

THE SABBATH.
With silent awe I hail the sacred morn
Which slowly wakes while all the fields are still,
A soothing calm on every nerve is borne,
A greater murmur from the hill,
And echo answers softer from the hill,
And softer sighs the linnets from the thorn;
The skylark warbles in a tone less shrill,
Hail! light serene, hail sacred Sabbath morn!
The rooks that silent by in airy drove,
The sun a placid yellow lustre shows,
The gales that lately sighed along the grove,
Have hushed their downy wings in sweet repose,
The hovering rack of clouds forer to move;
So smiled the day when the first morn arose.

A NIGHT WITH THE DEAD.

On the 15th of November, 1846, a great crime was executed at Paris. His crime had been one of singular atrocity. He had murdered his betrothed in cold blood, and appeared to have committed the deed without any provocation. It came out on his trial that he had been a very desperate character, having been guilty of almost every week by the details, and it was only when the curtain fell on the last act of the drama that the excitement subsided.

The particulars of his last crime were substantially as follows:
In the Rue des Ours dwelt a widow lady and her only daughter, Lucille Maturin was a lovely girl just entering into womanhood. She was a pure blonde. Her complexion was fair as the driven snow. Her features were regular, and revealed intellect and mental culture. Her figure was perfect. Like most blondes, she inclined slightly to embonpoint, just sufficient to gracefully round her form. Her life was a very retired one at the time I refer to; she had but one affection in the world, namely, love for her mother. Madame Maturin returned her daughter's affection with all the love that a mother feels for an only child.

They led a calm, monotonous existence, but it was a delightful monotony,—that of two loving hearts, who felt, wept, and sympathized together. One day, an event occurred which caused an entire revolution to take place.
Lucille was crossing the Champs Elysee, when a tilbury, driven by a gentleman, knocked her down; the wheel passed over her body; but by some lucky chance she received no injury, and when the gentleman descended from his vehicle and picked her up, he found that, with the exception of a bruise or two and great fright, there was nothing the matter. The gentleman, after making himself acquainted with her address, immediately drove her home. When they had arrived at Madame Maturin's house, the stranger introduced himself to Lucille's mother as the Comte de Nerval.

He made a thousand apologies for the accident, and stated that he should call the next day and inform himself as to Mademoiselle's health. He then took his leave.
This Comte, for such was his real name, was a returned forger. He had originally been well brought up, and had at one time possessed a good property. But the moment he came into possession of his estate he had plunged deeply into Parisian dissipation, and had soon squandered all his means. Day by day he sank lower and lower, until at last he became a hanger on in the numerous gambling houses in the Palais Royal. One day an Englishman was discovered murdered in the streets; he had been strangled. Suspicion was excited against Comrade; some of the Englishman's bank notes were detected upon him. He was tried, but the prosecution failed to convict on the capital crime; he was found guilty of highway robbery, and sentenced to the galleys for life. He had not been undergoing his punishment more than a year when he escaped and returned to Paris. I must add that in manners and appearance he was perfectly gentlemanly. He called himself the Comte de Nerval, and by some new scheme of villainy, had succeeded in obtaining possession of a considerable sum of money. Such was the dangerous person who had obtained an introduction into the house of Madame Maturin.

The day following the accident Comrade called again, and made himself very agreeable. Lucille had entirely recovered from her fright, and received him with embarrassment, regarding him in the light of her preserver. Comrade took advantage of the guileless heart with which he was brought into contact, and put forward all his seductive powers to win it entirely to himself. He only succeeded too well!

I have before said that Lucille, up to that time, had experienced no passion excepting love for her mother. The seductions of the soi-disant Comte completely bewildered her senses, and, in her poetic imagination, she regarded him as the epitome of perfection. Even her mother, experienced as she had been in deceptions of the world, was deceived, and considered him to be a perfect gentleman.
Comrade's visits now became of daily occurrence, and, serpent like, each day he coiled himself closer and closer around Lucille's young affection. Their interviews became long and tender, and in due course of time Comrade offered his hand and fortune, having first obtained the consent of Lucille's mother. I need scarcely say he was accepted.

Now, it must not be supposed that Comrade had any intention of marrying Lucille, for such was not the case; the simple fact was, this her dowry consisted of a set of jewels valued at 10,000 francs. To obtain possession of these was his whole end and aim. As for love, his corrupt heart was dead to it. He had any feeling in the matter at all, it was of a purely sensual character.
His plans were at length matured; he fixed a day for his marriage, but insisted that the ceremony must take place at Versailles, for some reason that appeared suspicious enough at the time.

