

THE WEEKLY PANORAMA

MINER AND SOCIAL LEADER.

Wealthy Connecticut Man Finds the Strain Too Great.

Henry K. McHarg, Jr., of Stamford, Conn., who is exceedingly wealthy, has returned home from Virginia, where he has been working as a common laborer in the iron and coal mines in which his father is largely interested. He endeavored to combine the duties of a workman by day, but found the strain too great. His work in the mines was of the hardest kind. He was employed twelve hours a day, seven days in the week, receiving at wages $1.40 per day. At night, when the other laborers and miners were abed, McHarg would often lead a cotillon or take part in some other social event. He had entrance to the most exclusive social circles and was a general favorite. He was taken ill with pneumonia and had a close call for his life. He proposes to return to the mines as soon as he regains his health.

LONGSTREET IS ALMOST WELL.

Veteran of the Confederacy Recovering from a Serious Illness.

Gen. James Longstreet, whose marriage to Miss Ellen Dortch, the beautiful young southern woman, is still well remembered, has nearly recovered from his long illness. Gen. Longstreet is now living in Washington. His wife has not been able to resume her position in society during the past season, owing to Gen. Longstreet's ill health.

Gen. Longstreet is a familiar figure to the public. He graduated from West Point in 1842, taking part in the Mexican war, and obtaining the title of brevet major for his valiant deeds. In June, 1861, he resigned to join the confederacy. He was promoted to the rank of major general in 1862. He was a favorite member of Lee's staff, and was at the head of several fiercely fought battles in Virginia.

Booker Washington Not a Musician.

Pedro Tinsley, once a porter of a Northwestern parlor car, has resigned his position as vocal director of music at Tuskegee institute and will go back to railroad work. He gives as a reason that Booker Washington has "little conception of music," and he brings forward evidence: "He wanted me to make the boys and girls there sing loud. I had a class of 400 voices and when they sang plantation melodies it was something fierce the way they would roll them out. No, Mr. Washington knows nothing about music."

WELL-KNOWN WRITER DEAD.

"Nym Crinkle" Passes Away at His Home at Monsey, N. Y.

Andrew C. Wheeler, better known as "Nym Crinkle," a well-known newspaper writer, died last week at his home at Monsey, N. Y. He had served on the staff of various New York papers and was well known as a musical and dramatic critic. In addition to many articles in current magazines on these topics he was also the author of "The Chronicles of Milwaukee," "The Primrose Path of Dalliance," "The Twins" (a comedy), and other smaller feuilletons. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.

Many Hands Work on Doll.

The most peculiar feature of the doll trade is that no one factory makes the entire doll. A toy turtle with a clock in its chest, has to pass through the hands of three men and thirty-seven girls before it is ready to be put on the market. Some doll makers employ many hands inside the factory and send the different parts to the homes of the workers to be completed there.

BEFORE THE PUBLIC EYE

TYNER'S LONG PUBLIC CAREER.

Assistant Attorney General Has Held Many High Offices.

James N. Tyner, who, it has been rumored, is to resign from the assistant attorney generalship of the general, and in 1889 he was appointed

JAMES N. TYNER

Postoffice department, but who ridicules the idea that he is going out because of the complaints against his department in the get-rich-quick case, has had a long and distinguished public career. A former resident of Indiana, he was member of Congress from that state from 1869 to 1875. From 1875 to 1882 he was successively second assistant and first assistant postmaster general, and postmaster to the position he now holds. He went out in 1893, however, but was reappointed in 1897. He is 71 years old.

Honeymoon Thirty Years Old.

The honeymoon tour of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Hull of Danbury, Conn., interrupted almost at its beginning, thirty years ago, was begun all over again last week. They have become grandparents since then. Mr. and Mrs. Hull were married on March 11, 1873. They started to visit Wisconsin and return through Kentucky. The trip ended abruptly at Albany, for a business telegram called Mr. Hull home. They decided then to postpone their tour until the first anniversary of their marriage, but something happened then to prevent and also on following anniversaries. This year they sailed up the Hudson to Albany. They will visit all the places they intended to and will be gone a month, Mr. Hull is wealthy.—New York World.

