

TEDDY GETS BUSY FOR COMING FIGHT

ROOSEVELT OCCUPIED WITH PLANS FOR APPROACHING NATIONAL CAMPAIGN.

Oyster Bay, May 25.—The campaign preparations of Colonel Roosevelt took on a warlike aspect today. Information the former president received since his return from South America has caused him to revise his plans for avoiding early public discussion of politics.

It is not improbable that before he sails for Europe next Saturday he will make a statement of his views on current political subjects. Should he do so, it is said, he will devote himself almost entirely to criticism of the policies of the Wilson administration. Since his return from South America Roosevelt has talked with progressive leaders from most of the states in which the progressive party is expected to make its best showing. Today he heard from one more state, Joseph Alsop and Herbert Knox Smith came to Oyster Bay to report on conditions in Connecticut.

It was apparent from his manner today that his dip into practical politics has stirred the colonel to a desire for immediate action. As to the part he is to play, Colonel Roosevelt has received two sets of opinions. Some of his friends wish him to stay in the background until the campaign is well on and reserve his ammunition. Other advisers want him to plunge into the battle at once to prevent the republicans from being first in attacking the Wilson administration.

Colonel Roosevelt was inclined at first to adopt the former course, but today he was seriously considering a shift to an early attack. He will be out of the country from May 30 to June 24 on his trip to Spain and unless he decides to take a decisive step in the next few days he will have no opportunity to do so for some time.

A group of visitors whom Colonel Roosevelt described as "five naturalists" took luncheon at Sagamore Hill today. John C. Shaffer of Chicago also saw the colonel. Colonel Roosevelt will leave home by automobile at 4 o'clock tomorrow for New York to take the train for Washington.

IN STEEL TRIAL.

Philadelphia, May 25.—Final argument in the suit of the federal government to dissolve the United States Steel corporation will be heard in the United States court in this city on October 20, it was announced today. Judge Coffey, with Judges Gray and McPherson, will hear the argument. The suit was begun October 25, 1911. The record in the case covers 23,200 typewritten pages.

MANY KIDDIES.

Chicago, May 25.—Twelve hundred children in one block were found this week by school census enumerators. This is believed to be the prize baby block of Chicago, if not of the world. The block is bounded by Division, Blackhawk, Holt and Dickinson streets. The population is almost exclusively Polish. Louis Link, with 17 children, is the largest contributor to the imposing total.

SWINDLER SURRENDERS.

Portland, May 25.—C. A. Sovereance, one of the five men indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of fraudulent use of the mails in locating settlers on forfeited lands of the Oregon & California railroad land grant, surrendered himself into custody today, confessed and was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail.

Helping Kidneys By Clearing Blood A Function Greatly Assisted By a Well-Known Remedy.

Most readers will be interested to more fully understand why analysis of urine is so important. In the use of S. S. S. to purify the blood, the action is a stimulant to the myriad of fine blood vessels that make up the constructive tissues of the kidneys. All the blood that flows in the body must pass through the kidneys. They act as testers and assessors. And according to what they allow to pass out in the urine, both as to quantity and material, the health of the kidneys and the quality of the blood is determined. The catalytic energy forced by S. S. S. is shown in the urine. It is also demonstrated in the skin. And as the blood continues to sweep through the kidneys the dominating feature of S. S. S. acting as it does through all the avenues of elimination, shows a marked decrease of disease manifestations as demonstrated by urine analysis. This assistance is a great relief to the kidneys. The body wastes are more evenly distributed to the excretories; their elimination is stimulated by the tonic action afforded the liver, lungs, skin and bowels. Thus, in cases of rheumatism, cystitis, chronic sore throat, huskiness of voice, bronchitis, gastritis and the myriad of other reflex ailments, the health of the kidneys and the quality of the blood is determined. First purify your blood with S. S. S., so it will enable the tissues to rebuild the cellular strength and regain the normal health. S. S. S. is prepared by The Swift Specific Co., 527 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and if you have any deep seated or chronic blood trouble, write to their Medical Dept. for free advice.

