On motion, the name of the organization was changed to the Manufacturers' Association of the Confederate States of America. The former secretary being absent, E. Steadman was appointed secretary and treasurer.

The following delegates answered to their names: W. Gregg, Graniteville, S. C. W. Gregg, Jr., Graniteville, S. C. J. J. Gregg, Graniteville, S. C. W. E. Jackson, Augusta, Ga. J. C. The president then called upon delegates for their estimate of the cost of production of cotton goods. After full discussion, the president, on motion, appointed a committee of three, with instructions to report upon the estimates presented by the various factories in regard to the actual cost of the production of cotton goods.

Afternoon session, half past three o'clock P. M.

The association met according to adjournment.

The committee on cost of production, through their chairman, submitted as their report the following preamble and resolution, which was, on motion, adopted: WHEREAS, The Manufacturers' Convention, after comparing notes as to the immense advance upon every article in use pertaining to the cost of producing goods, viz: cotton, labor, oil, alcohol, varnish, gums, leather in its various uses, card clothing and hand cards for stripping cylinders, steel, iron, files, hardware, shuttles, bobbins, reeds, steel travellers, steel spindles, tin, Babber's metal solder, nails, screws, and a thousand other articles largely in use, most of which have increased over 1,000 per cent. in value, and some extend to the fabulous advance of 10,000 per cent. therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Manufacturers' Convention consider, from actual estimates presented, the present cost of production of cotton goods to be equal to fifty cents, per pound, and deem it unsafe to bargain with Government at any fixed price to extend beyond one month, without the establishment of a sliding scale, by which the price may be varied from month to month, as the cost of production may advance. W. E. JACKSON, GEO. H. CAMP, A. V. BRUMBY, Com.

After receiving the report, on motion of G. Garmon, the association adjourned to meet at Columbia, South Carolina, the time subject to the pleasure of the president, who is requested to issue a circular giving manufacturers notice of the time appointed, and urge their general attendance. WILLIAM GREGG, Sr., Pres. E. STEADMAN, Sec'y.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, December 13th, 11 P.M.

The fog began to disappear early in the morning, affording an unobstructed view of our own and the rebels' positions. It being evident that the first ridge of hills in the rear of the city, on which the enemy had his guns posted, behind works which could not be carried except by a charge of infantry, Gen. Sumner assigned that duty to Gen. French's division, which was supported by Gen. Howard's.

The troops advanced to their works at ten minutes before 12 at a brisk run, the enemy's guns opening upon them a very rapid fire. When within musket range, at the base of the ridge, our troops were met by a terrible fire from the rebel infantry, which were posted behind a stone wall and some houses on the right of the line. This checked the advance of our men, and they fell back to a small ravine, but not out of musket range.

At this time another body of men moved to their assistance in splendid style. Notwithstanding large gaps were made in their ranks by the rebel artillery when our troops arrived at the first line of the rebel defences, they doubled-quickened, and with fixed bayonets endeavored to dislodge the rebels from their hiding places.

The concentrated fire of the rebel artillery and infantry which our men were forced to face, was too much for them, and the center gave way in disorder; but afterwards they were rallied and brought back.

From that time the fire was spiritedly carried on, and never ceased until after dark. General Franklin, who commanded the attack on the left, met with better success. He succeeded, after a hard day's fight, in driving the rebels about one mile. At one time the rebels advanced to attack him, but were handsomely repulsed, with terrible slaughter, and loss of between four and five hundred prisoners, belonging to General A. P. Hill's command.

General Franklin's movement was directed down the river, and his troops are encamped to-night not far from the Massahonix creek. Our troops sleep to-night where they fought to-day.

The dead and wounded are being carried from the field. The following is a list of officers killed and wounded as far as yet known: General Jackson, of the Pennsylvania reserves, killed; Gen. Bayard, struck in the thigh by a shell, and afterwards died; Gen. Vinton, wounded in the side, but not seriously; Gen. Gibbons, wounded in the hand; Gen. Kimball, wounded in thigh; Gen. Caldwell, wounded in two places, but not seriously; Col. Sinclair, of the Pennsylvania reserves, wounded seriously; Col. Hendrickson, commanding 9th New York State militia, wounded seriously.

The following is the loss of officers in the 5th New Hampshire regiment; Col. Cross wounded in the abdomen, Major Strivant killed, Adjutant Dodd killed, Captain Murray killed, Captain Perry, killed.

The firing of musketry ceased about six o'clock this evening, but the rebels continued throwing shells into the city until 8 o'clock.

The position of the rebels was as follows: Gen. Longstreet was on the left, and holding the main works; Gen. A. P. Hill and Stonewall Jackson were in front of Franklin, with Jackson's right resting on the Rappahannock, and Hill's forces acting as a reserve.

