men's famous punch appeared to be gone. The new champions were first to score and except for half an inning, when the score was tied, held the lead until the end.

Evers Gets Honors. To Captain Johnny Evers fell the honors of scoring the initial run of the final game of the 1914 series. He opened the fourth session by working Shawkey for a pass, advanced to second on Connolly's infield out and moved to third on Whitted's single, and scored on Schmidt's infield out.

The Athletics tied the score in the fifth inning when Barry singled, took second on Schang's out and scored on Shawkey's double. Nothing daunted, the Braves came right back in their half of the same inning and won the game with two additional runs, both made after two were out. Rudolph singled to center, took third on Moran's double to left and both came home when Evers singled over second.

The Athletics appeared to lose heart and never seriously threatened in the remaining sessions at bat.

Because of the shortness of the series, the club owners and national commission divide a smaller sum than in any world's series since 1910. The attendance at today's game was 34,363 and the receipts, $62,653. Of this sum the players received $33,822.61; the club owners, $22,555.98 and the national commission, $6,274.41.

The players receive less money than has fallen to their lot since the series of 1910. Each of the four umpires receives $1,900, the money coming from the national commission's percentage of the profits.

The world's series of 1914 was the tenth between the pennant winners of the two major leagues since the national commission, the highest court of baseball, took charge of the annual autumn championship battle in 1905. Today's victory of the Braves brings out a tie for inter-league honors since American League and National League clubs each have won club pennants. The American victories and the clubs that won them are as follows:

Chicago, 1906; Philadelphia, 1910; Philadelphia, 1911; Boston, 1912; Philadelphia, 1913.

The national league triumphs were: New York, 1905; Chicago, 1907; Chicago, 1908; Pittsburgh, 1909; Boston, 1914.

The final game was the least exciting of the series. There were few brilliant fielding features that are not seen in games during the league season. Maranville made a great stop and throw on a hard hit ball by Collins and Mann brought cheers on a fine running catch in the outfield.

Batting Ordinary. The batting was also of the ordinary kind. Whitted got two singles. Moran made a double and Evers, Schmidt and Rudolph each got a base hit. Seven of the 10 men in the game for the former world's champions made a hit. It was their best offense of the series. Those failing to connect were Murphy, Schang and Penneck. The latter was at bat only once, the hits made by Walsh and Shawkey were two-base drives.

Rudolph struck out seven men, his victims being Oldring, Collins, Walsh, Barry, Shawkey and Schang, the latter twice.

There were but three strikeouts against Boston—Evers, Schmidt and Gowdy falling victims to Penneck's fast curves. Shawkey gave two bases on balls in the five innings he pitched and Penneck also gave two. Rudolph gave one base on balls and made one wild pitch.

The new champions excelled the Athletics in hitting, but not in fielding. Boston made a total of 14 runs in the four games; 23 hits for a total of 54 bases and four errors. The Athletics gathered together only six runs; made 22 hits for a total of 21 bases and three errors. Boston played one errorless game and the Athletics two, today's contest was the first game in the last four world's series in which both teams played without an error.

Evers made seven singles in the series. Gowdy had six hits for a total of 14 bases. Schmidt made five hits. Baker made four hits in the four games. Murphy three, Collins three, Schang two, McInnis two and Strunk two.

Despite the rather mediocre play of the game, the enthusiasm of the thousands of spectators, furnished a thrilling climax when the last Athletic was put out and championship honors were assured for the Braves. Cheers thronged piled out of the stands and bleachers and rushed across the field to the Boston bench, but the Mackmen were first to the dugout and were shaking hands and congratulating their late opponents before the first of the fans reached the scene. Once the crowd gathered in force the police had difficulty in holding it in check. Gowdy, Maranville, Captain Evers and other heroes of the series were lifted on the fans' shoulders while a roar of applause went up that could be heard on Boston Common.

"Royal Rooters" Busy. The "Royal Rooters" brigade formed and with the band and its Indian-clad leaders at the head marched around the field cheering the empty bench where but a few minutes before the Mackmen had conferred on the last bit of baseball strategy and then joined the thousands paying homage to the Braves.

Mayor Curley, President Gaffney and Manager Stallings made short speeches in response to the cheers of the fans and it was almost dusk before the last celebrator ceased to whoop and snake dance about the bases.

BRUINS WORK HARD PREPARING FOR IDAHO

GOOD SCRIMMAGE PRACTICE IS HELD WITH NISSEN IN LINE—TEAM GOES THURSDAY

In preparation for their game with the University of Idaho, to be played in Moscow Saturday, the members of the University of Montana football squad last night went through one of the hardest workouts yet meted out by Coaches Hellman and Nissen. Until after 6 o'clock, the Bruin warriors were kept at their scrimmage drill and the practice was as good as many of the games seen on Montana field.

Nissen in Line. Friendships were forgotten by the men and the fighting spirit was much in evidence. The squad members were fighting for an opportunity to represent the university in the Moscow game and each one on the field had to look out for and give an account of himself. To add to the excitement, Jerry Nissen, assistant coach, played a guard on the second-string eleven and made his opponent in the first-string line work for all there was in him.

Practically every play of the university team was tried, tried again and repeated last evening and the teams worked mostly at all times. The first-string men were kept on the defensive practically all of the time devoted to scrimmage. The second-string men were able to advance the ball and scored several times when given the ball on the varsity's 10-yard line.

Leave Thursday. The team will probably leave for Moscow Thursday night and will arrive on the camping ground of the enemy Friday noon. This will give Montana's hopes an opportunity to get a good night's rest before going into the contest which is an important one to Montana this year. Idaho is said to have one of the strongest teams that has ever represented that institution and Montana will have to work hard to bring home a victory.

Probably Last. The workout of last night was probably the last one Montana will have before going against the Idaho men and that accounts for the fierceness of it. Captain Owsley and Leonard Daems, guard, were not in the fracas last evening because of injuries and sore spots. Daems has a "charley horse" and Owsley is being saved for the big game of Saturday.

McInnis Scoring the Athletics' First Run

In the second inning of the first world's series game at Philadelphia, the first man up for the Athletics was McInnis. He walked. Strunk singled to right, and McInnis scored when the ball got through Moran and rolled to the fence. Photo shows McInnis crossing home plate.

Boston, Oct. 13.—Not since the national commission assumed charge of these interleague contests in 1905, has a feat like Boston's been accomplished in a world's series until today. Several clubs have won four out of five games and in the early days of the Temple cup and National league versus American association, straight-victories were chronicled. In 1884 Providence defeated the Metropolitan three straight. In 1894 the New York club defeated Baltimore in four games for the Temple cup and two years later Baltimore won four consecutive victories from Cleveland.
