

Pastor Russell gave two addresses in Indianapolis recently. We report the one from the text, 'O, give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good, for His mercy endureth forever.' Psalm cxxxvii. The pastor said in part: 'Ingratitude is one of the least excusable sins. But alas, it is everywhere manifested. Rich and poor, learned and ignorant, appear to be growing in the spirit of ingratitude, unthankfulness, discontent, murmuring. And all this is in the face of the greatest blessings that the world has ever known. With the dawning of the new era God seems to be opening His hand and showering blessings everywhere. He openeth His hand and satisfieth every living thing' except rebellious man. The more blessings coming to man, the more intelligence he attains, the less he seems to recognize the fountain, the source, of his favors. It seems paradoxical, but yet it is true, that the day of the greatest favors the world has ever known is the day of the greatest ingratitude and discontent.

Lessons From the Brutes.
The brute creation look up to man as their god—and properly so, for this is the divine arrangement, that man should be the god to beasts, fish and fowl. Man is in the likeness of his Creator, who is the God of the universe. With what shame do we realize that the ox knoweth his owner and the ass his master's crib, yet man ignores his Maker, and seems bent upon forgetting Him.
There is a reason for all this. The formation of the human brain shows us that reverence and gratitude to God would be the natural disposition of humanity. The organs of veneration, worship, spirituality, lie at the apex of the human constitution. In nothing therefore could man, rightly guided, find so much pleasure, peace and satisfaction as in the recognition of his God and the acknowledgment of obligation to Him. Why, then, the aversion to God, the endeavor to forget Him? The ignoring of His blessings and overlooking of His attempts to account for them all as matters of chance, operations of nature? Why is it that the family dog exhibits more of the spirit of loyalty, reverence, obedience and confidence in his master than man, with a higher intellect and capability, exercise toward the God of all grace, the Father of mercies? II. Corinthians, 4:3.

"An Enemy Has Done This."
Our Lord in the parable of the wheat and the tares declares that He sowed good seed—pure truth, intended to bring forth true, loyal children of God, children of the kingdom. He tells us also that when the apostles had fallen asleep in death the enemy, Satan, oversowed the wheat field with tare seed—false doctrines. St. Paul denigrated these "doctrines of devils" in Timothy's field. In due time the tare seed brought forth in the church a terrible crop of demon doctrines, which have gone forth to the whole world to misrepresent God and His purposes.

Undoubtedly it is these doctrines of demons that have gotten their hold in our minds from childhood's hours, which have effected such a poisonous influence upon humanity as to drive the masses away from God—some in fear, some in disgust, some in total unbelief. Is it any wonder that intelligent people should try to convince themselves that there is no such God as the creeds have represented? It is not strange, it really is to their credit that they refuse to worship a being pictured in the creeds as far worse than the most depraved human being that ever was born.

It is no wonder that men try to disbelieve in God who, they are told, had plotted the eternal torture of the race long before He created it, and has made every preparation for human torture to all eternity? Is it any wonder that Christians tell us that the Bible is the authority for all the atrocious theories respecting the Almighty's purposes?
We need no wonder. We are merely repeating in the present unbelief and discontent the results of the false doctrines handed down to us, and believed by us to be the word of God, without the proper exercise of our heads or hearts to prove these and to see that they are doctrines of devils, wholly separate from and contrary to the teaching of God's word.

It is time for all who love the Lord and the Bible to get straight themselves and then to help others. It is time that the world knew what real cause it has for gratitude to God and for contentment with the blessings now being enjoyed. It is time to tell them that the death of Christ is to be the full effect of the sin of Adam, and that the death penalty of Adam's sin is to be fully lifted. It is time to tell them that during Messiah's reign of a thousand years the world will rise again out of sin and death to righteousness and life everlasting—the reversal of the present reign of sin and death.

