

Evening Telegraph

PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON (SUNDAYS EXCEPTED) AT THE EVENING TELEGRAPH BUILDING, No. 108 S. Third Street.

John Morrissey and His Boy. JOHN MORRISSEY, the celebrated gambler and prize-fighter, was elected to Congress from one of the overwhelmingly "Democratic" districts in New York city, at the late election.

John seemed to think that if he could once write "M. C." after his name, all the memory of the far bank and of the prize-fighter's ring would fade away from men's minds, and his "boy" would grow up in delightful unconsciousness of his father's true character.

Mr. Morrissey's solicitude that his reputation should appear fair in the eyes of his son is quite natural, but he has taken a queer method of showing it. The private lives of public men are ordinarily treated with great delicacy and reserve in this country; but when a man is simply notorious for some of the worst vices that corrupt the community, it is expecting too much that the public should cast the mantle of forgetfulness over his past career.

Our Means of Information. OUR readers have doubtless noticed that there has been trouble in the wigwam of the Associated Press. Mr. D. H. Craig, for many years manager of the old Associated Press has discontinued his connection with that organization, and, aided by other agents throughout the country, has set up a new Associated Press. We are glad that such has been attempted. The aim of the New York Associated Press was to make the newspapers of America subordinate to the press of New York city, and everything was sacrificed to the metropolis. But the other papers not situated in the Empire City grew disgusted, and Mr. Craig states that he also became dissatisfied; and the result is a rivalry between the two. Competition always produces good effects, and we therefore expect to see a marked improvement. In order to give our readers the benefit of all channels of information, we have made arrangements by which we shall for the present receive the news from both organizations. Reform is much needed, and we hope that the hour for it has at length arrived.

THE SPIRIT OF THE SOUTH.—Elsewhere in our paper will be found a card from J. P. Hambleton, of Georgia, in which he announces himself as a candidate for the Congress of the United States. His tone but typifies the general feeling of the reconstructed South. No regret, no pledge—simply resumption of power in the Government they sought to destroy. This man Hambleton was the one who published the names of Philadelphia and New York merchants as a "black list" during the Rebellion, in order that all their Southern property might be confiscated. While such traitors flaunt their treason in the South, all claims for aid or recognition by the North will fall on ears deaf to all arguments or entreaties.

CHEAP CABS.—The New Yorkers are agitating for a cheap cab system, and have already organized a chartered company to carry it out. The rates authorized by the charter are twenty-five cents a passenger for any distance less than three miles, and twenty-five cents for each additional mile; also the same rates for trunks not exceeding two hundred pounds in weight. A similar system has long been in vogue in London.

Another Radical Member of Congress from Missouri. LATER returns from Missouri show the reelection of Colonel R. T. Van Horn, Republican, from the Sixth Congressional District, instead of Birch, Democrat, as at first reported. The Sixth has hitherto been one of the strongest pro-slavery districts in the State, including the counties of Jackson, Clay, Lafayette, and others which constituted the old border ruffian stronghold in the early days of the Kansas warfare, and which were the headquarters of Rebel guerillas during the war. Van Horn was elected in 1864 through the division of his opponents, the Democrats running two candidates in opposition to him. This fall he beats the combined forces of the Democracy handsomely. His district has received very heavy accessions of Northern emigrants during the last two years.

Anderson is the only Congressman the radicals lose in Missouri, and his loss is balanced by the gain of Pyle over Hogan, in the First District.

GOVERNOR BROWNLOW'S MESSAGE.—The annual message of Governor Brownlow, of Tennessee, will be found in our paper to-day. He takes ground distinctly and strongly in favor of extending the elective franchise to the colored citizens of Tennessee, quoting from the declarations of President Johnson in favor of such a policy. He says that the colored people have shown a greater aptitude for learning and intelligence than was expected, and by their good conduct and steadfast loyalty have won upon the respect of the white race.

For MEXICO, Lieutenant-General Sherman and Hon. L. D. Campbell, our new Minister to Mexico, left New York on Saturday for that country. The forthcoming message of President Johnson, it is said, will take strong ground on the Mexican question.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS SQUABBLE. A fierce quarrel is now going on between the deposed Superintendent of the Associated Press, J. D. Craig, and the New York general management of that organization. The Association charges mismanagement and inefficiency upon Craig, and the latter alleges that the association has "outraged his usefulness," and he announces that he has organized an opposition association which will furnish news as promptly and as satisfactorily as the present one. It is certain that the newspapers of the country have had reason for complaint. The wretched handling, or worse, regard to the news, is a familiar grievance.

The Associated Press agents had got so disgraced, in fact, that the papers outside of New York, and pretty much given up the idea of getting any news on the same day of its occurrence. For some time, on Tuesday last ten out of the twenty papers appearing in New York city that afternoon papers of that city gave returns of what Congressmen were elected, with a tally of the vote in each district. Yet the Associated Press failed to send a line even to indicate that an election was going on there.

Yesterday not a word was vouchsafed by the Associated Press agent in Baltimore as to the proceedings in the case of the imprisoned Joe Comstock, a matter of great interest to the general management of the Philadelphia office has been a subject of complaint amongst newspaper men for a long time. Yet Mr. Craig, or whoever is responsible, seems to have made no effort to remedy the evil.

PHILADELPHIA. November 12, 1866. The country press, which is now paying at the rate of $75,000 per annum to the New York office, has had no voice whatever in its management, and any complaints or remonstrances has been answered by an insult that cut off the reporter altogether from the journal complaining. We are glad, therefore, to see a wholesome competition threatened by this movement. A great deal of that both organizations may be kept up, as the news of the country and the reading public can hardly fail to benefit thereby.—Washington Star.

Circulars of the Associated Press. OFFICE OF THE NEW YORK ASSOCIATED PRESS, New York, November 10, 1866.—To the Newspaper Press of the United States: We have the honor to inform you that the change of the New York office will prove beneficial to the entire press. We have no interest not in harmony with the press outside of New York, our only desire being a union of newspaper interests, which should be identical all over the country. We can secure the entire press of the country that the quality of the Association news shall be improved, and the expense kept within proper limits. And let the press be unit in this business, and all will be well.

NEW YORK, November 10.—To all Agents and Correspondents of the New York Associated Press:—Notify all editors that the Western Union Telegraph Company repudiate all statements, by whomsoever made, that said Company has agreed or propose to co-operate with any person or organization in hostility to, or in competition with, the New York Associated Press, or to permit its employees so to do.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. This remedy has long been cherished by the community for its remarkable efficacy in relieving, healing, and curing the most obstinate, painful, and long-standing cases of Cough, Cold, Hoarseness, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma, Inflammation of the Lungs, and all the various affections of the Throat and Lungs, and general debility, so much so that our family physician, and many others, have been induced to purchase one bottle of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, which benefited him so much that he obtained another bottle, which in a short time restored him to his usual state of health. I think I can safely recommend this remedy to others in like condition, for it is, I think, all it purports to be—THE GREAT LUNG REMEDY FOR THE TIMES.

THE REV. GEORGE STORRS OF BROOKLYN, N. Y., says in the Public Liberator: "I have read your issue of the 10th inst. with interest, and I am glad to find that you have given a full and fair account of the proceedings of the Associated Press. We cannot but be gratified to find that you have done so, and in justice to Dr. Anderson, being satisfied that there is no other remedy to be had, and that the only one is the medicine which the Editor of the Liberator has recommended." "I have no objection to your using my name in connection with the above statement, gentlemen, as I am a voluntary offering to you in favor of your Balm, and in your opinion."