General Burnside will renew the battle at daylight in the morning. The troops are in good spirits, and not in the least disheartened.

The death of Louis Uhland, the BEN-AMON of Germany, is announced in the papers which have just arrived. Though his later years were passed in obscurity, there have been few poets whose productions have had a wider circulation than those of Uhland, or exercised greater influence on the mind of his age. He was born at Tubingen in 1787; studied law, which he abandoned for literature, devoting all his powers to the cultivation of deep national and liberal sentiments among his countrymen. His death has created a lively sensation in his own country, and even in England.

The Culture of Sorghum in Illinois.

The growers of sorghum in Illinois held a convention at Rockford, in that State, a few days since, the results of which are thus summed up by the Chicago Tribune:

First, then, sorghum in all parts of the Northwest, where the larger varieties of Indian corn perfectly mature is an acknowledged success. Its adaptation to the soil and the climate, the ease with which it can be cultivated, and the certainty of a remunerative crop, are acknowledged, proved by experience which has been long enough and broad enough to satisfy all.

Second, though the yield of syrup is large, (here the accounts may vary with the variations of soil and temperature, the perfection of machinery used, the knowledge, care, and skill of manipulators,) and profitable at any figure that syrup is likely to reach, the question—Can crystallized sugar be profitably produced from the sorghum?—is yet an open one that the Convention was unable to settle. A large number of samples of sugar have been produced, but mostly the result of experiments made on a small scale, and without regard to cost. But they prove the possibility of making sugar from sorghum. Its profitable production, in competition with the cane is another matter, for the solution of which longer trial, more capital and additional experiments are required. Third—The amount of sirup made in Illinois alone, this year, is estimated at two millions of gallons, of which Winnebago county alone gave fifty thousand gallons. Fourth—in most of the rural districts, where the attention of the farmers has been turned to sorghum, the domestic sirup has nearly or quite driven cane molasses out of the market. The former is the clearest, the most toothsome, and now-a-days much the cheapest. Fifth—The consumption of saccharine food among the rural population, where sorghum is grown, has largely increased—families that formerly contented themselves with four to six gallons of molasses per annum each, now find a barrel of sirup nose too much for the year's consumption—a fact of great importance to dentists and manufacturers of artificial teeth, and not without value to the political economist. This, we believe, is a fair summary of the conclusions arrived at, saying nothing of the discussions which the manner of planting, cultivating, gathering and manufacturing provoked. The showing is eminently satisfactory.

TENNESSEE BRANCH OF THE NATIONAL CLAIM AGENCY, CONDUCTED BY HARVEY COLLINS & BRACE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

CHARLES H. GREEN, Agent No. 38, Cherry Street, Nashville, Tenn.

THIS AGENCY possesses peculiar facilities for the successful prosecution and settlement of all claims against the General Government of EVERY DESCRIPTION, its conductors having had several years' experience in the management of claims before Congress, the Court of Claims, and the Executive Departments at Washington, and being thoroughly acquainted and familiar with the laws and regulations governing their adjustment.

Particular attention will be given to cases arising out of the present war, including the accounts of States, Contractors, and Disbursing Officers of the War and Navy Departments, and for Collecting, Drilling, and Organizing Volunteers, the reimbursement of which is authorized by an act of Congress; CLAIMS FOR INDEMNITY FOR PRIVATE PROPERTY TAKEN FOR PUBLIC USES, OR FOR DAMAGES TO SUCH PROPERTY, for losses lost in the service, and for Military Pay, Pensions, and Bounty Land.

We give special attention to procuring Pensions, Bounties, etc., accruing to Soldiers who have been wounded, contracted diseases, or the families of such as have died, or been killed while in the discharge of their line of duty as claims during the present war.

Special care will also be given to claims which have been heretofore Rejected or Suspended by the Departments or Incompetently Managed. Prompt attention also given to the collection of Quartermaster's Receipts for Property taken for the use of the Army, to arranging Accounts with and collecting Claims against the Quartermaster's Department.

All Claims placed in our hands receive our Prompt Personal Attention, thereby securing many which, in the hands of an Attorney at any distant point, frequently prove unavailing.

Aside from this decided advantage, our daily intercourse with all the Departments enables us in most cases to obtain decisions much more speedily than where all communication and other necessary detail must be conducted through the mails.

To this end, we solicit you to forward to us any or all cases of such character you may from time to time have presented, and, as is our custom, we will furnish you with all the necessary blanks, and, when required, instructions.

No charge made in any case unless successful. Address: CHARLES H. GREEN, No. 38 Cherry Street, Nashville, Tenn.
