"When You Know Gas Light You Will Prefer It"

COST AND CANDLE POWER.

Following up our announcement that we have adopted a policy of giving the public all the information needed to know Gas Light as it is today we wish to call your attention to two new lights: The Humphrey "20" Junior Arc, and the Walsbach "12" Reflex. Both of these lamps are scientifically constructed to give the most White Light for the Least Money. They have extra large mantles, and give an even white light that is well distributed. Burning 10 feet of gas per hour these lights will cost a trifle less than 2 cents per hour to operate, and will give an average of 500 Candle Power. These Wonderful New Lamps will flood your store with the soft white light that is so easy on the eyes, and that shows up your goods in true colors, as no other light will do, daylight alone excepted. A pull of the chain turns the lamps on, and another pull turns them off. Our new Regulator installed will assure an even flow of gas and prevent the pilot light from going out, and we will guarantee to keep these lamps in perfect condition, and to give you GOOD SERVICE. Let us explain our plan for lighting your store or office. Phone 563. Office and display room opposite Milwaukee station.

What though the mercury tumbles until it's out of sight; what though the windows rattle in the chilly gusts of night; what though the coal man chokes as he hears the whirly blast—I know that wind and winter but a little while will last; I fear not if the northwest wind doth puff and snort and blow; I rest secure in confidence that the worst will soon be past—I know that wind and winter but a little while will last; for me there is no terror in the merry mountain breeze; for me the wind make music as it whistles through the trees; for me there's no discomfort if the sky be overcast—I know that wind and winter but a little while will last; right now I cease to worry about stern winter needs; I have Peter Henderson's catalog that tells of garden seeds, and, as I scan its pages, I know spring's coming fast—I know that wind and winter but a little while will last; Way back in Massachusetts—O, many years ago—I remember mother calling me, this same seed book to show; there was comfort then in Henderson, though the storm wind smashed and crashed—and he still brings best assurance that winter's almost past.

There's nothing quite as reassuring as the arrival of the seed catalog. It came yesterday, right along with the howling temperature which threatened winter. And the familiar name on the front cover added to the joy which attended the opening of the mail. It is always like getting a letter from home, to receive the Henderson book. And now that the years have taken away the hands which used to write the home letters, it is such arrivals as that of the Henderson book that furnish the only letters that come. I was pretty busy when the catalog came yesterday, but I had to take a little time to look through its pages and to enjoy the prospect which they present. There is a lot of happy suggestion in these pages; the glance which I was able to give yesterday morning assured me that all of the old friends are there—the asters, the hollyhocks, the larkspur, the monkshood, the verbena, the candytuft, the alysium and all the rest of them—and there are some strangers with whom I shall have to get acquainted. But the Henderson book took the chill off the breeze and made the coal pile look bigger than it did when I sized it up earlier in the morning. I was much obliged to Mr. P. Henderson for his thoughtful remembrance. Now we'll begin to plan the garden, right away.

Over on the south side, a few boys have got together and have formed a club of their own. I call them boys, but their years are near the man limit, which is just about the time when a club is needed and when it can do a lot of good if it is the right sort of club. These young men have had one meeting. They have elected their membership to 40, and they have 30 on their list now. A ground-floor room has been leased in the Knowles block, next to the Mix store, for the club home. There will be no salaried officers and very little overhead expense. The rooms will be equipped for the evening comfort and enjoyment of the members. There will be no liquors allowed in the place, and no card playing for money. There will be comfortable chairs and tables; there will be pictures on the walls. Eventually, it is hoped, there will be music. The plans include excursions into the country, and there is a tentative plan for securing a cabin somewhere in the hills, which will be summer headquarters for the members when they leave their vacations. The movement was started by the young men themselves. It is a movement away from the objectionable influences, and the boys appear to be able to keep it going in that direction. If they need any outside help, I am sure it will be forthcoming, but they seem to be equipped to take care of themselves in fine shape.

