MARGUERITE CLARK
Paramount Pictures

If you want to see the unconditional surrender of a certain man-haters' club and the sensational capture of its leader and members by cupid and his agents, see

Marguerite Clark
Dainty Little Paramount Star and the supporting cast in her new picture "Girl," which will be shown here.
Only Two Days
TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY,
December 2nd and 3rd

Pamela Gordon, the role played by the star, is a confirmed man-hater. In fact her views on the subject are so confirmed that she seeks to convert other girls to a man-haters' club, consisting of herself and two other girls, her room-mates. But one by one her converts feel the pleasant sting of cupid's darts and fall out of the ranks, leaving the little heroine of the story alone to wage her war-jare on love and man. Her battle is a hard one and the way she is finally bested and forced to capitulate to Commander-in-Chief Cupid and his opposing forces, consisting of a young and ardent sweet-heart named Edgar Holt, is said to be one of the most delightful comedy-romances ever seen on the screen. The original play by Clyde Fitch, from which the picture was adapted, scored one of the biggest successes of the day when first presented on the stage. Walter Edwards directed the star and thoroughly capable players, including Mary Warren, Helene Chadwick, Harrison Ford, Leo Hill, Thomas D. Perse, Virginia Folitz and others, portray the supporting roles. Marguerite Clark proves a most delightful heroine in this latest photoplay.

See it two days at
