

THE THEATERS

Empress.
The patrons of the Empress are promised a laugh for today when a funny, sidesplitting Keystone comedy entitled "The New York Girl," will be shown. This picture is in two reels and, like all other productions of the Keystone studios, is a scream from start to finish.

"On the Border" is a Reliance photoplay staged in Mexico. An American officer saves a Mexican dancing girl from insult at the hands of two Mexican bullies. The Mexicans, determined to get revenge, plan to kill the young officer, but are prevented from doing so by the quickness of the Mexican girl.

Tomorrow, the fifth episode of "The Perils of Pauline" will be shown. This installment contains many thrills.

chronicling the adventures of Pauline in a Chinese opium den.

"Shepherd of the Hills."
"The woods and the hills are a part of God's handiwork. From this play you may, in some measure, feel their influence. My play is the story of a man who took the trail that leads to the lower ground, and a woman, and how she found her way to the higher sunlit fields."

These are Harold Bell Wright's preliminary remarks regarding his dramatization of his celebrated novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," which comes to the Missoula theater on Tuesday, September 8, for its second annual engagement.

He has written a story of rough times in the Ozarks, days before the coming of the railroad, the period of huskings, house-raisings, rough and ready settlement of disputes with the fists, laborious farming, highway robberies and so on. It is a "red-blood" virile play, yet one that has a deep message. It is filled with unique characters and incidents. The fact that the novel, from which the play was made has held the record for five years as the leading "best seller," is ample proof that it is what the public wants; and the play has proven to be one of the most successful dramatic offerings of last season.

"Kitty MacKay."
The story of "Kitty MacKay," the celebrated and clever comedy which ran one entire year in New York and is to appear here at the Missoula on Thursday, September 10, has to do with a quick-witted and winsome Scottish Cinderella.

This young person with her vivid imagination and ready tongue is taken from her life of drudgery with the drunken MacNabs and transported by the fairy prince to London. What happens to her there is too complicated and funny to be described here. "Kitty" has her trials and tribulations as well, but the play must be seen to have them appreciated. The company which is to be seen here is the same that appeared at the Comedy, New York, where the play ran for over one year. The cast is an excellent one containing many names familiar to local theatergoers. The organization is under the direction of William Elliot and the play is by Catherine Chisholm Cushing.

Bijou.
For a beautiful singing and instrumental vaudeville turn of the highest order, none can surpass the Mathews trio, featured at the Bijou this week. One lady and two men have a splendid repertoire of song and music. Lloyd Mathews' modeling especially delighted the audience. Mrs. Mathews' contralto voice is most charming and her songs are wonderfully rendered. The Mathews will make their last appearance at the Bijou both matinee and evening today. The picture program consists of an amusing Edison comedy and a splendid two-reel Vitagraph drama. A big musical program is offered by the orchestra.

SHOEMAKER'S DIAMOND GOES TO A BURGLAR

While A. J. Lacasse was at home eating lunch at noon yesterday a burglar forced the screen door at the rear of his little shoe shop on South Higgins avenue, broke into the till and made a clean get-away with a diamond ring, valued at $250, and money amounting in all to about $8.

The burglary was committed with great daring, for it is possible to see into the shop from the street. The man got safely away, however, and the police have been unable to find any clue to his identity.

ASKS NEW TRIAL.

In the case of Phoebe Finley against school district No. 1, the plaintiff has moved for a new trial in the district court. The motion was submitted without argument and was taken under advisement.

J. R. TOOLE DENIES PRESENCE OF THE DETECTIVES

HEAD OF A. C. M. COMPANY'S LOCAL CONCERNS EMPHATIC IN HIS EXPLANATION

The Anacanda Copper Mining company has imported no detectives to guard its lumber mill at Bonner. The report printed yesterday morning is without true foundation, according to John R. Toole.

It was said that about 20 Pinkertons came to Missoula Thursday morning and went at once to Bonner. This rumor was the basis for the story that the A. C. M. company had become fearful for the safety of its plant and had placed guards about it. Threats had been made, it was declared.

Thursday morning a dozen men got off the Milwaukee train, walked over to the city and went to Bonner on the street car. They said that they were Pinkertons. Later they returned to Missoula. Whether they were hired gunmen or not, is not certain, but the officials of the company deny that they have had anything to do with guards.

Mr. Toole's denial was emphatic. The company has not placed any guards, and Mr. Toole regretted the report for the reason that it is likely, he feels, to inflame public opinion.

DECREE OF DIVORCE.

Imo Patullo was granted a decree of divorce from her husband, W. E. Patullo, in the district court yesterday. Cruelty was alleged in the complaint. The custody of the three-year-old son and $15 per month for the support of the child was the prayer of the plaintiff.

WOMAN COULD NOT SIT UP

Now Does Her Own Work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

Ironton, Ohio.—"I am enjoying better health now than I have for twelve years. When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could not sit up. I had female troubles and was very nervous. I used the remedies a year and I can do my work and for the last eight months I have worked for other women, too. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for I know I never would have been as well if I had not taken it and I recommend it to suffering women."