The night before the intended ceremony Lucille and Comrade were conversing together in the drawing room of Madame Maturin's house—Lucille's mother had gone to bed. The conversation had been overheard, and was one of the connecting links in the chain of evidence against him.
"Heaven be praised!" said Comrade, kissing the forehead of his betrothed—"a few more hours and you will be mine, mine forever!"
The young girl hid her blushing face on his shoulder.
"Dearest!" continued the villain, "I should very much like you to wear your jewels to-morrow. You could never select a more fitting occasion. Now, oblige me, and let me see them on you when I come for you!"
"If you really wish it, Henri," replied the young girl, "of course you shall be gratified."
Comrade repeated his desire so soundly that he was overheard, and dwelt a good deal upon it; much more so than so trivial a matter would seem to demand.

The next day Lucille, arrayed in her bridal costume, waited her lover's arrival. When he came he was gratified to find that she had obeyed his wishes, and wore the jewelry. It was decided that the mother and another friend should go in one vehicle, and Lucille and Comrade in another.
In due time Madame Maturin arrived in Versailles, and expected to have found Comrade and her daughter already there, but such was not the case. Several hours passed away, but brought no tidings of the fugitives. Lucille's mother now became seriously alarmed, and instituted a search for them.
Three days passed away. The search had been entirely fruitless. They had been traced half way to Versailles—but further than that nothing could be learned.
About two miles from Virvilly, on the road from Paris to Versailles, is a thick wood. It is rarely entered excepting in the cutting time. One day, however, some laborers passed through it, and discovered in the underbrush the dead body of a young lady. It was proved to be Lucille Maturin—her jewels were gone. She had evidently been strangled, for the marks of the murderer's fingers were still on her throat.
The crime was easily brought home to Comrade, and he at length confessed his guilt, acknowledged at the same time that he had murdered three other persons, all by the same means, by strangling them with his hands.
He was brought to trial, condemned, and, as I have before stated, executed on the 15th day of November.
After the execution, his body was conveyed to the Ecole de Medicine, to be devoted to the advancement of medical science.
I had been in Paris about a fortnight when this occurred, and had just joined the Medical School there. I had finished a course of study in London hospitals, and therefore was no novice to the mysteries of the dissecting room.
A medical student soon picks up friends. I had not been two days in Paris, before I became acquainted with three as good fellows as ever breathed a compound of oxygen and nitrogen. In a week this acquaintanceship had ripened into a sincere friendship.
One morning, I was just getting up, when all three of them burst into my room.
"Good morning, Bonjil, how are you mon cher?" said Alfred. "We have come to tell you some news; you know that Comrade was executed yesterday; well, his body has been sent to our school."
I professed to be delighted to hear it, as I was a great believer of phrenology at that time, and was very glad to have the opportunity of examining the head of a great criminal.
"Well, for my part, I could never look upon him without horror," said Ernest. "There is something very repugnant to me in the sight of a dead person, and that repugnance would be increased ten fold in his case."
"You must endeavor to overcome this feeling," replied Jean—or you will never make a good surgeon."
"I don't know how that may be," answered Ernest, "but I have often tried to overcome this horror of the dead, but it seems to increase upon me rather than otherwise."
"Because you give way to it," said Alfred.
"Pshaw! my dear fellow," said I, "it is only a matter of education. I was just as bad as you at one time, but I have got over all that feeling now."
"Oh, yes, we know you cold blooded Englishmen can do anything; nothing has any effect on you," replied Ernest, good humoredly; "you see you are not so finely organized as we are."
"Stuff," I replied, "I repeat it, it is only a matter of education. Why, after the first week in a dissecting room you couldn't frighten me with all the dead bodies in the world!"
"But a great criminal like this," said Ernest.
"What difference does it make who it is! Look at the matter in a philosophical point of view. What are the ultimate elements of organized bodies? carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen and oxygen."
"For heaven's sake! don't give us a chemical lecture this morning," interrupted Jean; we have enough of that at college."
"I was about to observe," I continued, "that I look upon all deceased persons as only so much carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen and oxygen."
"I should like to see your philosophy put to the test," said Alfred.
"With all my heart," I replied.
"Well, now," said Ernest, "I know what you dare not do!"
"What?"
"You dare not sit up all night with Comrade's body!"
"Alone," added Alfred.
"Pshaw!" I replied, "it would be no fear of the dead that would restrain me, but only the discomfort of sitting up all night with so silent a companion!"
"You are creeping out of it now," said Ernest; "it is my belief you are just as much afraid as I am."
To tell the truth, I had not the least fear in the world—and I felt a little piqued at Ernest's supposition.
"I tell you what I will do," I replied; "I will bet you all a campaign supper that I will set up all night with this murderer's corpse."
"Agreed!" they replied simultaneously.
"When shall it come off?" I asked.
"To-night," replied Alfred. "I am good friends with the porter, Andre—and he will let us have the key of the dead house. What do you say, said he, addressing me—do you want to draw back—or shall I go and make it all right with Andre?"
"I am quite ready whenever you please," I answered with some dignity.
We then drew up the agreement in student fashion, which set forth that I, Bonjil Simhaw, did hereby agree that I would remain alone in the dead house attached to the Ecole de Medicine, with the body of the late murderer, Comrade, from ten o'clock at night till six the next morning. That I was to be allowed cigars, a fire in the stove, and a pitcher of water, but no stimulating drinks. If I did not remain in the room with the body the time specified I was to forfeit the price of the campaign supper. If, on the other hand, I fulfilled the conditions, each of my friends was to pay for a campaign supper. This agreement was duly signed, sealed and delivered.
I was so certain of winning my bet—that during the day I forgot all about it—and it was only at seven o'clock in the evening that it was recalled to my mind by seeing Alfred in the street. He came across a matter would seem to demand.

