

Returned.

Mr. EDWARD BAILLY, who has been reading in Kansas City, Missouri, for some time past, has returned to Greenville, and has taken charge of the publication of the Enterprise, during the illness of the proprietor. He reports himself as being highly pleased with the great West and everything being in a high state of progress and prosperity. Kansas City has a population of 32,000; a few years ago it had only 4,000.

Laurens and Augusta Railroad.

The people of Laurens are to have a meeting on next Tuesday to consider the ways and means of building a narrow-gauge railroad to Augusta. It seems to us, with all deference to our intelligent friends in Laurens, that there never was a more mistaken project conceived in this State among the many abortions in public improvements that have occurred. Augusta was a very good and superior market for produce and furnishing supplies, in the days of wagoning, when it had the advantage of river and railroad, and no other railroads were competing with the South Carolina road; but now Columbia has roads leading directly to New York as well as Charleston, and also connecting with Wilmington, and it is a fact that goods of all kinds can now be bought in Columbia on as good terms as in Augusta, and this will be the case also in Greenville so soon as this Air-Line Railroad is completed to this place; which will have a direct tendency to bring freights to more reasonable terms on all the railroads connecting with the upper part of the State. Greenville will have the advantage of being directly connected with New York and is far nearer to it than Augusta. Of one thing our Laurens friends may be assured, should they build a road to Augusta, now mistakenly calculate, a line of transportation for cotton, and as to the provision market—bacon, beefs, corn, flour, etc.—unquestionably Greenville will be far superior to Augusta, and Columbia just as good. Greenville will, on the completion of the Air-Line Road, be about one hundred miles nearer by railroad to the great grain-growing West than Augusta, and the distance between Greenville and Laurens is nearly fifty miles less than between Laurens and Augusta; besides the line of country traversed by the Air-Line from Greenville to the Georgia line is a grain-growing provision country.

Why not let us unite therefore and build a narrow-gauge road from Laurens to Greenville? This would be your route to New York and every part of the West, and hither you could come at all seasons and not fear bilious and yellow fever. The very season of leisure, the latter part of summer, when you wish to take a brief trip to higher and cooler regions, your road to Greenville will accommodate you. It is certainly desirable to increase the connection of the different parts of the State, as it adds to mutual wealth and strength. Make your road to Greenville, and you will strike as good a market as any way from tide water, and connect yourselves directly with the Air-Line Road, a great highway from New York to California, and that will put you on a direct route either to Europe or Asia.

These statements may seem a little extravagant, but they are not. The Air-Line is to be doubtless one of the greatest and cheapest thoroughfares of this continent, and Greenville being without disparagement the most pleasantly and favorably situated of any town on the whole line, either in North Carolina, South Carolina or Georgia, must become a considerable city. It would not surprise us that the population would soon rival Augusta after the completion of the road, and in the end exceed it. Bring your narrow gauge road to Greenville and we will extend it on over to Asheville, which will add to your and our benefit. More hereafter.

The Air-Line Railroad—Early Completion to Greenville.

We have satisfactory information that the Air-Line Railroad is to be completed from Charlotte to Greenville early next spring, perhaps in February next. We shall, therefore, in all probability, have direct connexion between Greenville and New York, much sooner than the most sanguine have calculated. The finishing of the road between Greenville and Gainsville Ga., will soon follow. Already there are some 24 miles graded this side of Gainsville, ready for track laying.

Dr. B. Manly.

We learn that Dr. MANLY has accepted the Presidency of Georgetown College, Kentucky, and will leave Greenville in a few weeks. The citizens of Greenville will universally regret the loss from their midst of this eminent scholar, profound theologian, and amiable and accomplished gentleman.

South Carolina Educational Institute. The Educational Institute of this State met in Greenville last Wednesday evening. The attendance from different parts of the State, though not as large as could be desired, yet embraced many of the prominent teachers; the meeting was a decided success.

