RESOLUTION.

Consolation is so sweet in the time of affliction such were the demonstrations shown by the friends of Mrs. Della Thomas and family during the illness of their daughter, Edna Thomas who departed this life, Sept. 11, 1919.

Dear Edna was loved by everybody that knew that we have lost a dear friend and no one can fill her place as she did.

Miss Edna Thomas, 908 Hawkins St. Born in Paris, Texas, After living 5 Years in Dallas.

We loved her but God loved her best. Although we are satisfied.

Edna has gone to rest. We feel that it's our loss and Heaven's gain. She is only resting and waiting until the morning come. She has paid a debt that we all must pay.

Sleep on Edna, sleep on, we will say to mother, sisters and brothers we feel your sympathy to family and public. The funeral was performed at Mt. Canaan Baptist church by Rev. C. N. Hamilton.

Evergreen Court No. 2185 EVELINE GANT, Z. M. 256 N. 23 Street, Paris, Texas.

JUST A LITTLE PUSH AND A LITTLE MORE PULL.

If business means anything to all putting over a little push is worth the while. A little push and a little pull are valuable solutions for a strong, healthy and lucrative business. Apply if you please and watch results.

To advance Negro merchandise must try the art of Printer's ink, which is conceded to be one of a modern business man's strongest assets—put ginger in a time-worn sick and dull business. Do you want to add a longer life to your business, make it a flourishing investment? Get into the boat push and pull for a Negro trade week.

Negro trade week has all the elements of push and pull necessary to land a neat little balance on the credit side of the black man's ledger.

Wm. P. Vaughn, formerly manager of the War Camp Community House, has been engaged by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Washington, D. C., since his resignation from the Community Service. He represents the Treasury Department of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance for colored soldiers and sailors, reinstating and converting their insurance into Peace time policies. Two billion and five hundred thousand million dollars worth of insurance was carried by the colored men during the recent war, and the Department is anxious that these men convert this into 20 and 30 year Endowment, 20 and 30 year Pay Life policies, Ordinary Life and policies maturing at the age of 62, all Government policies, for themselves and their dependents.

CITY TEACHERS HOLD MONTHLY INSTITUTE MONDAY MORNING AT COLORED HIGH SCHOOL FOR INSTRUCTION FOR BEGINNING THE SESSION.

Three Colored Communities Enter the City, Queen City, Lincoln Manor and Wheatly Place, Acarstrong Addition Known as Booker Washington.

Superintendent J. F. Kimball Presides and Delivers Address.

By N. W. Harlike. These are serious times and serious problems confront us as teachers of the young, this is a time of serious reflection, never was there a time for more serious reflection than today, that it seems that a new and added duty rests upon the teachers white and black to think seriously upon the work in hand. When we think of the three problems confronting the American people, the problem of the railroads, the problem of labor and capital and that of the Negro problem. These are problems to be sure that engage the attention of the most thoughtful and demand the most earnest consideration.

There was never a time when the saying of Solomon, the wise man, "That Righteousness Exalteth a Nation" is more true old fashion enough to believe this saying of the wise man and that the reverse is true that wickedness debases a nation. When we think of the striking police of Boston, we are not surprised so much by the strike as by what actually occurred after the strike. That Boston has always set up a standard for other cities, and proclaimed to them her own examples as she was in position to do so as she had rare advantages for years of training coming down from the time of the Pilgrim fathers, we should expect her to be in position to speak of the short comings of other cities. But what actually transpired in Boston? After the strike, it is difficult to think of the shameful acts. Men set about looting and robbing. They played 'craps' on the street made sacred by the first blood shed in the Revolutionary War for freedom. Now that sun have been with drawn, they use the police badge and the policeman to take what they call freedom, and the most revolting thought in the actions of the men who put their what they termed freedom, began to insult women and children and that it was dangerous for a woman to pass unaccompanied in the streets for fear of being molested and insulted. Who would have thought that such characters were in Boston, the very cradle of refinement and culture?