MAJOR SYMONS MUST WORK.

Master of White House Has Many Duties to Keep Him Busy.

Major Thomas W. Symons, the President's new master of ceremonies, will have many duties to perform aside from the social tasks involved in the white house management. He will pay all the white house bills and be the military aid to the nation's chief executive. Major Symons will accompany President Roosevelt on all his journeys.

Leads Choir in Workhouse.

A small fortune has come to Bentley Wormold, a well-known character on the streets of Akron, O., who, since running through an inheritance of $40,000 twenty years ago, has lived bit or miss, spending a great part of the time in the Cleveland workhouse, where long ago he won fame in that institution as the leader of the choir on Sundays. His present inheritance comes by the death of an uncle at Leeds, England. An aunt says she will make application for the appointment of a guardian. Wormold was in the city prison on the usual charge of intoxication when the news came that he was again a favorite of fortune.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Dollars for Ninety Cents Each.

As a novel method of advertising a business house in Washington sold 1,000 new $1 treasury notes for ninety cents each. The sale lasted just two hours and all that time the line of would-be purchasers of "good money at reduced rates" was over a block long. No person was allowed to be more than one bill at a time, but there was no limit upon the number of times each person might buy. In consequence the line was of the nature of an endless chain. As each ninety cents was handed to the cashier a bill of sale was made out and a dollar bill was wrapped up like an ordinary purchase and delivered to the customer.

AS THE WORLD REVOLVES

ENCIRCLING WORLD ON FOOT.

Hungarian Has Undertaken a Long and Arduous Journey.

Andreas Chrometz, a Hungarian, 31 years old, has undertaken to encircle the world afoot. Except when crossing bodies of water that cannot be circled he proposes to traverse his entire journey without the aid of conveyances of any sort. He left his native town of Turo, Marton, Hungary, Sept. 4, 1901, tramped across the continent into England, went over all of the provinces of the king's domain and then cut for Canada. He visited the principal cities there, then journeyed over New York state to the metropolis. He reached Philadelphia Feb. 6, spent a few days there and then started for Pittsburg, where he now is. At every town in which he stops Chrometz secures the postmark of the place and a short descriptive note as proof positive that he was there. He sells pictures of himself and carries voluminous clippings which tell of his travels. He expects to reach Chicago in the course of the coming month, and hence will journey to San Francisco and take a steamer for Japan.

COAL OPERATORS GO FREE.

Judge Chetlain Decides That He Has No Jurisdiction.

Acquittal of the Indiana coal operators was ordered by Judge Chetlain at Chicago in an opinion which he rendered on the motion of the defense to take the case away from the jury. The seventeen defendants against whom a special grand jury returned indictments charging them with entering into a conspiracy in restraint of public trade in violation of the antitrust law of Illinois were held blameless by the court and the jury signed a verdict of not guilty.

Judge Chetlain took the case away from the jury on the general ground that the acts of the defendants affected interstate commerce and therefore were within the sole jurisdiction of the federal courts. His decision that he was without jurisdiction in the matter was, he said, given with much reluctance.

Indians Honor Miss Longfellow.

A delegation of Ojibway Indians paid a visit to Miss Alice Longfellow, daughter of the poet, at the Longfellow home in Cambridge, Mass., last week, and left as a remembrance a belt of wampum. Miss Longfellow, with her two sisters, Mrs. Dana and Mrs. Thorp, entertained the visitors. The gathering in the old-fashioned library was a picturesque one. The delegation was headed by Chief Wabunosa. Miss Longfellow was invited to visit the tribe at Gardien River reservation, Ontario, next summer.

LAWYER'S FEE IS $2,000,000.

Richest Commission on Record Due to Panama Canal Deal.

New York lawyers believe that by the passage of the Panama canal treaty by the United States senate William Nelson Cromwell of that city will receive the largest fee ever paid to a lawyer in this country, if not in the world. The report finds general credence in Wall street that $2,000,000 of the money to be paid by the government for the partly finished ditch across the isthmus will go into Mr. Cromwell's pocket.

