

WASHINGTON. The issue of standard dollars for the week ended Jan. 5, was $12,498,848.

The cabinet ministers of the Khedive of Egypt, dissatisfied with the prevailing governmental policy, have resigned in a body.

The recent cold snap was the severest that has been known in this region for many years, and in the extreme South it was the severest known in over a hundred years.

Owing to the threats of dynamite conspirators, the authorities of the city of Glasgow, Scotland, have strengthened the police force at the public buildings.

It turns out that the recently announced injury to the czar of Russia, while hunting, was the result of a Napoleonic attempt to take his life. It appears that, instead of hunting, he was being hunted.

ONTARIO, in the Dominion of Canada, has just had the greatest snow-fall known there in fifteen years. To the abundant snow already on the ground two feet have been added within the past forty-eight hours.

WASHINGTON life is very attractive to the former members of Congress. We are told that Blaine, Windom, Butler, Platt, Robinson and others will spend the winter at the National capitol.

Ir, as the National Agricultural Bureau at Washington reports, the corn crop of this country for 1883 was a total of 1,551,066,835 bushels, it is preposterous to assert, as some do, that "the corn crop was a failure." A billion and a half bushels is not a failure, by a very long shot.

VENNOR'S new almanac for '84 is out. The prophet plainly tells folks that "the first days of January will be mild; no snow, but dust and mud in many places." There was very little dust in the West last week, and with the thermometer ranging between 30 and 30 degrees below zero, the highways were not as muddy as they are sometimes. Even in Chicago there was no complaint of dirty streets. Vennor ought to dry up or freeze up.

A DOZEN years or so ago, one of the most popularly known men in this country was Brick Pomeroy. By his will, however, he disappeared from public view, and was soon so well forgotten that few could say with certainty whether or not he was still counted among the living. That he still retains the vital spark is evident from the fact that he resumed the role of lecturer the other night in New York; and, judging from the account given by a correspondent, his manners have not been improved by his long hibernation.

It is hinted that there is danger of a big scheme evolving from the demand for the preservation of the Adirondack forests up the Hudson river. As the subject is agitated, the estimates of the cost of the forest grounds have risen from $3 an acre to $10, and it is not unlikely that when the New York Legislature comes to be inclined to do something toward securing the forests as a State reservation the price will be much higher. There is some complaint already that scheming individuals and railroad companies are banding together to buy up the property from the private owners at very low figures with a view to selling out to the commonwealth at a very large advance.

ABOUT midnight on Saturday a terrible scene was witnessed at Belleville, Ill. The convent of Notre Dame, filled with women and girls, was destroyed by fire, and the number of victims already known to have perished is twenty-seven. Doubtless there will be other deaths discovered. It is clear that no fire department and no system of fire escapes could have saved these unfortunate women. They were blinded and stifled by smoke long ere the flames reached them, and it is merciful that it was so. The only disaster to be drawn from this dismal is that such holocausts are sure to occur at intervals until none but absolutely fire-proof buildings are erected.

CHICAGO has the distinction of introducing a new system of robbery. At rather an early hour, few evenings since, a citizen of the west side pursuing his homeward way, was asked some trivial question by a man and woman, and before he could answer was stunned by a blow administered by the man while the woman skillfully went through his pockets finding a small sum of money and a watch. The robbery effected, the man hastily departed in one direction and the woman in another. This transaction is a new feature in the profession and the belated citizen of Chicago must hereafter be on his guard against the women he may meet, or the individual in woman's garb, as it is by no means certain that the female robber in this instance was not a man disguised, the more surely to accomplish the crime.

A NEW YORK correspondent of the Boston Globe furnishes that paper with what he alleges to be a true story of the recovery of the stolen body of A. T. Stewart. He says that the robbers gave up the body to a messenger from Judge Hilton, and were paid $50,000. The site selected for the interment of the remains was a small bare hill in Westchester county, N. Y., commanding the approaches from every side. The directions to Judge Hilton were virtually "We will be there at a certain hour on Sunday morning with the body. You send one man unarmed on foot with $50,000 for us. When he has given us the money we will leave him in possession of the body." The programme was actually carried out. A plucky servant of the late Mr. Stewart was selected to complete the purchase. He walked to the top of the hill and was examined for weapons by masked men, who then accepted the money and departed, leaving the body and the body behind them in a

WASHINGTON. The issue of standard dollars for the week ended Jan. 5, was $12,498,848. The Washington tailors say they let down the avalanches of coats seen at the president's New Year's.