These were not the original citizens of Boston, these were not of the Puritan stock, they are the new comers, those who were strangers to the teaching of the Pilgrim Fathers. What have the teachers their work? What would I recommend were I the Superintendent of the schools of Boston? But we have a work to ourselves. We are to teach civic righteousness in our own schools, impress the boys and girls with lofty ideals of right actions, right ideals of honesty, of industry and truthfulness by living these lives ourselves. Such a disgraceful and unheard of actions would not have taken place a hundred years ago. So there is much work for the teachers of Boston.

The address was listened to with closest attention and evident appreciation coming from our Superintendents with added interest and emphasis that sent each sentence home to the teachers to begin the year's work with added zeal and new inspiration. While the speaker was delivering his address of which the above is only a paraphrastic report, the writer thought of the great work that Supt. Kimball had accomplished in our schools and what a scope of advancement had really taken place in the efficiency of the teachers, the steady improvements of the great system, and with what ease and facility the schools move upward and onward without seeming friction and without undue complaint.

Superintendent Kimball stated that the Intermediate departments of the Colored schools would be supervised by Prof. J. F. Peeler, and that there would be added improvement in working of the schools this year, with books furnished by the state and the improvements in the buildings and grounds, there needs be no lag in the work. That where the state fails to furnish text books for the high schools the city of Dallas would furnish text books for the high schools the City of Dallas would furnish them. Professors Towns, Brittain and Principal Carr appointed a committee to select a larger auditorium for next meeting for the institute.

BACK TO BIG LONDON.

Samuel H. Simpson, associate editor and business manager of the Galveston New Idea, familiarly known in his home town as the "Brick-Bats and Boquet Man" entered the gates of Big London, Friday. The associate scribe was en route home from Norfolk, Va., when he has been attending the National Baptist Convention. Alighting from an H. & T. C. south bound train Colonel Simpson was heard to remark "where am I in New York or Chicago." No sir, responded a rather gruff voice, you're in 'Big London.'" As the visitor entered the big lobby of the Terminal station, with a look of surprise, he again exclaimed the "old berg has out grown herself." Several years has passed since Simpson has visited Dallas and while here was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Volke, 3518 Thomas avenue.

DON'T WORRY—COST OF LIVING MAY GO DOWN SOME DAY, BUT NOT NOW.

The price of whiskeys has soared and what do you know about that. No more chin operations for a thin and a thick, its two thins instead no more and no less. Where do we go from here boys? The English or the Buster Brown hair cut also made a flight. Oh skully!

I'm Taxed Begorry.

I find a tax on all I make, a tax on all I hold; a tax on every thought I have provided it is sold and paying taxes up and down at such abounding length. Has taxed my patience, and besides has taxed my wanning strength and yet if I should fade away to duck this wretched fate I'd very likely find a tax at Good Old St. Peter's Gate.

A CARD OF THANKS.

We beg to use this method of thanking the many friends for the kindness shown during the illness of our daughter and Sister, Nancy J. Foreman and the beautiful floral offerings.

CAUGHT ON THE FLIGHT. I read an account in my last week's Express of a proposed Negro Trade Week and in my opinion permit me to say such a movement should meet the hearty endorsement of all race men irrespective of their vocation says Dr. O'Roy Busch. Negro Trade Week is just the thing it puts pep into our business says Price Wren, president of the Little Gem drug store. After the Colored carnival the next big thing is a trade week says John H. Dixon, president of the Negro Business League.

"MUSICAL DUO" ENTERTAINS THE WOMAN'S NATIONAL MISSIONARY SOCIETY. Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 13, 1919. To Whom it May Concern: The performers, Mrs. Carrye Mae Morgan and Miss Nona J. Vautz of Dallas, Texas, are easily classed in ability with the foremost artists of this country.

They entertained to the delight of all, a crowded house in the city of Birmingham, Ala., Friday night, Sept. 12, 1919. Though visited by many of the leading performers of our race, there was never evidenced more satisfaction by a Birmingham audience. They are classed with such artists as Clarence White, Patti Brown, Madam Hackley, and others, who have performed in Birmingham. They are examples of what a race can do when given the same chance as those who claim that the Negro is incapable of such attainment. They are stars of the first magnitude. (MRS.) T. HOUSEN MCKENZIE, Principal of Raymond Institute.