"I say, Bonjil," said he, "if I were you I would prepare myself by a good supper. I am going, to get mine—suppose you come and sup with me!"
"With pleasure," said I—I am frightfully hungry!"
We immediately adjourned in the Palais Royal, and entering a restaurant, gave orders for our supper. I shall not detail to you what we ate. I only know that we were more than two hours at our repast, and when I tried to call over the dishes when we had finished, they were so numerous that I could not do it. I only remember that we finished with trifles.

Two men were at an adjoining table, drinking wine together. We could overhear their conversation distinctly. They were conversing about the recent execution.
"They say he was not guillotined," said one.
"No," replied the other, "they used the Spanish mode of execution in this case."
"What is that?" asked his companion.
"The garotte."
"What was the reason?"
"Why, you know he strangled his last victim; it fact it was his usual mode of taking life, and I suppose they took away his life by the same means, as a kind of poetic justice!"
This conversation made no impression on me at the time, but a little later, as the reader will find out, it came before my mind very vividly.

It was now near the time agreed upon for me to commence my vigil. My friend accompanied me to the Ecole de Medicine. We found Andre there with the key.
With a smile I bid my friend good night, took the lamp in my hand, and descended the steps leading to the dead house.
The room set apart for receiving bodies was situated very deep in the ground. I must premise it is not the dissecting room—that is placed in the upper story of the building—but this room is only a place of reception.
I soon arrived at a massive iron door, which I opened, and entered the abode of the dead. A more gloomy place could not well be imagined. The feeble lamp I carried did not nearly penetrate through the darkness of the chamber. The place smelt damp and earthy, and was anything but an inviting one to spend the night in. The only thing that looked cheering was the stove, in which a fire was burning brightly. About ten feet from the stove, standing about three feet apart, were two trestles, on which was placed a flat board.
On this board was laid the body of the murderer, covered over with a sheet.
I must confess when I entered this gloomy apartment I felt an involuntary shiver running through me, which I was ashamed to confess even to myself. The confined heavy atmosphere appeared to exert a depressing influence on my nervous system, and I began almost to repent of my foolish wager. I strove, however, against this silly feeling, as I called it, and repeated over to myself several times the word carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, and oxygen. I succeeded at last in dispelling, in a measure, my uncomfortable feelings.

There was only one chair in the apartment, of which I immediately took possession, and lighting a cigar, began to puff it furiously, and tried to persuade myself that I was very jolly.
All at once a sudden desire seized me to go and examine the murderer's body. I tried to combat it, but it was irresistible. I felt that I must see what my companion was like. You see, I had already commenced to consider him something more than ultimate elements.
I took up the lamp and advanced beside the bier. I turned down the cloth that covered the body, but I saw a sight more horrible than I had ever seen before or since. His features were so altered as not to be distinguishable. His tongue protruded from the mouth, and his eyes were bursting out of their sockets. His face was black—absolutely black. There appeared to be a hideous sneer on his lips, and I could almost fancy he turned his eyes upon me. A black rim was round his neck, showing distinctly where the instrument of death had been applied. His muscular development was very great, proving he had been a strong, powerful man. I shivered with horror as I gazed, and then shrunk back from this hideous sight.
A voice appeared to whisper in my ear.
"Where are your carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, and oxygen now?"
I repeated myself by the side of the stove with my back to the body, and endeavored to think of something else, but his horrible features haunted me still. I almost fancied he was sitting upright on his bier. The supposition was too hideous, and I moved my chair so as to face the body again. I had forgotten to replace the sheet over him, and the moment I turned round his black congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which had fallen on the ground and replaced it over his head; while doing so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar form of his hands arrested so the peculiar congested features met my eye. By a strong effort I rose up and again advanced to the body. I took up the covering which