It is time to tell them that God indeed has been electing, or selecting, saintly ones, but not to the injury of the non-elect; that the work of the elect, in association with Jesus for a thousand years, will be the blessing of all the families of the earth—the non-elect.
It is time to tell the world that the Bible hell is the tomb, shell, habitation; that from it all will be redeemed and will have opportunity for resurrection to perfection of life everlasting, and that only the willfully wicked will die the second death, symbolically illustrated by Gehenna. It is time to tell them that all—both good and bad, rich and poor—have been going to the Bible hell, the tomb; and that the first resurrection will be constituted only of the saints, the church, who are to be associated with Christ in

His kingdom, Revelation, xx:6.
It is time to tell them that none except those begotten of the holy spirit since Pentecost will ever reach the heavenly condition and share the divine nature. It is time to tell them

FUR-BORDERED SCARFS TO MATCH GOWN DEVELOPS AS A FAD OF THIS SEASON

New York, Dec. 27.—On the afternoon of a pleasant day, Fifth avenue is thronged with probably the most stylishly gowned crowd of women in any place in the United States. There may be seen the very latest whims in street and driving costumes, for there the fashionable women go to see and to be seen.

From what I saw on the avenue the other day, I gather that furs are to be worn draped at the back, instead of closely muffling the throat as we used to think necessary. I noticed one exceedingly smart fur stole drawn across the tips of the shoulders, crossed at the waist and fastened with a large buckle at the back. Stoles and scarfs of the same material as suit or coat are extremely stylish, while others are untrimmed. A stylish coat of rough old-rose cloth, worn by a very smart woman, had a long, narrow scarf of the same material edged for about 18 inches in the middle with ritel. Then the cunningest little muff hung by a good-sized handbag, the flap opening over a tiny coin pocket. Fur bands were at either end where the hands slipped into the muff.

The day of stiff pleats and prim lines has passed with many another martinet whim of fashion. In their place are soft folds and draperies, even in smart street costumes. The silhouette in the same in street as in evening gowns, a large waist, hips a little larger, and a decided inward slope to the narrow ankle width of the skirts. The feet are quite prominent in the late mode of dressing, and it behooves every well-dressed woman to keep a watch on the latest thing in footwear. Low shoes, with thin sole stockings, are very popular, although the weather is steadily growing colder. Also shoes with tan-and-gray uppers are high style.

Embroidered stockings are another late whim of Dame Fashion. They are embroidered with designs appropriate to the occasion on which they are to be worn. For instance, hockey sticks are embroidered on the stockings for the hockey player; and for an evening gown white silk stockings, with embroidered pockets upon them.

But one does not see smart clothes only on the avenue. Just now society is interested in various church and charitable bazaars, and, in quest of ideas, I dropped in upon one being held at a certain prominent hotel. As I expected, I saw there some of the very latest gowns for afternoon and street wear. The large ballroom utilized for the occasion was thronged, on either side were the booths, each presided over by two attractive debutantes, who seemed trying to out rival each other in charming costumes and attractive counters.

One strikingly-gowned young woman is shown in our first sketch. She was agent for a gypsy fortune-teller's booth. Her personality, together with her extreme gown, made her a prominent figure in the assemblage. The material was heavy rust-colored silk poplin, broadened with a large all-over putty-colored pattern, but developed in the simplest fashion. The blouse was made with the body and sleeves in one. A broad bias band of plain silk poplin went around the neck, finishing at the front-closing in a point. Around the sleeves were bands of the regular school work and listened to a program of music, readings and dialogues. Part of the exercises were given in the French language. All of the numbers were thoroughly well done.

Valley Social Club.
The members of the Valley Social club were charmingly entertained on Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Dunforth at their home near DeSmet. A lively game of cards was played and a good supper enjoyed.

Big Bend School.
The young people in the school of Big Bend district held a Christmas celebration last Wednesday under the leadership of their teacher, Mrs. Vesta P. Walker. The schoolroom was tastefully decorated and a Christmas tree stood in one corner loaded with candy, nuts and fruit. A good dinner was spread for teacher and pupils at noon. In the afternoon a number of interested patrons saw some of the regular school work and listened to a program of music, readings and dialogues. Part of the exercises were given in the French language. All of the numbers were thoroughly well done.