Capt. PATRICK, one of the vice-presidents, (President H. S. THOMPSON being absent) called the meeting to order. Gen. W. K. EARLY had been appointed to deliver an address, but was unavoidably absent. The reorganization of the Institute for the ensuing year was proceeded with. Prof. JAMES H. CARLISLE, of Wofford College, was elected President; there were also four vice-presidents elected, M. M. FARROW, was elected Recording Secretary, and Rev. B. F. MILLER, of Marietta, Corresponding Secretary. Professor C. H. JUDSON, of Furman University, one of the vice-presidents took the chair, as Professor C. was not in attendance. Thursday morning in the lecture room of the Baptist Church, where all the remaining business was transacted.

On Thursday Professor JUDSON presented a singularly able and learned paper, being a review of geometrical text books, in which he demonstrated certain errors existing in nearly every one of them. The learned gentleman present were emphatic in their commendation of the mastery ability of Professor JUDSON'S essay. Some interesting discussion followed the reading of the paper, in which Rev. Dr. JOHN A. BROADUS, an honorary member, and Mr. WILL CHRISTIE BENET, of Cokesbury, and others took part. Mr. M. C. CALVINS, a visiting member from the Georgia Educational Institute, read an interesting essay on the condition and prospects of education in various aspects.

In the afternoon of Thursday Mr. BENJAMIN R. STEWART, of Winnsboro, introduced the subject of School Organization, in a somewhat lengthy address, making suggestions which elicited a discussion that consumed the afternoon and some time also next. Professor B. B. BABBITT, of the South Carolina University, Rev. Dr. BONNER, of Due West, Dr. J. C. FURMAN, Capt. J. B. PATRICK, Mr. PIER and Mr. BENET taking part.

After this Dr. BROADUS addressed the Institute briefly and ably on the subject of "the true position of the modern languages in our educational system, and methods of teaching the same." Messrs. BENET and STEWART followed in discussion of the same subject.

It was resolved to have essays submitted at the next meeting on text books, geography, English grammar, rhetoric, history, arithmetic and algebra.

The President being authorized to appoint a committee of two persons on each subject, each to prepare a separate essay. A committee was also appointed to prepare a programme of business for next meeting, and a committee to visit the next meeting of the Georgia Educational Institute.

Resolutions of thanks to the citizens of Greenville for hospitalities extended, and to the railroad companies for accommodations were passed.

Charleston was agreed upon as the place for the next meeting to take place in May next.

Rev. Dr. B. MANLY having been requested to address the Institute, members met in the Court House on Friday evening, with a select and appreciative assembly of ladies and gentlemen. Dr. MANLY'S address was learned and profound, and also full of practicable wisdom on the subject of education. In the introductory portion of the address, he showed that in the South before the war, there were more collegiate institutions and students according to population than in the Northern States. His discussion of the value and importance of education in all its grades, was exceedingly able and fixed the closest attention. The Institute passed a resolution at its close, thanking Dr. MANLY for his address, and requesting a copy for publication.

Yellow Fever in Charleston.

This dreadful disease is now prevailing in Charleston, although the type is not regarded by some as a very violent one. The Courier of last Saturday says: "There is nothing that indicates that the disease exists in an epidemic form. Its existence is attributed to local causes, and is confined principally to one locality. In all other localities there has been a remarkable exemption from disease."

The first case occurred on the 27th of July, and since that time as many as thirty-five cases have been reported. We heartily sympathize with the city in her affliction, and hope soon to record the disappearance of the disease altogether.

Later—Despatches from Charleston of the 28th inst., say that different inquiry fails to discover any new cases of fever in the last twenty-four hours, the whole number of persons now hardly exceeding a dozen. The disease seems to yield readily to medical treatment.

How the Injustice Works.