Daughter Helped Also.
"I gave it to my daughter when she was thirteen years old. She was in school and was a nervous wreck, and could not sleep nights. Now she looks so healthy that even the doctor speaks of it. You can publish this letter if you like."—MRS. RENA BOWMAN, 161 S. 10th Street, Ironton, Ohio.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out and drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

BISHOP REJOICES AT SELECTION OF POPE

CHIMES RUNG IN CATHEDRAL AT HELENA WHEN NEWS IS RECEIVED

Helena, Sept. 4.—The four swinging chimes at the new cathedral conveyed the news of the selection of the new pope yesterday. Immediately after word had been received at the bishop's house, Bishop Carroll ordered the ringing of the cathedral chimes as well as the bell over the bishop's house.

Special services in honor of the new pope were held last evening at the cathedral of the Sacred Hearts. An address was given by Bishop Carroll in which he eulogized the memory of the late Pope Pius X and bid welcome to the new pontiff, Pope Benedict XV.

Other short services in the nature of a thanksgiving were also given at the cathedral.

The chimes at the new cathedral were also rung last evening from 7:15 to 7:30 o'clock.

A Paean of Joy.

The address given by Bishop Carroll was in part as follows:

"Just two weeks ago the whole world mourned. A song of sorrow went forth from millions of Christians because their father was dead. Today Rome is filled with joy. The canopies have fallen in the room of the conclave and for one they will never be raised again. One of its members has gone forth as their chief. The members of the sacred college of cardinals have rendered obedience to the new holy father. To the many thousands gathered before the vatican, the camerlengo announced: 'We have a pontiff.'"

"The shouts of joy that broke forth from that multitude have reverberated throughout christendom and have found their echo in our services here this evening. The wings of electricity have carried the news over the world. The power of the head of the church has again been placed in its ordinary channel after having for two weeks been vested in a temporary head. The children again have a father. The pope liveth and reigneth for ever more. The papacy survives and Christ again is visibly exercising His authority. No wonder that we join with the plaudits of the millions and ring the new bells to announce the glad tidings of joy which two weeks ago sent forth their first and peal announcing the death of the late incumbent, of Peter's chair. Our hearts are filled with joy tonight because the successor of Peter is occupying the traditional chair.

"This is the thing that interests us most: 'What kind of a pope are we going to have?' We know that he is one who took the name of Benedict XV. But we don't know much about the new pope, except that he has occupied distinguished positions. But we do know something of the aspirations of his heart. His aims are indicated in his name. There has been no Benedict since 1758. Benedict XIV was remarkable for his breadth of scholarship. He was well versed in literature and the fine arts. He was a man of action. He was born in Bologna and later became its archbishop.

Like Benedict XIV.

"The new pope took the name of his illustrious predecessor both in the archiepiscopal see of Bologna and in the papacy for more than a provincial reason. He wishes to follow in his footsteps. He seems to have mapped out for himself a career similar to that of Benedict XIV. Benedict XIV was a man of law and order. He reformed the liturgy and spiritual discipline of the church. How ripe is the time for carrying out the laws of the church at the present time. Pope Pius X had almost completed the gigantic work of revising the Canon law and codifying it. What an opportunity for his statesmanship. Benedict XIV was also executive in. Benedict XIV was also remarkable for another thing. He was democratic—he mingled with the people. Therefore the great problem of the church in the second half of the 18th century were easily solved by his statesmanship. They were all solved by him because his contact with the people made him conversant with them. He is regarded by all as one of the greatest of the popes. Benedict XV will have to do the work of Benedict XIV.

"The world is in war. The balance of power is disturbed. It is the work of the new pope to bring peace out of war, order out of chaos—to put the pure and simple doctrine of Christ and the church before all peoples. May God give him the necessary wisdom to do it with. May Benedict XIV assist him in carrying out the program that confronts him. To love every man and all the nations of the world demands a heart as big as the world. May he live long and may his reign be prosperous. May he, like Christ, bid the turbulent waters to be stilled and there ensue a great calm. May peace and unending harmony, Benedict, be your portion during the length of your pontificate."

CORVALLIS BRIDGE WILL SOON BE OPEN

Corvallis, Sept. 4.—(Special.)—The Corvallis river bridge will soon be ready for traffic after six weeks of disuse, during which the east span was rebuilt by O. E. Peppard's bridge crew. The crew completed the contract several days ago, and have returned to Missoula. This week, Road Overseer Russel Smithy is employed in filling in the east approach, after which the bridge will be opened. The structure is in a better condition than it has ever been. The new span is constructed of wood and steel, and is placed upon substantial concrete piers. The new span replaces one of wood, built 15 years ago by Contractor Young of Stevensville, and which was condemned by the commissioners early last spring.