FIRST COMMERCIAL FREIGHT THROUGH THE PANAMA CANAL

So quietly has the inauguration of commerce through the Panama canal taken place that few people realize that the great waterway is now doing business. The first commercial cargo to pass through the canal was transported last week. Three barges laden with 1,300 tons of sugar, transferred from Hawaiian steamships at Panama, were towed safely through to Colon, where the freight was again transferred and steamers are now taking it up the coast to Philadelphia. This event has hardly been noticed in the news dispatches. Yet it marks the completion of the greatest engineering feat ever undertaken in the world. The work is a splendid triumph for the American army. It reflects glory upon our engineers. The story of the construction of the canal is a story which is more intensely interesting than fiction. It contains chapters of romance, of daring, of hard work, of courage and of denial. This story is delightfully told in the Panama book which The Missoulian is offering to its subscribers. It is a book which should be in every family and in every school. Charming and delightfully illustrated, this book portrays the history of the great canal as it has never been presented before. The details of the offer are given in another column of The Missoulian this morning and should be read. Clip the Panama coupon this morning, meet the other conditions of The Missoulian's offer and possess yourself of a copy of this unusual book. It is a remarkably fine volume and this is the time to have it.

ON PRISON REFORM ASSEMBLY DEBATES

Presbyterians Discuss Capital Punishment—More Active Social Service by Church Recommended—Catholic Church Denounced by Several Speakers.

Chicago, May 25.—A debate on capital punishment was injected into the proceedings of the Presbyterian general assembly today while the report of the special committee on prison reform was under consideration with the result that final action on the subject was deferred. The report recommended that the contract instead of the prison be made the instrument for the reformation of criminals, that prisons be used as a last step rather than the first, and that proved ineligibilities be sentenced to prison for life. In addition to this, the prison contract labor system was condemned without qualification. After the report had been read Governor C. R. McVee of Chicago inquired how the committee proposed to punish murderers.

"We have not touched that in the report, but my opinion is that no government or man has the right to take a human life," replied Chairman Irwin. "I do not believe in killing a man to reform him." Rev. C. G. Sterling of Eureka, Ill., expressed himself in favor of capital punishment for murder and added that his understanding of the Bible justified capital punishment. Wilson Cheered. President Wilson's name was cheered when the speaker told of how the nation's chief executive a few weeks ago stopped his official duties to speak a few comforting words to a crippled child caller.

"President Wilson is a Christian first and the president next," the speaker said. Rev. Edward E. Hastings of Fort Dodge, Iowa, read the report of the standing committee on education, showing that 825 candidates for the ministry had been given financial aid in their education last year, an increase of 31 over the previous year. Rev. S. C. George of Pittsburgh offered an amendment to the report of the committee directing that financial aid be withheld from all candidates for the ministry addicted to tobacco. It was referred to the committee on bills and overtures. The report of the joint committee of the four largest Presbyterian bodies in the United States on the relation of the Christian faith to social service was adopted. The report recommended that the church take a more active interest in the social, economic and industrial lives of its people. The report of the systematic benevolence committee will come up tomorrow at Wednesday. The expected opposition to the suggestion contained in the report that the women's auxiliary adopt a new method of handling its funds will not develop, members of the women's council said today. The assembly today adopted the following resolutions after addresses by several speakers attacking the Catholic church: "The general assembly views with serious concern the growth and pernicious activity of that powerful, political, religious organization known as the Church of Rome, which is and always has been a menace or a blight to civil and religious liberty of every kind wherever it has obtained a foothold; that it views with serious concern the dangerous apathy pervading all classes of Protestants in this country touching this menace."