Englishmen to Visit Canada.

At the suggestion of Lord Strathcona and Lord Aberdeen a party of members of both houses of parliament is being organized to pay a visit to Canada in the autumn recess. The object is to study the resources of the dominion, with a view to a more thorough enlightenment of the people of Great Britain.

BIGGEST CRAB EVER FOUND.

One in Brooklyn Museum Over Eleven Feet in Diameter.

The biggest crab ever discovered, it is said, is now mounted and on exhibition in the Brooklyn Museum of Arts and Sciences. The natural home of this creature is under from 600 to 4,000 feet of water. The crab measures 11½ feet in diameter and for the most part it has a very beautiful complexion—for a crab—ranging from a delicate old rose tint on the top of the carapace and legs to a pale brownish shade on the underside.

The two front legs have the usual crab claws, which are big enough to crush a man, but the others end in narrow brown hoofs without toes. The eyes on the branches are enormously large and the feelers are as big as garden hose.

The crab was taken off the Japanese coast and formed a part of a collection made by Prof. Bashford Dean of Columbia college last year and it was presented to the Brooklyn museum by Eugene G. Blackford. It took more than a month to mount it.

It is supposed that the giant crabs grow to twelve feet in diameter, says the Detroit News-Tribune, but the one in Brooklyn is the biggest ever captured. Not many of them are captured—not more than ten or twelve a year—although the Japanese are fishing over the grounds where they are found all the time.

The Japanese fishermen set lines several miles in length, with many hundreds of hooks, which are sunk to the floor of the ocean and left over night. When the lines are hauled in next morning all manner of extraordinary things are found attached, from giant crabs to sea lilies.

BUFFALO HAD TO CLIMB.

Logic of Situation Wouldn't Permit Any Other Movement.

A near relation of the late Baron Munchausen on the maternal side, lineally descended from Ananias and Sapphira, was telling a party of friends about treading a bull buffalo in one of the trees of California.

"That story lacks likelihood," remarked the man who knows everything, like so many other men; "the buffalo belongs to the ruminant family, has four or five stomachs and walks on hoofs. It has no claws at all and could no more climb a tree than a Jersey cow."

"As a general proposition you are right," said the story-teller, with perfectly unruffledmien. "But this case was quite exceptional. We were after the buffalo with four of the most vicious dogs that I ever knew. One was a boar hound, one a great dane, one a pevie, or wolf hound, and the other a registered bulldog, with jaws like wrought iron. Well, they brought the buffalo to bay at the foot of a big tree and pressed him so blamed hard that he just had to climb. That was his only salvation."

Not That Time.

Senator Hoar, at the New England Society dinner that was recently held in Philadelphia, told the following story of his friend, Rev. Joseph Erskine of Edinburgh.

"The good Mr. Erskine at one time in his life lost handkerchief after handkerchief. He found, on investigation, that it was on Sundays these losses occurred, and accordingly one Sabbath morning Mrs. Erskine sewed his handkerchief in the tail pocket of his coat.

"'Noo,' said she, 'noo lat us see what will happen!'

"Mr. Erskine, with the sewed-in handkerchief, passed down the aisle of the church that morning as usual to ascend to the pulpit, but as he sat by the amen corner he felt a gentle tug behind, a delicate nibble among his coat tails. Thereupon he turned on the disappointed old woman in the corner and said with a triumphant smile:

"'No' the day, honest woman; no' the day!'

Champ Clark Taken for a Minister.

Champ Clark of Missouri was mistaken the other day for a Methodist exhorter. Congressman Clark had just completed a period in an impassioned speech against a claim bill, which he regarded as iniquitous. In appealing to his colleagues to make a record for economy, he said: "Now is the accepted time; now is the day of salvation."

Soon afterward the house adjourned and a thin, little man, hard of hearing, said to him:

"Brother Clark, I came into the gallery just as you extended your invitation to those godless colleagues of yours to lift their feet out of the miry clay. I knew you was a minister the minute I set eyes on you."

Mr. Clark said something about his duty, and it cost him $3.55 among his friends when the story got out.—New York Tribune.

