"The Pirates," a two reel comedy featuring John Bunny, at the Orpheum Friday night.

Our California weather received a set back Tuesday and Wednesday when the thermometer dropped to 41 below zero. It has moderated some however and we are again enjoying the best of weather.

The members of the Eastern Star entertained a number of their friends at cards and dancing at their hall over the First State bank Saturday night. Refreshments were served and those present report a very enjoyable time.

Thomas J. Canty was in from the Hermitage ranch Friday and that evening attended the show at the Orpheum. This was the first time the old gentleman had ever seen a picture play and to say that he was well pleased would be stating it very mildly.

Harry Lyden returned Sunday night from a short business trip to New Rockford, N. D., where he went to look up a location for a photo studio. He was very much pleased with that place and expects to move there in the summer and open a studio.

The farmers living north of Strator have challenged those living south to a big rabbit hunt the latter part of this week the losers to pay for an oyster supper for the winners, and both sides are confident of winning. It is very liable to prove a bad day for the cottontail.

The company playing Kentucky Sue were unable to get here as advertised last week and the mistake was made by the manager of the show as he gave the manager of the hall here the wrong dates. They are coming Friday night, Jan. 23, as will be seen by their announcement elsewhere in this issue.

The ordinance relative to Sunday closing of the saloons goes into effect Monday, January 26th, and the first dry Sunday that Malta has ever known will be the first day of February. This is to be the first town in the state with a Sunday saloon law, but there are several others that are following close in the footsteps of our city council.

J. C. Duncan says that all persons who have failed to pay their personal taxes where not secured by real estate must get busy soon or their property will be seized and sold for taxes, at the expense of the delinquent. No excuse goes, as the money must be paid immediately, or any personal property in possession of delinquent taxpayer will be seized and sold for said delinquent taxes.

Permit me to call your attention to the fact that this is the time of year to oil your harness before spring work begins. It will renew the life and color of your harness. It keeps the leather soft and pliable and prevents it from cracking and renders it waterproof. B. H. Koke.

J. A. McKenzie, an old time conductor on this line of the G. N., died last week at Havre. The deceased was probably one of the best known railroad men in the state and had numerous friends along the line. Of late years he has been running the Havre Steam Laundry.

Postmaster General Burleson is seriously considering the plan to increase the weight limit of the parcel post to 100 pounds. Present experiments with the recently increased weight limit have proven so satisfactory that parcels weighing up to 100 pounds will soon be going through the mails, it is predicted.

Those attending the Orpheum last night were treated to one of the best if not the best shows that has been given in Malta since the house opened last spring. "The Master of the Garden" was ahead of the "Power of the Cross" and that was considered exceptionally good. Manager Bishel is to be complimented on the good attractions he is getting in.

The ice harvest in Malta is just about over and most of the horses are filled to their capacity. R. J. McCreary is busy this week putting up ice for the public next summer and is getting up considerable more than he has put up in any of the past seasons. Last year he was out of ice long before the warm weather was over and he is taking extra precaution at this time so as it will not happen again.

The dance and house warming at the George Smith ranch Friday night was well attended, there being over thirty couples present. There were people there from the Missouri river to the Canadian line and when it comes to entertaining a crowd Mr. and Mrs. Smith are right at home. The new house is eighteen by thirty-six with a hard wood floor and made one of the best dancing floors in this neck-of-the-woods. At midnight an elaborate lunch was served and the dancers enjoyed themselves until early morning.

In complaint to the interstate commerce commission filed Saturday the board of railroad commissioners of Montana attack the railroad rates on corn, rye, oats, barley, wheat, flaxseed and millet seed from all Montana points to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Minnesota, Trauster, Duluth, Superior, Seattle, Tacoma and Portland. It asks the commission to establish reasonable rates. The railroads made defendants are the Butte, Amcouda and Pacific, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, the Gallatin Valley, the Great Northern, the Montana Western, the Northern Pacific and the White Sulphur and Yellowstone Park.