It was made plain during the debate that the objection of the Presbyterians to Catholicism is not against any spiritual doctrine or action directly connected with it, but against the speakers termed "political activity of the Catholic church." Those who spoke on the subject before the resolution was adopted included the Rev. J. S. Lyons of Louisville, Ky., and Dr. J. Addison Smith of Murfreesboro, Tenn. Dr. Smith charged that "an edict from the pope was found on the body of Major Bull, who died on the Titanic, commanding all Catholics to vote for a candidate other than Woodrow Wilson in the presidential election."

Dr. Smith said he recently served on a committee which appealed to the Associated Press for wider publication of general church news and that the efforts of the committee were futile. Mr. Smith declared that "even the Associated Press is controlled by the fine hand of the man on the Tiber."

Handling Cream in Summer Any one who cares to produce a first-grade cream in summer will need to produce a clean milk and keep the cream cooled to at least 50 degrees Fahrenheit. The critical time is immediately after the milk is drawn. At that time the temperature of the milk is about 88 degrees, which temperature is very favorable to rapid development of those bacteria which are always present in dirty stables, floating in the stable air, and adhering to unclean utensils. Some of these are bound to get into the milk and unless it is separated immediately and the cream cooled, they will be sure to develop undesirable flavors before the cream is delivered. A good way to cool milk or cream quickly where ice is not available is to put it into a vat of fresh, running water which, from the average well, is usually about 50 degrees in temperature. The cooling of the cream may be hastened by stirring occasionally after the cans are set into the water. By so doing the layer of cool cream coming in contact with the sides of the can will be replaced by the warmer cream in the body of the can. The same principle holds true with respect to the water surrounding the can in the vat. If the water is kept running or is occasionally replaced by fresh cool water, the temperature of the cream will be reduced more rapidly and held at a lower temperature longer. A good way to keep fresh water about the can of cream

She threw me a flower and, laughing lightly, She toned my spirit to courage knighthly. Joys long bygone! She threw me a flower and, laughing lightly, Passed gaily on! —Stokely S. Fisher.

A DECLARATION. I warn our opponents that the fight has only just begun. Whatever may betide in the future, of one thing the disciples of an easy opportunism may rest assured—I will never abandon the principles to which we progressives have pledged ourselves and I will never abandon the men and women who draw around me to battle for these principles. They and I stand with our faces toward the morning; we will never be sundered from one another; and we will never yield the ground we have taken or flinch from the fight to which we are pledged. —THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

ORE-TRAIN DONEYK IS AFRAID OF THE DARK MINERS RIG HIM WITH A HEAD-LIGHT AND HE PERFORMS ALL RIGHT. Spokane, May 25.—"Jack the Burro," a husky little animal that hauls ore trains in the Copper King mine at Chewelah, Wash., 60 miles north of Spokane, is the most unique feature of that mining camp, which recently attained fame by the revelation of the largest body of gray copper ore known to the world. Jack has afflicted at the head of the ore cars during 18 of his 20 years of life to date, making 14 trips each morning under ground. Each round trip covers 2,800 feet, so the little burro has traveled underground more than seven miles each morning for nearly a score of years. Nearly everybody who goes to the Chewelah camp insists on seeing Jack. He stands only four feet high, and despite his 20 years of strenuous life is still vigorous. The burro's height serves as the groundwork for a story told by mining men. They say that the first tunnel driven in this mine was in charge of a pioneer miner, known as "Old Man Meter," famed for his stature of four feet and six inches. Since "Old Man Meter" and the burro both were small, he commended by making the tunnel only five feet high, whereas the regulation here is seven feet. The result is that the ordinary person has some trouble getting through this tunnel, which now is used only for ventilation, however. Among Jack's many peculiarities is his fear of darkness underground. Attached to his breast is a tin can containing a candle, known in mining circles as a "Ponoser." The moment the light goes out the ore hauling business suddenly ceases, for Jack will not budge an inch without his light. The little burro is as gentle as a lamb, except when an unlighted tunnel would be a passenger gets astride him. Then he develops all the vicious traits with which a long line of unruly ancestors has endowed him.