His Style of Pills.

A Southern colored preacher of nimble mind and ready tongue, was in the habit of boasting that he could preach on any subject, and still keep the discourse in religious channels. One Sunday night he said to his congregation: "Now let any of the brethren name a thing to talk about. Anything." "Talk about pills!" shouted a keen old man who sat in the front row, and was desirous of tripping the preacher. "Pills!" A good subject! As you know, brethren, there are many kinds of pills. There are sugar-coated pills, to cure most anything. There are bromide pills to make you sleep. There are quinine pills for colds. But the pills I shall now consider are the gos-pills."

The easiest way to flatter some people is to tell them they are flattery proof.

Concentrated Wisdom.

The marriage of a young man while a student in college is an unusual event. It may be added that it is also an imprudent, because premature step. It is of no use, however, to tell the boy so—first, because it will do no good, and second, because he will find it out in due time without being told.—Portland (Ore.) Oregonian.

Did He Gamble?

This is one that is said to be new. A countryman went down to the city and returned full of tales of the time he had had. He was relating them in the village store and one of the admiring crowd inquired if he had gambled. "Gambled!" he shouted, "gambled! Why, my friend, I played the gold-dusted slot machine till no more gum would come. Did I gamble? Well, say!"

Medical Advice Free—Strictly Confidential.

No, Maud, dear; we should scarcely call an organ grinder an all-around musician.

To the housewife who has not yet become acquainted with the new things of everyday use in the market and who is reasonably satisfied with the old, we would suggest that a trial of Defiance Cold Water Starch be made at once. Not alone because it is guaranteed by the manufacturers to be superior to any other brand, but because each 10c package contains 16 ozs., while all the other kinds contain but 12 ozs. It is safe to say that the lady who once uses Defiance Starch will use no other. Quality and quantity must win.

More people brag about what they are going to do than about what they have done.

No chromos or cheap premiums, but a better quality and one-third more of Defiance Starch for the same price of other starches.

Probably the most unsatisfactory thing on earth is compulsory love.

"Ethergram" Suggested.

The attempts to coin a name that will fit the discovery of Signor Marconi increase every day. Up to the present time "Marconigram" has been the favorite term, but recently an English scientist evolved the word "Ethergram," and this has been received with acclaim. It is said that Marconi himself likes it, and recognizes that it is peculiarly applicable to his epoch-making discovery, which is simply and plainly a message written by ether.

Full of Detail.

An American woman in Japan bought a can of mushrooms and found the directions translated in English as follows: "Directions—If several person will be to eat this in that manner they shall feel satisfied nutrition and very sweet or it can put in the hot water for the half hour and then take off the lid. They shall be proper to eat. It can be supply without putridity for several years."

The Tulip Mania.

During the tulip mania in Holland, in 1636 and 1637, a single bulb of a tulip named the Viceroy was sold for four tons of wheat, eight tons of rye, four fat oxen, eight pigs, twelve sheep, two hogheads of wine, four barrels of beer, two barrels of butter, a thousand pounds of cheese, a bundle of clothes and a silver pitcher.

FOOLED THE HOSPITAL.

Was Pronounced Incurable, but Got Well on Pure Food.

Sometimes in a case of disease resulting from the use of improper food the symptoms are so complex that medical science cannot find the seat of trouble, and even the most careful hospital treatment fails to benefit. A gentleman of Lee, Mass., says: "On April 1st, 1900, I was sent home by one of our Massachusetts hospitals, saying nothing more could be done for me. I have been a great sufferer from nervous diseases and rheumatism and nervous prostration and had previously been treated at Sharon Springs and by a number of doctors without getting much assistance.

"One day I was feeling worse than usual when I read an article about your Grape-Nuts that impressed me so that I sent out for a package. I commenced using it at breakfast the next day.

"For fifteen months I never missed one day. If you ever saw any one grow strong and improve it was I. I gained from 125 pounds to my old weight of 165. I will always be a cripple from rheumatism, but otherwise I am so much improved that I now feel as well as any man in the country." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There is a recipe book in each package of Grape-Nuts that will interest the housekeeper.