Word comes from the Flathead country that the road around the east shore of the lake is nearing completion. The state camps, where the Deer Lodge men have been working, and nine miles will connect the units which are already finished. A man from Polson told me yesterday that the construction which has been done this winter is unusually good. The road will be finished its entire length before spring unless weather conditions develop which do not now seem probable. The east-side road will be one of the most delightful tourist routes imaginable, and it will also open a region which has been almost without means of transportation. Those of us who have traveled over the Flathead-like country realize the possibilities of this east-shore road. When it is all graded, there will be no finer summer trip in the world than this road will afford. —A. L. S.

KENNY SELLS CAFE NORTH SIDE LEAGUE AND MAY LEAVE MISSOULA IS STRONG FOR NATATORIUM

POPULAR RESTAURANT-OWNER SELLS HIS PLACE AND MAY GO TO CALIFORNIA.

At 9 o'clock last evening James Newcomb, a well-known Missoula salesman, became the possessor of the Vienna cafe, and Philip Kenny, under whose management the restaurant has enjoyed its only real prosperity, became a private citizen. Mr. Newcomb, the new owner of the cafe, is an experienced restaurant man and has won a wide circle of friends during the past three years while traveling for the Cudahy company. That he will maintain the high standard of the cafe and that he will make a success of his new venture cannot be doubted.

Philip Kenny, the retiring proprietor of the cafe, has occupied a unique position in local business circles since he came to the city. Arriving in Missoula with almost nothing, he took over the languishing Vienna cafe and made it the most successful restaurant in the city. His keen business judgment and capable management made a successful establishment out of an eating-house that had always been a white elephant.

During his management of the cafe Mr. Kenny has built up a strong clientele and has won the real friendship of every man who ever entered his doors. In him business acumen and personal magnetism are combined in an unusual degree.

Were it not for the fact that Mr. Kenny's successor is a man of much the same type there would be a popular uprising to prevent Phil from disposing of his business. —G. P. S.

EARNST EFFORT WILL BE MADE BY PROGRESSIVE ORGANIZATION TO GET POOL.

The North Side Progressive league went on record last night as being strongly in favor of Missoula having a swimming pool. As to the necessity of such an institution the league did not raise a question. It really went further than to endorse the proposed plan to make the pool a place for children. The north side folks believe that the kiddies should be looked after first, but think that the swimming place should be more in the nature of a natatorium where all and young alike may enjoy and profit in the healthful sport. The club last night discussed in a general way the plans for such a place and some scheme for raising money for its construction and maintenance. The club's idea is not something for the north side alone, but for the whole city, to be centrally located, on the island under the Higgins avenue bridge if possible, and to cost eight or ten thousand dollars. To include the whole city in a special improvement district to raise the money was one suggestion made last night that proved most popular. A special committee will proceed to work upon the suggestions made and report in the near future.

Other Business.

The same strong interest as has been customary was manifested in the work of the league by a large attendance last evening. In addition to the swimming hole there were other matters given attention. The committee having in charge the gathering of facts and figures to be presented by the league's attorney to the public service commission which is soon to meet in Missoula to consider rates for electricity, reported much progress.

A petition to the same commission, asking it to investigate water and telephone rates in Missoula made its appearance at the session. This is to be put in shape and presented to the commission in a short time.

A new committee was appointed to secure data relative to the commission form of government as it has worked out in Missoula, its investigations to cover some points that have been discussed by the league. The committee on civic affairs reported progress but was given more time to make a formal report.

A communication was received from the Northern Pacific concerning the railway matter, saying that this was now in the hands of the city council. The league hopes to secure some sort of a report from the council at its next meeting.

The ladies auxiliary to the league sent word that it was planning on entertaining the gentlemen members in the near future. This announcement was hailed with delight. —L. E. W.

HEAD STUFFED? GOT A COLD? TRY PAPER'S

"Paper's Cold Compound" Ends Colds and Grippe in a Few Hours.

