, and will do doubt please the audience tonight. The Roberts duo is a clever little vaudeville creation by Miss Roberts and Mr. Roberts, who are both very clever comedians and a merry-go-round of laughter is promised. "The Quality of Mercy," a splendid two-part Selig story of unusually interesting incidents. The latest issue of Pathe Weekly is included in the bill, always more than interest-

BY TRAINED AIRMAN IS AEROPLANE WRECKED

NEFARIOUS ATTEMPT MADE TO BRING DEATH TO FRISCO AVIATOR.

San Francisco, Dec. 17.—The police have instituted a thorough search for the culprit who attempted to kill Arthur Rybitzki, a daring aviator, before 2,000 spectators at the exposition grounds. The scheme was nipped in the bud just before the aviator's flight by his discovery that all the safety wires supporting the main plane had been cut and all the turnbuckles unscrewed.

Had Rybitzki attempted to fly with the machine in that condition he would have attained the height of possibly 200 feet when the machine would have crumpled and the young "mumbler" would have plunged to instant death.

According to the other aviators, the person who cut the wires and upturned the screws knew the construction of the machine. They say that Rybitzki would have been able to leave the ground in the aeroplane, but the instant he tried to dip the machine would have fallen apart.

Rybitzki says he has no suspicions whatever. He declares it must have been the work of some enemy who desired his death. He admits, however, there is a suit over the ownership of the machine.

Rybitzki is an aviator of five years' experience. He came to this city direct from Germany. His machine is a Curtiss type of 60-horse-power.
