MEETING OF THE CONTROLLERS.—The Board of School Control met yesterday at Select Council chamber. The regular meeting place of the Board is incumbered with text-books and school supplies. Mr. President Shippen was in the chair.

Communications from different sections were received. From the First Section, relating that the school buildings there existing are not in accordance with the published plans, and are unsafe.

A motion was made to refer this to the Committee on Property, to whom a similar statement was referred last month. An amendment was made to receive the resolution, and lift from the sectional authorities all further responsibility in the matter.

Mr. Shippen said he spoke by personal knowledge, when he said that the new houses were not according to the contractor's agreements, the ceilings, mortar, and floors were imperfect. Their safety, he thought, was secured by recent alterations; but he thought the Controllers should hold all contractors strictly to their written contracts. All variations must be at once corrected.

Mr. Haines stated that the Committee on Property had attended to the communication previously referred to them. They had compelled alterations to the buildings, which rendered them perfectly safe.

Mr. Shippen replied that the plastering had not been replaced. The plastering is falling from the walls. He was glad to know that the Committee on Property were doing all they could to ascertain personally the erection of the buildings.

The amendment was withdrawn. The communication went to the Committee on Property.

Other communications came in as follows:— From the Second Section, requesting that the new school-house at Sixth and Carpenter streets be called the "Washington."

From the Twelfth Section, requesting that the new school-house at Dilwyn and Callowhill streets be called the "Sander School," and that on Market street the "Leont School."

From the Thirteenth Section, protesting against the act pending before the Legislature conferring the power to appoint Controllers upon the Courts, and requesting the city representatives to vote against the passage of the act.

From the School of Design, requesting the Board to appoint a committee to visit that school, and consider the expediency of introducing practical drawing into the public schools.

A communication from a committee of principals of grammar schools called attention to the fact that there are less than half as many girls as boys educated in the High School, and requesting an extension of High School privileges to girls.

Mr. Freeborn moved that the subject be referred to the Committee on Girls' High School, with instructions to report a resolution of request to Councils for the purchase of a lot for the erection of a new school-house.

Mr. Stanton moved that it shall be the duty of the Committee on Reports to collect from the different States and cities, from year to year, annual reports of schools, and such other books or pamphlets as may be had by way of exchange, and have the same bound in volumes, and preserved for the use of the Board. The Committee also to procure a copy of all text-books now or hereafter in use. Agreed to.

Mr. Freeborn, Chairman of Boys' High School, requested of Councils $400 for repairs to that institution. He said that this was agreed upon in committee, but accidentally omitted in the bill. Agreed to.

The Committee on Accounts reported bills amounting to $211,016.31. Laid over.

The Committee on Property reported a resolution directing the Sectional Boards to name the school-houses now erecting, or to be erected, in their respective sections, and at once report the same to this Board.

The Committee on Property, through its chairman, Mr. Haines, submitted the following directions to architects:—

Whereas, The commissions paid to architects are considered their active and intelligent care and supervision of new school-houses, as well as for their plans, and it is of right expected of them that they shall give to the interested city the same attention that they would give to their own affairs, without which the commissions are not fairly earned and should not be paid; and whereas, the duties are prescribed for each architect, and a failure to perform them will be regarded as a breach of duty on their part.

First. Each architect is required to visit every school-house under his charge once a week until the walls are up to the square, and afterwards twice a week, until the same is finished according to contract.

Second. He shall inspect carefully all the material and workmanship, and shall report to this committee every deviation from the contract.

Third. He shall not permit or sanction any deviation from the contract, and whenever a contractor shall perform his work in an unworkmanlike manner, furnish unsuitable materials of any kind, or shall in other respects violate his contract, the following duties are early report the same in his next report, and give notice to the contractor that he will not approve of the work or materials, or other violation of his contract.

Fourth. Each architect shall report the date of every visit, and when an architect shall have the supervision of more than one building, he shall make separate reports concerning each.

MEMOIRS OF THE FREEDMEN'S AID SOCIETY.—An interesting meeting of the Freedmen's Aid Society, women's branch, was held yesterday at No. 711 Sansom street, Mrs. Audrey H. Smith in the chair. