MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but becomes weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active. — Missoula Drug Co., Agents.—Adv.

(Contributed.)
The college dismissed school last Thursday at noon for the holiday vacation, which will last until January 4. As usual, everyone felt that he had passed a very pleasant, as well as profitable, morning, and when school was dismissed at the end of a little friendly talk with wishes of a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all, everybody seemed to catch the spirit, and for some time the most heartfelt greetings were given. The occasion could not have been made a happier one, even if the good old Saint had been there in person.

Children's Coughs and Colds.
Mothers are often worried by the frequent colds contracted by their children. Mrs. L. H. Bradley, Mohawk, N. Y., states that in the winter of 1909 and 1910 her children all had bad colds and coughs, and it was not until she gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy that they began to improve. After taking this remedy a few days all symptoms of their colds disappeared. This is only one of the many thousands of mothers who have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and gladly recommend it to their friends. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

MR. FERGUSON UPON WORK OF THE YEAR

Mr. Ferguson made talks on the subject and a motion was made and carried that the executive committee be instructed to proceed with the plans. This was done and as a result, Mr. Charles Hansen, a man of real practical experience as well as theoretical knowledge, has been assigned to this field. Mr. Hansen was given quarters with the chamber of commerce offices and is already beginning his work with the farmers, although on account of the season he can at present do little more than lay the foundation for the campaign which will be on in earnest when the spring work opens up.

Western Montana Fair.
A resume of the year's work would not be complete without some reference to the Western Montana Fair. Although the chamber of commerce claims no credit for any direct hand in the success of this fair, its members assisted to the best of their ability and the commercial organization assisted by giving its moral support and secured the closing of the stores for the big afternoon of the fair. Too much credit cannot be given the fair board and its secretary, F. M. Lawrence, for the efficient manner in which the first real Western Montana fair was conducted. To cap the climax, Mr. Lawrence has just returned from Bozeman where he drew down 19 prizes at the annual seed show against the strongest kind of competition. This shows what Western Montana land can do and is one of the strongest arguments toward inducing the farmer looking for a new location to select this section of the state.

A committee selected by President Coffee took charge of the annual Fourth of July celebration and put on an entertainment which brought many western Montana people to the city during the two days. The G. A. R. encampment was assisted by the chamber of commerce in raising the necessary funds and entertaining the visitors. It was a successful convention in every sense of the word.

Industrial Survey.
Chairman Sileo of the ways and means committee early in the year broached the subject of an industrial survey of western Montana. Upon consideration, the committee decided to limit this to an industrial survey from two standpoints: That of dairy- and timber-using industries. It had been clearly demonstrated during the past two years that it is not practical to consider Missoula as a general manufacturing center at the present time. This condition arises from our location as regards the centers of population, which makes general manufacturing out of the question on account of the high cost of labor and the distance from markets. However, it is only a matter of time until our timber resources will bring this country before the eyes of the manufacturers employing timber in their finished product. When the cost of timber in the east has reached a point where it will offset the cost of transportation and labor Missoula will be in a position to bid for manufacturers. It is on this account that it was decided to make a survey of our timber-using industries and it is believed that when we are in a position to place actual figures instead of generalities before the manufacturers that we will be rewarded for the time and money put into the industrial survey.

The committee has not overlooked the fact that there are possibilities in the pea and fruit-canning industries, and it is proposed to push this during the coming year.

During the past year a creamery has been erected and will be in operation shortly after the first of the year. The dairy herds of western Montana are on the increase and before long we will be known on account of our dairy products. The co-operative creamery at Stevensville has demonstrated that a few dairy cows mean to the farmer, and it is now a certainty that western Montana will be in the van along this line before many years have elapsed.

Fort Missoula.
Realizing that Fort Missoula the proper location for the federal troops sent to this state, the chamber of commerce took this matter up with our representatives in Washington and they have succeeded in having the troops removed from Helena to Missoula, where they could be given some accommodations. Owing to the Mexican trouble it is not possible to state at this time just when troops will be brought here permanently. However, soldiers have been in the city for over two months and are likely to remain for some time longer. Many important matters have been brought before the executive committee for action. This has been particularly true since our affiliation with the United States Chamber of Commerce, which has played an active part in determining the sentiment of the country toward various measures and has undoubtedly been of considerable value in its recommendations to congress.

It was decided that a road from the Bitter Root valley through into the Big Hole country would be of benefit to the residents of the Bitter Root and the chamber of commerce subscribed $250 toward its construction.

The soil survey of western Montana, for which the chamber of commerce has been working for some time, has been completed as far as the Bitter Root valley is concerned and a report of the country. Arrangements have been completed with the Drumhellers of Walla Walla, Wash., to stage this show, or stampee, as the committee has decided to call it. These men are familiar with every detail of staging a wild-west day and realize that during the coming season they will have an opportunity to break all records in the matter of attendance and much eastern travel should be attracted here by the opportunity of seeing the world's champions in their various lines. Both Northern Pacific and Milwaukee railroads have given their approval of the scheme and have signified their willingness to advertise this through the east. It will be a means of diverting travel over the northern route and will give Missoula a chance such as she has never had before. The advertising will be pushed at San Francisco, and it is hoped to interest many who at present imagine Montana to be nothing but a land of blizzards, Indians and range cattle. This also takes money, but it is in the nature of an investment. That it will return several fold there can be no doubt, but the difficulty is to bring this fact home.

Our New Quarters.
We are beginning a new year in new quarters, which we believe will add greatly to our efficiency. A small reading room has been fitted up where visitors and farmers who come to the city can spend a few leisurely moments. The move has cost money, but has met with general approval and will increase the value of the commercial organization immensely. The response to the repeated demands for assistance has been excellent, but during the coming season we will need more money and even more than that we will need the help and co-operation of every Missoula citizen, whether in or out of the organization. If every member of the chamber of commerce would shake off his apathy and get into the game with all the enthusiasm at his command, it would prove an immeasurable help in making the coming year what it ought to be—the most successful and prosperous that western Montana has ever experienced.

A Comparison.
Comparing the chamber of commerce as it is today with last year, an encouraging situation is discovered. The past year has been one of general financial depression and unsettled local conditions, which were largely due to the labor difficulties settled a few months ago. In spite of this fact, the chamber of commerce has made a good record and occupies a stronger place in the community than it has ever before held. Our membership has shown an increase of 20 over last year's roll. The executive committee does not believe that this is as good a showing as ought to be made. It is, however, a splendid record if general conditions are considered. It was hoped to end this year with at least 300 members. The mark has been missed, but we are not through shooting. The chamber of commerce has amply justified its existence during the past year, and during the coming season is sure to better its record. This brings us to a short discussion of the plans which are already under way for next year.

Next Year.
The coming year should mean a real deal to Missoula. Referring again for a moment to the early pages of the report I would like to impress upon the members of the chamber of commerce that there is much to be done and that there must be something with which to do. One of the first events on the 1915 calendar as it appears at present, is the Red Apple banquet. Practically everyone in Missoula is familiar with this event and its success in the past. The chamber of commerce has already extended invitations to six special trains to make Missoula a stopping point on their way to the San Francisco exposition. It requires work and money to entertain these visitors. The executive committee recently authorized Professor A. L. Stone and the secretary to figure on a Missoula folder to be distributed at the San Francisco exposition next year. This also cannot be done on promise to pay. We should overlook no opportunity during the coming season of inducing the easterner to stop off and inspect western Montana. This year will bring through our city a host of tourists anxious to learn something of the country through which they are passing. If we can interest these people before hand, they will know something of Missoula. We would like to reach many of them, particularly the farmers, and must do this through advertising. Advertising costs money.

It must also be remembered that this is one of the most critical years in the history of the university and that the full co-operation of the business interests is vitally necessary.

Fiftieth Birthday.
The chamber of commerce has already cinched what will undoubtedly prove one of the greatest attractions in the northwest in 1915. On July 4 the city celebrates its fiftieth anniversary. In connection with this event it has been arranged to stage a frontier celebration which will be even better than the Pendleton roundup, which has given that city publicity in all parts of the country. Arrangements have been completed with the Drumhellers of Walla Walla, Wash., to stage this show, or stampee, as the committee has decided to call it. These men are familiar with every detail of staging a wild-west day and realize that during the coming season they will have an opportunity to break all records in the matter of attendance and much eastern travel should be attracted here by the opportunity of seeing the world's champions in their various lines. Both Northern Pacific and Milwaukee railroads have given their approval of the scheme and have signified their willingness to advertise this through the east. It will be a means of diverting travel over the northern route and will give Missoula a chance such as she has never had before. The advertising will be pushed at San Francisco, and it is hoped to interest many who at present imagine Montana to be nothing but a land of blizzards, Indians and range cattle. This also takes money, but it is in the nature of an investment. That it will return several fold there can be no doubt, but the difficulty is to bring this fact home.