The senate committee on public lands will report favorably the senate bill to donate a piece of Fort Smith, Ark. for the support of free schools.

The issue of standard dollars for the week ended Jan. 5, was $12,498,848. This house committee on military affairs authorized Gen. Slocum to report a report to the senate on the Fort Smith, Ark. POSTOFFICE established—Wisconsin, Eden, Langlade county. Postoffice name changed—Iowa, Brown's station, Clinton county to Brown. Postmaster commissioned—Catherine A. Sing, Baltimore, Dak.

It is stated that Minister Lowell was notified by the department of state that his acceptance of the rectorship of St. Andrew's was regarded as an act inconsistent with the real representative of the American government at a foreign court.

POSTOFFICE established—Iowa—Mingo, Jasper county, Michigan—Sutton, Lenawee county. Postoffices discontinued—Montana—Androm, Missouri county. Postmaster commissioned—Richard F. Plank, Post office, Ind.; Valentine G. Peters, Eastport, Me.

MEMBERS of the Washington Press club gave an informal reception Saturday night to correspondents in the city. About 400 persons were present. Speeches were made by Col. Richard Smith, of Texas, representative of the press, and Delegate Maginnis of Montana.

BONDED whisky interests, it is feared by interested parties, are not being handled by the Committee on Ways and Means. A majority of the committee, it is figured, are in opposition to bonded whisky, and does not hesitate to insist upon it.

HENRY FERON was shot and mortally wounded by James Sweeney in New Orleans. A TRAMP who burned a barn causing a loss of $7,000, has been arrested at Reading, Pa. Farmers threaten lynching.

C. W. WOODWARD, a former St. Louis reporter, has been arrested in New York for counterfeiting. CHARLES ALEXANDER Diamond, colored, was arrested in Nashville, Tenn., for slugging A. J. Jannard, messenger of the first National bank, and identifying him with another.

FRANK JAMES is reported seriously ill at his home in Independence, Mo. He is threatened with the loss of his life. His physician pronounced the case quite grave.

JOHN HEWLETT, colored, accused of murdering William H. Hunt, was arrested in Brooklyn, who shot at Dec. 23. FREDERICK G. HARTMAN, who shot at Dec. 23, was arrested in his cell in the Tombs.

A session was held in Omaha Monday by the announcement that Maj. James Neve, manager of the Consolidated Tank Line company, was a defaulter. He has been arrested and his property has been seized, and will probably be arrested.

J. B. SPENGLER, aged twenty-nine years, was arrested in Boston on a charge of obtaining $4,000 by forgeries. He is charged with the murder of a woman in Jersey City, where he was a clerk.

FOUR young men have been arrested for robbing an old farmer in Walker county, Ga. The money was found on him to disclose the hiding place of the money at the muzzle of a gun.

W. MARA, a Toronto stock broker, was arrested in New York on a charge of defrauding the estate of Bradstreet's agency there, as a defaulter. The committee of the stock exchange has ordered that the name of Bradstreet's name on the defaulter's list.

ROBERT G. LONDON, aged sixty, has been arrested in New York on a charge of robbing a man of $4 and with gross assault. He is charged with the murder of a woman in Jersey City, where he was a clerk.

DART & ROGERS, fruiters in Liverpool, have failed. Liabilities $1,000,000. Financial condition of other firms in same trade are reported.

It is reported that five nihilists, assassins of Sudeikin, have been arrested. One of them is in the house of correction. He is well connected, has an interesting family, and is twenty-eight years of age.

CHARLES T. GRIFFIN, City Attorney of Atchison, Kansas, died suddenly Saturday.

SEVENTY-SIX boxes have been taken from the ruins of the convent at Belleville, Illinois, and sixteen of them were found to contain clothing.

D. W. WAKEFIELD, a leading druggist of San Francisco, fell in a fit on Broadway, New York, and soon expired at the hospital.

