Grant's Commentaries.

General Grant's report is about to become as famous as "Caesar's Commentaries." It is infinitely more important, for in the recent civil war in America Greek met Greek, and Grant encountered a more formidable foe than Caesar.

General Grant neither writes nor thinks like an ordinary soldier—he is a philosopher, an historian, a profound statesman, and he sinks self in his narrative, but never fails to praise others with a palpable consciousness which speaks the utmost sincerity, in perfect keeping with personal admiration and friendship.

The war had endured three years when he was called to the command of the army. The call made him the saviour of his country. Unobtrusive and humble-minded, though full of profound thoughts, his merits discovered themselves when the opportunity presented itself. He was the man for the time and the place, and he was the only fully qualified one.

Lincoln's selection, for where McClellan proved an abortion, Grant alone properly satisfied judgment.

Sheridan, the Murat of the Federal army, cleared the Shenandoah Valley of the enemy, joined the main army when his services were required, and won the last great battle of a hundred days. Grant takes pride in praising him, and on Sherman he pours the tribute of his unbounded admiration; but as we have recently published Grant's opinion of the two great soldiers, it is not necessary to introduce them here.

General Grant's report will forever occupy the attention of soldiers, statesmen, and nations.

The "Independence Belge" Suppressed.

The Government has just taken a measure which shows its liberality towards the press. It has absolutely prohibited the entry into France of the "Independence Belge." No cause is assigned for this extraordinary freak.

It is perhaps natural that the official world should look with a wary eye upon the "Independence Belge," for the Government think that, deprived of the "Independence," the Parisians will take to reading the "Constitutionnel," the "Pays," or the "Patrie."

The Trouble with the Students—The Mexican Question.

The "Mouvement" of this morning publishes the decision of the Superior Council of Public Instruction in the case of the seven students, with a long preamble setting forth the reasons. The decision of the Council of the Academy is confirmed, but the term of exclusion from the Paris Academy has been reduced to two years.

La France of this year asserts that the French Ambassador in Washington has not sent the First Secretary of Legation to France to ask for fresh instructions with regard to Mexico.

An Outbreak Imminent—Extraordinary Precautionary Measures.

Two regiments have been suddenly sent off to Ireland, one from Manchester, the other from Chester. The Manchester regiment, 1300 strong, was aroused at 3 o'clock in the morning, and by 8 o'clock they were en route for Liverpool.

Our information is that the Chester regiment was ordered with equal haste to Dublin, via Holyhead. Movements such as these will create a deal of uneasiness, and they must indicate either a serious danger or remarkable credulity on the part of the authorities.

As may be anticipated, this extraordinary and sudden despatch of troops has created no little excitement in Lancashire, and combined with recent military and naval movements in Ireland, it leads to the belief that the authorities have good grounds, if not for alarm, at least for extraordinary precautions.

PRECAUTIONS ON THE COAST OF IRELAND.

From the Dublin Post, December 29. The warship on board the Royal George at 10 o'clock yesterday was a semblance of its former self, as none were permitted on board but the wives or sisters of the sailors and marines, and not even these persons, if they had failed to make application for entrance the days previously.

Officers and men were confined to the ship; none were permitted on shore, not even to their place in a bundle of official documents, all figures and arguments; but when the story of the campaign of 1864 was looked into, matter was found in it calculated to interest the world at present, and for all future time.

General Grant neither writes nor thinks like an ordinary soldier—he is a philosopher, an historian, a profound statesman, and he sinks self in his narrative, but never fails to praise others with a palpable consciousness which speaks the utmost sincerity, in perfect keeping with personal admiration and friendship.
