Forest Service Officials Plan to Measure Water in Creek. The water flow in Placer creek, which supplies water to Wallace and which formerly furnished power for the generating of electricity in that city, is to be measured by agents of the forest service for the next 20 years, according to plans of the officials of district No. 1 of the service, which have been approved by the men in charge of forest service affairs in Washington, D. C.

Placer creek flows down the watershed that drains into the valley or gorge in which Wallace is located and before the forest fires of 1910 this creek carried about 1,000 inches of water. Since that time the average flow of Placer creek has been not more than 250 inches.

The forest service officials here are pleased that they are to be given an opportunity to measure the flow of water in Placer creek because this is one of the few places in the country, say forestry men, where the advantages of re-forestation of a burned-off area will be definitely shown.

District Engineer Kramer will go to Wallace in about two weeks and will install a water-measuring instrument in Placer creek. This will be in charge of the ranger on that area and will be read by him daily. This reading will be continued for the next 20 years, according to present plans.

BURKE KIDS BATTLE IN CAMPAIGN AND LOSE

LIVELY SCHOOL ELECTION GOES AGAINST THE YOUNGSTERS AFTER A FIGHT.

Burke, April 21.—Despite a valiant fight, the youngsters of Burke went down to defeat today when, in the school election, a proposition for ten months' school instead of the usual nine months was voted by a ballot of 34 to 25. The ten months' school was advanced by those who felt that the shorter term gave the children too much spare time during the summer, with little excess time to occupy it.

Opposed were also some 150 children in the Burke schools. Engineered by some of the embryo politicians, the youngsters organized a real machine for the "Nine Months' School." Passing up the main street from the railroad stations one was challenged by a sign painted on almost every conceivable space "Vote for Nine Months of School."

Finally, to prove that they believe in advertising, the youngsters took the head of an old wooden bedstead and emblazoning thereon the message that had been written on a short time before on the school house steps (before the attention of the voter, as two of them carried it down the street, with the legend: "Vote for nine months of school. What 150 children want. Not ten months what five teachers want.")

Although there are hundreds of preparations advertised there is only one that really stands out pre-eminent as a remedy for diseases of the kidneys, liver and bladder. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything.

Eats Freely but Has No Dyspepsia

A Little Pepsin in a Mild Laxative Promptly Corrected a Bad Indigestion.

Fortunate is the one who can eat "anything" without suffering the tortures of dyspepsia, as a few are so fortunate, care should be taken in the matter of diet. Eating slowly, masticating the food thoroughly and taking a short walk after the heavy meal of the day will do much towards assisting digestion. Any grown-up person ought to know the peculiar foods that do not agree, and these should be avoided.

When these common-sense aids fail, the next thing to do is to take a mild digestive tonic, with laxative properties, and there is none better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains the greatest of all aids to digestion, good pepsin. It has other ingredients that act mildly on the bowels, which together form a combination for the relief of dyspepsia or indigestion that is unsurpassed.

Its action is to tone and strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that they can again do their work naturally without outside aid, and when that happy moment comes all medicine can be dispensed with. It is the best remedy obtainable for any disorder of the stomach, liver, and bowels, for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headaches, drowsiness after eating, gas on the stomach, etc. Thousands of users will testify to this, among them Mr. J. W. Goucher, Stites, Idaho, who for several years had all the worst symptoms of