Take "Paper's Cold Compound" every two hours until you have taken three doses, then all gripe misery goes and your cold will be broken. # NEW TRAIL MANUAL A THOROUGH WORK

In the preparation of a manual on the construction of forest trails and roads, a work that would stand the test and serve the men in the field in each of the districts, district No. 1 proposed a plan about a year ago that is now being worked out. A temporary manual was prepared by the officials of this district and into it was put the results of the most careful work and experiments carried on in this field. This work was printed and enough copies secured to that each member of the service got one, with the request that criticisms be freely submitted about every section of the work. These criticisms are beginning to reach the Missoula office. There will be hundreds of them and the task of the local officials will be to consider them and from the mess extract the rules and methods and figures that will become standard for future trail building in the service. Then the manual will be printed in permanent form. —L. E. W.

Here's a Golden Thought

Your fun usually costs you something. Often it is expensive. The opportunity to have fun and get paid for it at the same time is rare. The Missoulian offers you one of these rare opportunities in the fascinating Game of Song and Story, appearing every day in this paper. You can have fun playing this game. You can make your fun profitable by your ingenuity in solving the picture puzzles which make up the game. If you are a winner you will share in the $500 in gold, which The Missoulian is going to give away as prizes for the best solutions to the pictures. YOU can be a winner, as well as anyone else, for The Game of Song and Story plays no favorites. All have an equal chance ALL the time. The Missoulian is offering this game to the thousands who already are playing it, and to YOU, for the amusement and profit of the public alone. Nothing is asked of the participants. There is no soliciting to do, to join in this game. There are no votes to seek as part of the game. There are no subscriptions to get as a condition to your trying for some of that $500 IN GOLD. All you have to do is to clip the picture from The Missoulian every day. Fit the correct song or story title to that picture for the day and save your answers until they are called for by The Missoulian. Then you may find yourself a winner.

MRS. NOWLIN'S SON AND GRANDSON MURDERED

MISSOULA WOMAN GETS SAD WORD OF TRAGEDY IN DAUGHTER'S FAMILY.

Earl Nowlin of South Ninth street received the shocking news yesterday that his brother-in-law, J. G. Morrison and the latter's 17-year-old son, Arling Morrison, had both been shot and killed by hold-up men in their store at Salt Lake. Mr. Nowlin and his mother, Mrs. H. F. Nowlin, left yesterday for Salt Lake to attend the funerals.

The sad affair occurred late Saturday night and is surrounded by unusual circumstances. Last September Mr. Morrison was held up on the street in Salt Lake, but he whipped out his gun and drove the two men off. Last Saturday night Mr. Morrison, the son mentioned above and another one, Merlin, 14 years of age, were just ready to close the grocery store when two masked men entered. One of the robbers said to Morrison: "Now, we've got you," and fired at the place falling, mortally wounded. The son, Arling, darted to the cash register and secured a revolver and fired several shots before he was hit and instantly killed. The robbers then ran from the place and the younger son ran out to give the alarm. Mr. Morrison died as he was being hurried to the emergency hospital.

Because of the statement of one of the robbers to Mr. Morrison, "Now, we've got you," and that their description tallied with that given of the two who attempted to hold up the merchant in September, it is believed that the murderers are the same two and the Salt Lake authorities are bending every effort to make their capture.

Mr. Morrison is one of the prominent Salt Lake merchants, his store being on West Temple street. He leaves a widow and five children to mourn his death. —L. E. W.

MRS. BAIRD'S MOTHER DEAD.

Hastening to the bedside of her mother at Battle Creek, Mich., Mrs. Earl Baird of this city received the message of which she was in dread, at Billings yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Baird left here on No. 6 Sunday night in answer to a telegram stating that her mother was critically ill. Death occurred during the night. Mr. and Mrs. Baird continued on their journey to Battle Creek to attend the funeral.

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

"I am very glad to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Lida Dewey, Milwaukee, Wis. "I have used it for years both for my children and myself and it never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. No family with children should be without it as it gives almost immediate relief in cases of croup." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is pleasant and safe to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by all druggists.—Adv.