The late Pension Act passed by Congress, requires that the pensioner take an oath that he never sympathized with the rebellion, otherwise he is not entitled to any of the Government's munificence; and in case of his death, the widow must file an oath that her husband never sympathized with or took part in the war, before she can receive anything. The great injustice of this provision is forcibly illustrated by a case in this city. An aged widow lady, now a resident among us, whose husband was a soldier in the war of 1812, and who served most gallantly, as can be proven by living testimony, is debarred from the benefits of the Act because the gentleman in question took the side in the late unpleasantness that was most natural and right, at least what he conscientiously thought was so. This lady's deceased husband held the rank of Major in the artillery service. At times he was called to command his battery, and in one engagement every man was shot down until the Major was left alone at his gun, but soon he also fell, losing a leg. These facts can be substantiated by a member of the company commanded by the Major, residing at the present time, contiguous to this place in Anderson County, and who is also deterred from applying for a pension on the same grounds, (he is an honorable scribe of the "Green Isle," and cannot take the oath required.)

If Congress really wished to reward those who flew to the aid of the country when her battles were to be fought, and who imperiled their lives in her defence, why insert this outrageous requirement? It is a blot upon our National Assembly, and should not be allowed to remain. The widow of this gallant soldier is thus deprived of a small pittance which would benefit her in her old age, that her husband was worthy of a thousand times, and whose duty it is the Government not to environ by clauses that will preclude it from reaching her.

Sunday.

Dr. BROADUS, in the absence of the pastor, preached in the Baptist Church last Sunday morning, taking his text from the eleventh chapter of John, which relates the miracle of raising Lazarus from the dead. Dr. B. has recently returned from his European tour and visit to Palestine, and gave his hearers in the introductory a brief yet graphic description of the way from Jerusalem over or by the Mount of Olives to Bethany, once the abode of Mary and Martha, now called Lazareth by the Arabs. He also described the site of Bethany itself, the undoubted locality of the miracle.—Those who heard the sermon, and there was a good congregation, regretted that all their friends and acquaintances could not have been present for the pleasure and profit it was so well calculated to afford. Beautiful in its simplicity of style, it was grand in the sublime lessons of moral and religious truth, which the speaker deduced from the various incidents of the sickness, and death, and the raising to life of Lazarus.

Greenville Coach Factory.

Attention is called to the advertisement of the Coach Factory of Messrs. GOWER, COX & MARKLEY as appearing in our columns this week.

For farmers they are constantly manufacturing all sizes of farm and plantation wagons. These vehicles are recommended by all who use them, and their popularity is attested by the large number daily seen in use. They are strong and well made, with iron axles and well calculated to bear the rough work on a farm.

Anything also in the way of rockaways and buggies may be procured at this factory. If they have not on hand the particular kind of vehicle you may desire, the gentlemanly proprietors will have it put up for you "just as you like it," on short notice.

A great many light spring wagons are being constantly manufactured to supply the demand for this rather new variety of wagon.

An experience of thirty-five years in the carriage and wagon manufacturing business, has enabled this establishment to gain an enviable reputation for honest, fair dealing, with their excellent work, not only at home but also in the adjoining States of North Carolina and Georgia, as well as Florida.

Gov. Perry's History of Greenville.

We commence in this issue the publication of Gov. PERRY'S reminiscences of Greenville as he styles it, but which we think should rather be called a history. It will occupy several weeks, and we therefore suggest to our readers the importance of preserving the numbers of the Enterprise as they appear. The history complete we doubt not will be considered by all who feel any interest in this part of South Carolina, as valuable, and well worth preserving.

Track laying will begin on the Air-Line Railroad at Charlotte during the present week.

Caught in his own Trap.

CHARLES MACAFEE, a colored man, got himself into an uproarious excitement at RICHARD WYNN'S blacksmith shop near Mr. POCOCK'S grocery, on Saturday last. He had been drinking some, and was supposed to be under its influence. He manifested a fighting propensity, and attempted to break and knife some other colored men about the shop, who tried to put a stop to his violence. He seemed from the evidence before Trial Justice HOPKINS on Tuesday, to have acted in self-defence and as peace makers, nevertheless, he indicted five persons for riot and assault. On examination on Tuesday before Trial Justice HOPKINS, the justice very properly discharged accused, but MACAFEE, having been indicted in two cases for assault and battery, was held liable to answer. He would not have been indicted if he had not unjustifiably prosecuted others whom he had assailed.

