

He's a Wise Manager Who Realizes That Not Even Bakers Endure Forever

Concerned About His Youthful Recruits Is Our Old Friend, Mister McGillicuddy

Connie Mack, Despite His Impregnability, Anxiously Working With Young Players.

(By GEORGE M. GRAHAM.)
 Jacksonville, Fla., March 11.—For a man whose team has escaped unscathed the onslaught of the Federal leaguers, Manager Mack is showing at present the deepest concern in the make-up of his 1914 team.

It might be thought that a club that was good enough to win world championships in three of the last four seasons, and which last year attained its flower, would be good enough to go into the 1914 race without any material changes.

But, as a matter of fact, instead of taking matters easy and moving along in comfort, surrounded, as he is, by the greatest team in the business, if not in the history of the game, Manager Mack is working his hardest. He is out early and leaves late, morning and afternoon.

His tall, conventionally clad figure moves around the ball park, standing back of the pitcher and then that one, watching to see what each is showing. He is constantly talking with the infielders as though he did not have the four greatest inner garden men in the history of the game. He is also watching his outfielders, as though Murphy, Strunk and Eddins had lost their arms and eyes last year, instead of playing toward the finish of the season and in the world series the best ball that any Mack outfield has shown in years.

MACK

Mack Has Feds in Mind.

The fact is that Manager Mack feels that the coming of the Federal league produces something not unlike a crisis. He has said nothing along this line for his entire attitude to the Federals has been from the first to scout the possibility that they could become serious to the fabric of the organized game.

Even now the concentration of Mack does not necessarily mean that he expects the major leagues to suffer any big cash losses through the newcomers.

But Mack is a man to look ahead. It is one of the remarkable things about a most remarkable man that, in addition to being the greatest of baseball tacticians, he is also a most able business man.

It is not to be forgotten that in addition to being manager of the Athletics, Mack is also treasurer of the club, and really has most to say about its business direction.

It has been his skill to deal with crises that several times had kept the Athletics off the rocks.

Thus, his own money, about all he had, in fact, was invested in the club when the American league broke into Philadelphia. He arose to the occasion when the decision of the courts took away Lafaje, Fieck, Bernhard, Dugdale, Fraser and other stars in the season of 1902, and left his club virtually stranded. It was the quick action in getting Waddell and Dan Murphy that put this apparently ruined club in the race and converted it finally into a champion.

At the present time, Mack doubly shares the responsibility of warfare, for he is not only manager, but by his purchase prior to last season of the stock held by the late Frank Horch and Samuel H. Jones, he is a half owner, and must bear half the burdens of warfare misfortunes.

Therefore, Mr. Mack is not being led into feeling of false security by the brilliance of his team. He is looking ahead to fortify himself against any situation that may arise. He recognizes that Plank and Bender cannot go on forever, he knows that he can hardly hope in 1914 to win as many games in which he uses three or four pitchers as he did in 1913.

This is the answer to the life staff of pitchers that is now working out here.

There are only two outfielders in addition to the regulars, and both of these will probably be kept. Daley surely will, and Manager Mack expects the coast star to have a great year. Daley was sick during the early part of last year, and did not show his true form till near the end of the season. The other outfielder is Willie, last year's champion batter in the Texas league. There is nothing in the way of experiment here. These two can confidently be expected to be the lineup.

None of the infielders can hope to make a regular berth; in fact, the infielder hardly lives who could displace any one of the four. But utility material must be found, and here Mr. Mack will probably carry a liberal number. He was caught shy of good infielders in the last month of 1913 and will hardly take a similar chance.

Orr Will Probably Hold Job.

From last year's team remains Orr, and he will probably be retained. Outfielders also may be expected to stick, especially if he can show a hitting strength at all commensurate with his fielding ability. Whether "Brick" McInnis, a brother of Stuff, Shortstop Kept or Third Baseman Karst may be considered yet worthy of a permanent place on the payroll the work in the games on the road prior to the re-

PURDUE ATHLETES WILL GET NO COACHING IF THEY CAN'T KEEP UP IN CLASSROOMS

Lafayette, Ind., March 11.—Purdue university inaugurated this week a new system of keeping athletes from falling behind in their scholarship. Hereafter no candidate for a varsity team will be allowed to work under the direction of a coach unless his classroom record is clear. President Winthrop E. Stone, Athletic Director Hugh Skool, and Football Coach Andrew L. Smith are at the head of the new movement.

A card system has been introduced and the class standing of each athlete will be carefully watched. Frequent reports will be made by the instructors and professors, and as soon as any prospective football, baseball, or basketball player is found conditioned he will be dropped immediately.

In the spring football practice next month no conditioned men will be allowed to take part. Coach Smith will have as many men out as possible and give them thorough instruction in fundamentals. Prospects look bright, as Street, the star of the 1912 eleven, will return to school, and Herdick of the 1912 team also will be eligible. The only big loss will be that occasioned by the graduation of Olliphant, Herbert S. O'Brien will captain the team.

The football team's basketball team will play its last game of the season with Wisconsin next week and with Henry out there is not much chance of spoiling the Badgers' perfect record.

CUBS NOT ON SALE THIS SEASON SAYS TAFT

CHICAGO NATIONAL LEAGUE TEAM WILL NOT BE DISPOSED OF AT ANY PRICE.