J. SPYDER, a prominent farmer living near Independence, Mo., went to look after his cattle in the morning, and began bleeding at the nose, and returned to the house, died in a few minutes. He was a member of the Forty-second regiment, and eleven Norman coaching stations were crossed on Manring trotting stock to raise large carriage horses.

W. B. J. HAYDEN, of New York, died the other day his body was found in a ditch. The inquest will continue this afternoon.

BELLE ENGLISH of Cincinnati, after going to the county court, has secured a writ of habeas corpus for her father, for declaring her illegitimate.

SEVENTY-SIX Sing Sing convicts have been deported to the United States, which is taught by one of their number.

A SHORT crop and high duty is causing the heavy importation of American flour in Canada. In November, 1883, the value of imports was $317,398, against $193,517 in 1882.

The Manhattan Gas company of New York, has been enjoined from cutting the gas off from the Newhall house, because he would not pay their bill for gas claimed to be used during his absence for several months.

The Legislature of Texas has been called in extra session. The Governor recommends the repeal of the law providing for the inclosure of school or public lands.

The value of the lumber shipment from Ottawa to the United States during the first ten months of 1883, was $1,000,000, or $109,387.

The Catholics in Milwaukee are appealing for money to erect a monument to the Catholic victims of the Newhall house fire. The fund already raised will go for a monument in Calvary cemetery.

DORA USKER, the ten-year-old daughter of E. D. Umer, postmaster of Denver, Colo., was cured by St. Jacob Oil of an excruciating pain in the neck, and also tooth-ache. One application did the work.

Burning of a Convent at Belleville, Illinois.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7.—Sunday morning was ushered in with tidings of a disaster which has few equals in late records. The Institute of the Immaculate Conception of Notre Dame, at Belleville, Ill., fifteen miles from this city, was destroyed by fire about midnight.

About six o'clock p.m. a fire broke out in the school, ranging from 10 years to full-grown, all girls, and several teachers and other inmates of the building. If it had not been extinguished, it would have been a catastrophe. The fire was discovered when it burst out through the roof.

Soon the forms of women and children, clad in their night dresses, began to appear. The flames were then shrieks and piteous pleadings for help being heard above the roaring of the flames and the falling of timbers.

One of the girls, who had been thrown out of the window and again came back to the windows and began throwing themselves from third story windows. Several other girls were seen to be hurled from a second story window by bystanders. Sister Glacia, who taught the boys of the school, with great presence of mind, picked up the children and carried them to the basement and escaped by the rear of the building.

A party of men, apparently the fire department, entered the building and carried the injured girls to the morgue and the orphan asylum. At the latter place Dr. Kohlmann, who had been called to the scene, and as soon as the injured girls were brought in, dressed their wounds and placed them in bed in one of the rooms.

WHERE THE PERISHERS HAD COOLED sufficiently to permit of it, a force of men went in behind the tottering walls and removed the bodies of the men being tearing aside the accumulations of rubbish, in search of the remains of the dead. Soon three bodies were found, and the bodies of the women were thrown out; next the horribly distorted body of a young person. The bodies of the women were found in the bodies of the unfortunate girls nearly essayed to save. An ugly bulge in the back of the head had been struck by a bullet, which was brought out into the light as the associates of the deceased promptly identified it, partially by the gold trim on the collar, and the buttons and garments which clung around her.

The bodies, or portions of different bodies, were found on the street, and carried through the streets exposed to public gaze. As the laborers of the searchers met with the bodies, they were procured and decently wrapped by covering the repulsive figures with tarpaulins. A one-story brick cottage, the latter being a prisoner among the Greasers he made many unsuccessful attempts to get away, which were invariably frustrated. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

How Both Stabbed Rathbone.

An Albany reporter of the Rathbone tells the following story in regard to the colonel's being in President Lincoln's box the night of the assassination. The circumstances led to their being there rather curious. There was to be a special performance at the theater—

St. Louis, Jan. 7.—Sunday morning was ushered in with tidings of a disaster which has few equals in late records. The Institute of the Immaculate Conception of Notre Dame, at Belleville, Ill., fifteen miles from this city, was destroyed by fire about midnight.

About six o'clock p.m. a fire broke out in the school, ranging from 10 years to full-grown, all girls, and several teachers and other inmates of the building. If it had not been extinguished, it would have been a catastrophe. The fire was discovered when it burst out through the roof.

