Drew Many to Worship.
Describing the three fair daughters of an aristocratic New Yorker a century or so ago a writer of the period says: "The father used to take his daughters to the church of Doctor Matthews, that stood in Garden street. Such a lovely trio were rarely seen. They took all the young gallants from the other downtown church and drew a full house."

Man's Friend.
The funeral of Harold Bannister, an outfitter of Leyland, was followed by his favorite dog. It entered the church with the mourners, and sitting by the bier, occasionally sniffed at the coffin. At the graveside the dog sat still while the coffin was being lowered and then put its paws on the edge of the grave and took a farewell view of its late master.—London Express.

Eye of the Starfish.
At the end of each arm in the starfish there is a little red eye. It does not form an image, but has considerable sensitiveness in distinguishing different degrees of light, enabling the fish to become aware of distant illumination that differs from the surrounding area.

The Camel's Swiftness.
Everyone has heard of the swiftness of the dromedary, that on his native sands he can travel faster than an Arab horse. There is a picturesque Eastern proverb which declares: "When thou shalt meet a camel and say to the rider, good morning, before he shall have answered, he will be far off and out of sight, for the camel's swiftness is like the wind."

Mystical Thirteen.
In the Indian Pantheon there are 15 Buddhas; the apex of an Indian or Chinese pagoda is crowned with 13 mystical disks. The sacred sword, preserved in the Temple of Atsusa, in Japan, has 13 objects of mystery forming its hilt. When playing whist and many other games of cards each player has 13 cards and the pack is made up of four suits of 13 each.

Ancient Admonition.
Thoughtless persons who insist on talking during a musical performance, marred the pleasure of those who would listen to the music, we have always with us. It is curious to note that this particular pest was already extant more than 2,000 years ago. In the ancient book "Ecclesiastius" we read, "Speak, thou that art the elder, for it becometh thee, but with sound judgment, and hinder not music."

Make for Business Success.
The foundations for success in business are work, perseverance and character. Different men who have triumphed in various spheres of business may set down their own experiences and views in other ways, but you will practically always find that the summing up comes to those three items in the end.

HIS INVIOLEABLE RULE

"If I can't say something pleasant about a man I never discuss him."
"Neither do I. But there are lots of others like that malicious, low-lived lying sneak, Moggers, who are always knocking."

Who Was It?
The kindergarten had been studying the wind all week—its power, effects, etc.—until the subject had been pretty well exhausted. To stimulate interest the kindergarten said, in her most enthusiastic manner: "Children, as I came to school today in the trolley car, the door opened and something came softly in and kissed me on the cheek. What do you think it was?" And the children joyfully answered, "The conductor!"—Harper's Magazine.

Taking Your Choice.
It is not always safe to choose the pleasantest thing, without looking any further. If it were only a question of enjoyment, many a farmer would choose to hunt wild flowers in the spring instead of putting in his seed, and to lie in a hammock under the trees on sultry summer afternoons instead of cultivating corn. All of us must choose, sometimes, between present pleasures and future good.—Girl's Companion.

Saves Proved Their Value.
In the great fire at Chicago, October 8 to 11, 1871, the buildings of 18 national banks were destroyed. It was feared that the banks would suffer in many cases an almost total loss, but after the safes recovered from the ruins were opened it was found that the books, papers, etc., were in a condition to permit the recovery of debts, and the banks suffered no loss on that ground.

Glass-Bottomed Bucket.
A curious sight at Palermo is to see the fishermen spearing fish by the aid of glass-bottomed buckets. There are many corners of the world where fish are speared, but perhaps the use of the glass-bottomed bucket in this connection is to be seen only at Palermo.

Reviving the Bride.
They were being married in a small country church that was heated with a stove. Everything went well until at the close of the ceremony the bride fainted. In the general excitement that followed the bridegroom lost his head. He grabbed the empty coal scuttle and rushed to the pump for some water. Then he came running in and dashed a scuttful of black sooty water over his then reviving bride.

Poppies.
A characteristic of the corn poppy, beside its brilliant scarlet coloring, is the large size of its two outer petals, which hide the lesser pair until the bower has opened. Poppies of Flanders, be they corn poppies or other varieties, are not of the oriental species from which opium is derived. The corn poppy, when cultivated, is known as the Shirley poppy. The flower is perennial or annual, according to the variety.

Smoking in Church.
Sir Walter Scott records how farmers in the country districts of Scotland were accustomed to light up as soon as the minister announced the text. Isaac Barrow called tobacco panpharmacum, or cureall. Bishop Burnett was so loath to part with his pipe that he cut a hole in his hat to support it. Doctor Parr used regularly to smoke in the vestry before his sermon while the congregation was singing. "My people like long hymns," he said, "but I prefer long clays."