Chicago, March 11.—"The Chicago National league baseball club will not be sold this year in my belief," John R. Thompson said today after receiving the report of his emissary, who had a conference yesterday in Cincinnati with Charles F. Taft. "Mr. Taft would not set a price for the stock he holds in the club," Mr. Thompson said, "and as far as my agent could determine, he has not seriously considered selling his interest. He is as much as said to my representative that he had as much property interest in Chicago as any resident and felt that he could be regarded as a Chicagoan."

When this news became known several of those who have been interested in the possible sale of the Chicago club asserted that the situation tended to confirm previous reports to the effect that Charles W. Murphy never really owned a majority of the stock of the Chicago club and had not, therefore, sold it back to Mr. Taft. The same persons asserted that the recent retirement of Murphy merely was a nominal change of ownership, naming Mr. Taft free to name a new president of the club while Murphy remained actively connected with the organization.

In this connection it was said that Charles H. Thomas, secretary of the club, might be elected president for this year under the present ownership.

GIANTS WANT SHAFER BACK ON THIRD SACK

Frank M. Schulte, an Outfielder.
 Heine Zimmerman, a Bear Wherever You Put Him.
 St. Simpson, a Recruit.
 George Pest, a Cub Fan.
 Joe Bug, another Cub fan.
 Scene—Old Chi and Tampa, Fla. Time—March.

Scene 1.
 (A gamball in old Chi. Pest and Bug stand with their feet on the rail.)
 Bug—Some cold tonight.
 Pest—Some cold is right. I'll be glad to get away from here.
 Bug—Gosh' away?
 Pest—Yes, I'm beatin' it to Florida tonight. Gosh! to drop in on the Cubs at Tampa.
 Bug—Gosh, I wish I could go along. Know any of the Cubs personally?
 Pest—Sure! I got a lot of pals on the team. Johnny Evers and Frank Chance was two of my best friends. Course they're both of 'em gone now, but I know Tom Needham and Larry Cheney and Roger Bresnahan and Heine Zimmerman and Frank Schulte.

Scene 2.
 (The lobby of the hotel at Tampa. The athletes are loitering around. Enter Pest. He approaches Schulte.)
 Pest—Are you one of the Cubs?
 Schulte—No. I work for one of the Chicago papers.
 Pest—O, is that so? Tribune?
 Schulte—No, I'm Mr. Fish of the Journal.
 Pest—Please to meet you, Mr. Fish. Is Schulte and Zimmerman anywhere around?
 Schulte—I think they have gone to church. No, here comes Schulte now.
 (Enter Zimmerman.)
 Pest—He looks bigger in his citizen's clothes.
 Schulte—I didn't get your name?
 Pest—Mr. Pest, shake hands with Mr. Schulte.
 (Pest and Zimmerman shake hands.)
 Pest—Please to meet you, Mr. Schulte. I've often watched you play. I've often wanted to meet you. I wanted to ask you how you hit them home runs.
 Schulte—O, I'm same better all right! But I wish I could hit 'em like Zimmerman.
 Pest—I think you're a better hitter than Zimmerman. He strikes out a good deal.
 Schulte—Yes, but he does it on purpose. If he didn't strike out once in awhile no pitchers wouldn't pitch agin him.
 Pest—What was the matter with him last year?
 Schulte—O, him and Evers didn't get along. He knowed so much more about managers' a ball club that Evers got fed up on him.
 Pest—Any truth in the story about him and Evers havin' a fight?
 Schulte—Sure they was. Zimmerman give him an awful beatin'. Then Cheney and Bresnahan and Needham and Archer 'em in, and Zimmerman kicked all of 'em. Then they called in four or five policemen and Zimmerman kicked 'em all out the door.
 Pest—I'd like to meet this guy Zimmerman.
 Schulte—You better keep away from him when he's gettin' mad.
 Schulte—There he comes now. I'll introduce you.
 (St. Simpson enters and is hailed by Schulte.)
 Simpson—Whaddya want?
 Schulte—Mr. Zimmerman, shake hands with Mr. Pest. I didn't get your name? Pest? Shake hands with Mr. Pest.
 (Simpson and Pest shake hands.)
 Pest—Please to meet you, Mr. Zimmerman. I've often saw you play.
 Simpson—What's the gag?
 Zimmerman—Gag? Where do you get that stuff, Heine?
 Simpson—Tryin' to kid somebody? (He passes out.)
 Pest—What's the matter with him?
 Schulte—He's always like that. He's got the swell head.
 Pest—Is he sore at me?
 Schulte—O, Heine's sore at everybody.

Scene 3.
 (A clear store in old Chi. Bug is leaning against the counter. Enter Pest.)
 Bug—Well, are you back in old Chi?
 Pest—Yes, I'm here again. Had a great time, and seen all they was to see.
 Bug—Did you get to Tampa?
 Pest—Sure I was there a week. I had some time with them Cubs. Say, but that's a nice bunch of fellows.
 Bug—See your friend Schulte?
 Pest—Sure. Him and I was out together pretty near every night.
 Bug—Did you meet any of the rest of the boys?
 Pest—O, I knowed 'em all except the recruits before I went down there. We all went out together pretty near every night and lifted a few. They're good fellows. They ain't a swell-headed one in the gang. Zimmerman's peculiar, but he's good-hearted. Schulte was tellin' me all about how Zimmerman kicked Evers last year.
 Bug—George, says Schulte to me, 'you'd ought to see that Zimmerman fight.'"

THE SHORT END.
 Sacramento, March 11.—Albert Klavitter would have scored a shut-out over the Chicago Americans had it not been for costly errors made behind him today by the Sacramento players of the Coast league. As it was, the big leaguers finished on the short end of a 4-to-2 score.
