FARMERS GATHER FOR CONVENTION
Omaha, Neb., Dec. 10.—Representatives of 10,000 farmers' organizations throughout the United States gathered here today for the first convention of the American Farmers' federation, which was organized last August at Kansas City. The convention opened at Hotel Millard this morning, with J. A. Everitt of Omaha, president of the federation presiding. Aside from the completion of the organization work, whereby all farming districts in the United States will be combined in the federation, the one big problem that is before the meeting is the perfection of a marketing system. The various forms of this measure were discussed by able speakers, and they provided for the establishment of a central system that would work with the present local farmers' association, forming a central clearing house for farmers, both organized and unorganized, in handling their marketing.

It was pointed out that the local organizations of farmers, covering practically every section of the country, have met with great success in their separate and united fields. The proposition of uniting this great body of some ten thousand different organizations into a distinctive marketing organization is one of the largest combines ever undertaken, and it means, if successful, a new era for American farmer. Although the plan is in its infancy, and many of the delegates from remote sections were not altogether sure that such a big body would be able to benefit their particular locality, the meeting took on an enthusiastic aspect from the state. Tomorrow and Saturday further meetings are to be held, for further consideration and discussion of the practical points of organization and scope of work to be undertaken.

It is estimated that the small amount of two cents per acre for land in cultivation will provide sufficient funds to establish the most efficient central organization. It is expected that the federation will approve this plan of financing the plan.

The big central idea, as advanced today, is the formation of a system of county or district clearing houses reporting directly to a national clearing house on crop conditions and available supply. The national clearing house would undertake to meet prevailing demand at any given terminal market and prevent congestion of the market, which so often brings loss to the producers.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION REPORTS
Washington, Dec. 10.—In its annual report to congress today the interstate commerce commission makes these principal recommendations:
Laws to control railway capitalization.
Compulsory use of steel cars in passenger trains and prohibition of the use of wooden cars between or ahead of steel ones.
Definite penalties for violation of the hours-of-service act.
Laws to make explicit and certain the authority of the commission to examine all documents and records of railroads.
To definitely fix one period—preferably three years—in which legal actions may be started relating to transportation charges.
All the commission's recommendations are made in extraordinary brief form, and without discussion.

Otherwise, the commission's report is a chronological review of its work of the year.
The work of physical valuation of railroads is well under way. With the coming of winter, the field parties are being transferred from northern roads to those in the south. There are now eight parties at work surveying about 1,500 miles a month. The number of parties will be increased on January 1 to about 20 for each of the five districts.
At some length, the commission reviews its investigation of accidents. Collisions caused by improper flagging continue to be a prominent feature of those investigations, the report says, and cases of inexperienced men have been found. The number of collisions due to enginemen failing to regard block signals has decreased.

"The inherent weakness of the train order system continues to manifest itself as a prominent feature of the accident record," says the report, calling attention to the need of legislation to make standard operating rules. The general movement among the railroads for higher freight rates, the commission dismisses with a brief review of the proceedings in the eastern advance case which it decided last August, and which is now again awaiting a supplementary decision.

Various decisions of the commission carried to the supreme court are discussed in some detail with references to their application to traffic.