More Rain.

Since our last issue, we have been visited by rain, until we are quite ready to say, Hold, enough. On Wednesday evening the fall was very heavy and long continued, again on Friday, and on Saturday night it poured down more than half the night, and has continued more or less every day from that time to the present writing. We understand that nearly every section of the County has been refreshed with copious falls, so much needed. Although late, it is still in time for turnips, peas, potatoes, and late corn.—We trust a large area of land will be sown in turnips. Who ever raised more of this latter crop than they needed.

Our Reading Room.

The following paragraph from the Columbia Union shows that Greenville is not behind even the Capital of the State in providing good reading matter for her citizens:

"We were shown Saturday, by a gentleman who has recently visited the Greenville Reading Rooms, a catalogue of the magazines and other literature therein kept by the most popular periodicals in this country, and across the waters. It was justly stated that probably Greenville has one of the best reading rooms this side of Baltimore. It is a subject that should attract attention here, for there is no good reason why there should not be better facilities here."

More About the Westfield Horror.

The verdict returned by the coroner's jury, of Brooklyn, in the case of the great Westfield ferry boat disaster was to the effect that the boiler, originally defective, was worn out by use and invited the catastrophe. Vanderbilt, President of the company, Mathews, United States Inspector, Braisted, superintendent of the company, and Robinson, the engineer, are responsible, and should be accountable for the deaths. The arrest of the parties has been ordered.

Our School Advertisements.

These will doubtless all attract proper attention. The Female College offers its usual and perhaps improved attractions.

Capt. J. B. PATRICK'S famous male school is also advertised in our columns; it needs no commendation. The reputation of Capt. PATRICK as a successful principal of a first class high school is too well established.

The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary—Beginning of the Session.

The Session will begin with an Introductory Lecture, to be delivered by Dr. Jno. A. BROADUS, at 10 o'clock on Friday, in the Baptist Church, which will be open to the public.

Crumps—Cesar's Head hotel, it is said, is crowded to its utmost capacity.

Reedy River is slightly swollen, in consequence of the heavy rains; also very muddy.

There is quite a display of beauty on our streets every fair evening.

Those having accounts against the County Commissioners should present them to the chairman at once or they will not be audited for another year.

A correspondent of the Edgefield Advertiser says that the Rev. ELIJAH CAPERS, of Greenville, has just declined a call to St. Luke's Church Charleston.

The heavy rain prevented the holding of the regular prayer meeting at the Presbyterian Church last Thursday evening.

Mr. HENRY M. PENNY left yesterday morning for Philadelphia, to graduate in medicine.

The cars continue to bring large numbers of visitors to our City.

Mr. GIBBS'S new store, on Pendleton Street, recently completed, is about to be occupied.

The New York papers estimate that there are $10,000,000 of counterfeit national bank bills in circulation, and within the past few weeks large numbers of twenties have been put upon the generous public, so well executed as to bear the strongest light. If they cannot be detected they will pass.

It is stated that Hon. R. B. Carpenter has gone to Pennsylvania to assist in stamping the State for the Democrats, in the fall campaign for State officers. The Democracy there, have accepted the "New Departure" as the basis of their operations.

Negro Ku Klux Driven off by a Young Lady.

A most diabolical outrage was committed on Saturday night last, by five unknown persons, at the house of Mr. Jas. H. Gossett, one of our most valued and amiable citizens.

It appears the parties stole noiselessly up to the house and fired one shot through the window in the direction of Mr. Gossett's bed, where he was lying, the ball striking about six inches directly over Mrs. G's head. They then fired through the corner of the house, in the direction of the bed on which Miss Fernandez was sleeping, the charge striking about a foot above her head. Miss Fernandez immediately jumped out of bed, obtained a pistol, threw open the door, and seeing one of the assaulting party running, gave chase around the house, fired at him, it is feared, without effect.