Soon the forms of women and children, clad in their night dresses, began to appear. The flames were then shrieks and piteous pleadings for help being heard above the roaring of the flames and the falling of timbers.

One of the girls, who had been thrown out of the window and again came back to the windows and began throwing themselves from third story windows. Several other girls were seen to be hurled from a second story window by bystanders. Sister Glacia, who taught the boys of the school, with great presence of mind, picked up the children and carried them to the basement and escaped by the rear of the building.

A party of men, apparently the fire department, entered the building and carried the injured girls to the morgue and the orphan asylum. At the latter place Dr. Kohlmann, who had been called to the scene, and as soon as the injured girls were brought in, dressed their wounds and placed them in bed in one of the rooms.

WHERE THE PERISHERS HAD COOLED sufficiently to permit of it, a force of men went in behind the tottering walls and removed the bodies of the men being tearing aside the accumulations of rubbish, in search of the remains of the dead. Soon three bodies were found, and the bodies of the women were thrown out; next the horribly distorted body of a young person. The bodies of the women were found in the bodies of the unfortunate girls nearly essayed to save. An ugly bulge in the back of the head had been struck by a bullet, which was brought out into the light as the associates of the deceased promptly identified it, partially by the gold trim on the collar, and the buttons and garments which clung around her.

The bodies, or portions of different bodies, were found on the street, and carried through the streets exposed to public gaze. As the laborers of the searchers met with the bodies, they were procured and decently wrapped by covering the repulsive figures with tarpaulins. A one-story brick cottage, the latter being a prisoner among the Greasers he made many unsuccessful attempts to get away, which were invariably frustrated. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

How Both Stabbed Rathbone.

An Albany reporter of the Rathbone tells the following story in regard to the colonel's being in President Lincoln's box the night of the assassination. The circumstances led to their being there rather curious. There was to be a special performance at the theater—

St. Louis, Jan. 7.—Sunday morning was ushered in with tidings of a disaster which has few equals in late records. The Institute of the Immaculate Conception of Notre Dame, at Belleville, Ill., fifteen miles from this city, was destroyed by fire about midnight.

About six o'clock p.m. a fire broke out in the school, ranging from 10 years to full-grown, all girls, and several teachers and other inmates of the building. If it had not been extinguished, it would have been a catastrophe. The fire was discovered when it burst out through the roof.

Soon the forms of women and children, clad in their night dresses, began to appear. The flames were then shrieks and piteous pleadings for help being heard above the roaring of the flames and the falling of timbers.

One of the girls, who had been thrown out of the window and again came back to the windows and began throwing themselves from third story windows. Several other girls were seen to be hurled from a second story window by bystanders. Sister Glacia, who taught the boys of the school, with great presence of mind, picked up the children and carried them to the basement and escaped by the rear of the building.

A party of men, apparently the fire department, entered the building and carried the injured girls to the morgue and the orphan asylum. At the latter place Dr. Kohlmann, who had been called to the scene, and as soon as the injured girls were brought in, dressed their wounds and placed them in bed in one of the rooms.

WHERE THE PERISHERS HAD COOLED sufficiently to permit of it, a force of men went in behind the tottering walls and removed the bodies of the men being tearing aside the accumulations of rubbish, in search of the remains of the dead. Soon three bodies were found, and the bodies of the women were thrown out; next the horribly distorted body of a young person. The bodies of the women were found in the bodies of the unfortunate girls nearly essayed to save. An ugly bulge in the back of the head had been struck by a bullet, which was brought out into the light as the associates of the deceased promptly identified it, partially by the gold trim on the collar, and the buttons and garments which clung around her.

The bodies, or portions of different bodies, were found on the street, and carried through the streets exposed to public gaze. As the laborers of the searchers met with the bodies, they were procured and decently wrapped by covering the repulsive figures with tarpaulins. A one-story brick cottage, the latter being a prisoner among the Greasers he made many unsuccessful attempts to get away, which were invariably frustrated. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.

Among other articles, one of which would prove death to any ordinary man, was a silver bullet in the lower left side of his back, a minnie ball just below the heart, and a bullet in the right arm, which was a fatal wound. He was several times wounded during these attempts to regain freedom, bullets going through his arms and legs. The question of one foot being shot off.