

Will small waists come back? Is there a new figure?

These two questions are asked us daily.

Read our answer carefully. Small waists are unnatural and unhealthy. Since natural waist lines have been adopted by millions of women, we do not see how they can go back even if they want to. It takes years of work—yes, work—to cultivate a small waist, and when you get it you do not always enjoy it.

Is there a new figure? Yes, but it is only a step nearer a perfect figure. The bust, when too full or heavy, is being supported—not raised—but just supported. Is that all? Just about. The new figure is shown well in model—made in a figured Broche. Has elastic inserts in skirt. A wonderful corset at $7.50. Fitted by graduate corsetiers at our store.

PRIEST IS INSANE IS THEORY OF FRIENDS

NO OTHER WAY TO ACCOUNT FOR HIS ATTACK ON MAN HE DID NOT KNOW

Chicago, Nov. 4.—When the inquest into the murder of Thomas J. Patterson, a Chicago ticket agent, is resumed tomorrow, it is believed that the circumstances in this remarkable stabbing affair will establish the mental derangement of Rev. Father J. J. Mullen, a much-loved Chicago pastor, who is held in the county jail charged with the deed.

The clergyman was studious and ambitious, and new honors were about to come to him from Rome. He was soon to have left his beloved parishioners of the Holy Rosary church to take an important office at the head of a religious order in Rome. His followers believe that worry over leaving them, or perhaps a mental breakdown from study and overwork, caused the tragedy which has come into the young priest's life and wrecked it.

"I kill a man? I never harmed anyone in my life," was the statement Father Mullen made to a friend who interviewed him in the jail.

The stabbing took place on October 20 at Hillside, near Mount Carmel cemetery. Behind the killing is a story of an automobile ride into the country to pick mushrooms, a riot in a saloon, and fighting outside in the street. Father Mullen had gone to Hillside with Paul Simmoni, one of his parishioners. Simmoni declares they had lunch together at the saloon, and that while eating, the priest suddenly became violent. He threw his untouched glass of soda on the floor and began raving. The saloonkeeper tried to quiet him, but the priest ran from the place, says his companion. Later, Father Mullen ran toward the railroad station, and it is there that the ticket agent, Thomas J. Patterson, was fatally stabbed. His companion believes that the clergyman mistook Patterson for an enemy.

The details of the affair will be unfolded at the hearing tomorrow, for a thorough investigation was completed today. Many of the parishioners will attend. That insanity will be the priest's plea as an explanation of his act was indicated by his attorney, Leroy K. Heckett, in a statement made after the postponement of the inquest. "I think it would be best to commit Father Mullen to some place where suitable observations of his condition may be made," he said.

Fred Patterson, son of the murdered man, declared he was satisfied the assault was without provocation, but that there are circumstances that might explain the clergyman's act.

Suddenly Seized by Mania. That the pastor was attacked with a sudden and violent fit of dementia was the only explanation his friends could offer for his conduct. Dr. Stephen Piotrowicz, former superintendent of the Dunning Insane asylum, examined the pastor and said afterward: "I found a scalp wound on his head. There is no doubt that he is suffering from concussion of the brain, which accounts for his strange actions.

State's Attorney Quinn, who was assigned to the case, visited Hillside and went over the scene of the killing. He interrogated many witnesses and found conflicting stories. He learned that when the pastor reached the railroad station after his flight from the saloon, an altercation arose with Patterson. Father Mullen plunged a knife into the ticket agent's side, he says, and left him to die outside the station door. Simmoni, the companion of Father Mullen was arrested, but was later released on the promise of his attorney to be present at the inquest tomorrow.

candidates on the state ticket have been elected with Governor Morehead. The result on legislature will not be known for a day or more.

The republicans have elected congressmen from three districts. Returns on the woman suffrage amendment are still far from complete, but those compiled indicate that it is defeated by 5,000 or more. Secretary of State Bryan spoke for woman suffrage.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

TRY GRANDMOTHER'S OLD FAVORITE RECIPE OF SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color anduster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; stops ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is musty and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application of two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

OREGON NOW DRY BY A DECISIVE MAJORITY

COMPLEXION OF STATE VERY LITTLE CHANGED BY POLL.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 4.—With the exception of governor, the political complexion of Oregon's roster of public officials was changed very little by yesterday's election. Oregon returns to the senate George E. Chamberlain, democratic incumbent, and to the house W. C. Hawley and N. J. Sinnott, republican incumbents from the First and Second districts respectively. In the Third district C. N. McArthur, republican, succeeds A. W. Lafferty, who ran as an independent after failing to obtain the republican nomination.

For governor, Dr. James Withcombe succeeds Governor Oswald West, democrat. The state legislature remains republican. Oregon adopted the prohibition amendment by a large majority. All but five of the other 28 measures referred or initiated by the people appear to have been defeated. Other measures that seem certain to have passed are a law requiring voters at all elections to be American citizens instead of being eligible after taking out their first papers and a law allowing municipalities to merge with others.
