TRAIT OF HEROISM.

Letter from General Pichegru to the Minister at War.

Reunion-sur-oise, April 1.

I have just now been informed of an heroic action which deserves to be recorded. On the 29th ult. Citizen Woltz, hussar of the 3d regiment, had an arm carried away by a cannon ball, and retired, saying to his comrades, who feeling for his misfortune, praised his courage; "Don't attend to me, but avenge the republic for having been deprived of one of its zealous defenders." This courageous man as he passed by the infantry, encouraged them by his words, which breathed the most exalted patriotism, and the whole division applauded by shouts of Vive la Republique.

The number of prisoners as published by the police, is 7241.

JACOBIN SOCIETY, April 15.

Couthon gave information of the business transacted in the convention this day. He informed, that Barrere had communicated intelligence of the capture of 21 vessels belonging to the enemy, all which prizes had been made within two or three days, and that at the end of the fitting he had mentioned the capture of six more. He also gave information of the taking of the port of Onelle, the principal communication that the King of monks had with Sardinia, and declared that the tenure of this town places this little tyrant in a state of arrestation in Piedmont, and facilitates the receipt of provisions purchased in foreign parts.

NATIONAL CONVENTION.

April 16.

Upon the report of Couthon the following modifications of the decree against the ci-devant nobles and ex-generals were adopted. Are excepted from the law of the 15th inst. all foreigners residing in France for 20 years, and all those who having resided 6 years have married a French woman not of the ex-nobility.

Those are included in the law who without being nobles according to the ideas and rules of the ancient government, have usurped or purchased titles or privileges of nobility, or those who may have assumed false titles.

From Arlon, March 24.

Yesterday we had a severe rencontre with the Imperialists near to this city. At first we were driven back by a very vigorous attack; but soon we rallied and advancing in a mass compelled the enemy to fly before us. Arlon opened its gates; we entered the city, drums beating, colours flying, and there have got possession of 8 pieces of cannon, many horses and a variety of other valuable articles have fallen into our hands.

By this Day's Mail.

NEW-YORK, June 9.

It is no longer dubious respecting hostilities having commenced between Portugal and the Dey of Algiers. The following is another confirmation of the pleasing event:

Captain Farmer, who arrived at Boston the 2d inst. 62 days from Oporto, (Portugal) informs, that three days before he sailed, a press of 500 men was made at Lisbon, to man the fleet, to shut up the Algerines in the Mediterranean.

The Algerines in their second cruise, did not take a prize. In their first they captured ten Americans, and 6 Genoese vessels.

By the arrival, on Saturday of the ship George, Capt. Hunter, from Liverpool, which port she left the 22d of April, we have received London newspapers of the 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, and 18th of April—from which we copy the following:

REVOLUTIONARY TRIBUNAL.

PARIS, April 3.

Danton and the other Deputies.

After the reading of the act of accusation and the report of Saint-Just; Amar, the Public Accuser requested that General Westermann should be brought from the Conciergerie, in order to be tried with the Deputies. This request was complied with.

As soon as General Westermann arrived, the Revolutionary Tribunal proceeded to the examination of evidence against him—Cambon, the Deputy, was examined—His deposition related entirely to Fabre d'Eglantine, Delaunay d'Angers, and Chabot—He developed the measures adopted by the Committee of Five, to suppress the Finance Companies and to establish the credit of Assignats, and he disclosed the manner in which the three Deputies alluded to, had altered the decree passed by the Convention, relative to the East India Company.

As the Tribunal were on the point of adjourning, Danton and Philippeaux requested leave to communicate freely with their defenders—This request was acceded to.

April 4.

In pursuance of the requisition of the public accuser, Lullier, procurer general of the department of Paris, in consequence of his intimate connection with the Baron de Batz, who has made his escape, was ordered to be tried with the Deputies. The Revolutionary Tribunal then proceeded to the examination of witnesses, but Danton and the other deputies declared that they would answer no questions, except in the presence of Roberfpierre, Barrere and Saint-Just.

The President of the revolutionary tribunal, and the public accuser, attempted to induce them to depart from this determination. Their attempts, however, were ineffectual. The tribunal, in consequence of this event, suspended the trial, and a report was ordered to be presented to the Convention.

April 5.

The decree passed by the Convention, together with the letter received by the Committee of public and general safety, from the administrators of the Police, where read to the deputies.—They persisted, however, in the determination not to answer interrogatories, unless Roberfpierre, Barrere, and St. Just, were summoned to attend. The conduct of Danton was exceedingly turbulent, and he inveighed in very strong terms against the judges.

In consequence of the mode of conduct adopted by the prisoners, the jury found DANTON.

Camille Desmoulin, Lacroix, Philippeaux, Heralut de Sechelles, and Westermann, guilty of a conspiracy against the Republic, and

Chabot, Bazire, Fabre d'Eglantine, Julien de Thoulouze, and Delaunay d'Angers, guilty of corrupt practices.—D'Espagnac, the two Freys, Dietrichen, and Cuisman, were also found guilty, Lullier was acquitted. At two o'clock in the afternoon the Revolutionary Tribunal passed sentence of death upon them, and ordered them to be executed at the expiration of three hours.

PLACE DE LA REVOLUTION.

Evening of the 5th inst.

At five o'clock the condemned persons were conveyed in three carts from the Conciergerie to the Place de la Revolution.

In the first cart were, Danton, Chabot, Lacroix, Fabre d'Eglantine, and Heralut de Sechelles. In the second, Philippeaux, Delaunay d'Angers, Bazire, and Camille Desmoulin. In the third Westermann and the rest.

They all behaved with intrepidity, except Lacroix. Danton in particular, who was executed last, shewed the utmost contempt of death.

LINE S

Written on the proposed benefit of Mrs. WHITLOCK, in the MOURNING BRIDE, June 12th, 1794.

FROM Albion's Isle when genius take its flight,
Its ever sure on these blest coasts to light,
Whether by party or by fancy driven,
Here sure it finds an ever fostering Heaven
Here first it breathes invigorating air
And learns to do whatever man should dare,
Here among Freemen lifts its manly voice
Fearless of ill where all the world rejoice
Here PRIESTLEY finds the rest he fought in vain,
And WHITLOCK meets applauding crowds again!

In these blest shades no lords or despots sway
But sons of Freedom their own laws obey,
Distrust of course is to the land unknown
And guardian science marks it for her own;
No sorrows here obtrude upon the eye,
But such as fancy may perchance supply;
Woes such as these that penetrate the heart
When WHITLOCK strikes it in fond Zara's part!

Oh long be acting such as hers allow'd,
Its full effect upon th' admiring crowd,
To wealth and peace and plenty let it join,
What e'er can soften, meliorate, refine.
Mean while for her still may it smooth the way,
That yet remains of variegated day.
Till filters form'd such diff'rent worlds to please,
Alike shall charm on either side the seas;
Of jarring nations, form the mutual care,
And WHITLOCK here succeed as SIDDON'S there!

The American Daily Advertiser of this morning says, "We hear from respectable authority, that Col. Simcoe has returned to Niagara."—It is reported that Gov. Simcoe has published a declaration to the Indians, informing them that there is peace between Great Britain and the United States; and advises them to pursue a pacific line of conduct—Time will ascertain the truth of these reports.

From a Boston paper.

We hear that the celebrated GENET, and the present French Minister are now on the most friendly terms.