On examining "the premises it was discovered that there were five in the party; one on a mule, one on horseback and three on foot. One foot track was undoubtedly that of a negro, barefooted, and measured eleven inches; another track was about the size of an ordinary number seven boot.

The reason for such an attack upon Mr. Gossett is involved in great mystery. He is one of the most peaceable, honorable and pure Christian gentlemen in the land, and has never had the least difficulty with any one, nor does he entertain the slightest animosity towards any man. He is, however, an unflinching Democrat, but modest and courteous in expressing his political opinions, and never intrudes those opinions upon any one unnecessarily. In fact, he is a good citizen and kind neighbor in every respect.

THE MEXICAN ELECTION.—The latest advices from Mexico state that Juarez lacks 110 votes of a majority for President, with fourteen districts to be heard from, and it is expected that these will give a sufficient number of votes to elect Juarez. The members of the opposition make a different computation, and allege that a majority for any of the candidates is impossible, and that Congress will have to decide who shall be President. Both parties are arming, and preparing for a revolution. Should the result of the election be adverse to Juarez, he intends to retire into private life. The adherents of Diaz express great confidence in his success.

SALE OF VIRGINIA WARM SPRINGS. A special di-patch, dated Warm Springs, Va., August 21, to the Richmond Dispatch, says:

This celebrated watering place was sold to day at public auction for $41,000, the following parties becoming the purchasers for the entire property, viz: W. C. Carrington, S. C. Tardy, John L. Eubank, Rev. R. H. Phillips and C. M. Reynolds. The gentlemen above named are well known Virginians, and the Warm Springs Valley, under their management, will soon become a lively and attractive place of resort.—There are present on the grounds today about four or five hundred persons. Col. Eubank will continue the management of the Springs during this season.

CROPS IN GEORGIA.—The Georgia Agricultural Convention was in session in Rome last week. From reports made to the society from different sections of the State, the indications are that the cotton crop of Georgia, this year, will not exceed five-eighths of last year's crop. Corn is about the same. About one fourth the amount of guano has been used this year as compared with last. Greater attention has been shown to the improvement of stock, provisions, and home made fertilizers. More capital is invested in manufacturing. More sugar cane has been planted in South Georgia this year than formerly. A farmer in Greene county raised five tons to the acre.

THE ARMY ALL SOUTH.—General Sherman, replying to a request for troops to protect the Western frontier, says that the available forces of the United States army are not sufficient to protect it, and censures the Government for sending troops South for political purposes. Does General Sherman suppose that the lives of 50,000 Western settlers have any weight before the claims of Grant for re-election? The army was needed in North and South Carolina, and will be wanted in Texas, Louisiana, and other Southern States, to stuff the ballot boxes with fraudulent negro votes.

WILMINGTON, August 26. POSTAL ARRANGEMENTS.—The following order has been issued by the Postmaster General: An arrangement has just been concluded between the United States and Germany, to take effect on the 1st of October next, which reduces the rate of international postage for prepared letters exchanged between the two countries, by the closed mail via England, from ten to seven cents for each single rate of half an ounce or under. Unpaid letters, so exchanged, are to be charged with double the prepaid rates, and the insufficiently paid letters with the postage from unpaid letters, after deduction of the amount prepaid. The reduction applies to letters alone.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.—The late English papers are contending that the large number of railway accidents may be ascribed to the overworking of the "pointmen," or the men who are placed in charge of the switches. One man, to whose carelessness a serious accident was due, worked regularly for thirteen and a half hours a day, fifteen hours on Saturday, and seventeen hours on every alternate Sunday. His wages were only $4.25 a week.

DEAD BEFORE BATTLE.—The Springfield Republican, the leading Radical organ in New England, echoes the words of Wendell Phillips, that the "Radical party is dead." Listen to it: "The Republican party is marching to a Big Bethel defeat. Too many Butler, too many Simon Camerons, too many Mortons and Chandlers, too much stealing and land grabbing have killed it; it is dead before it goes into battle."
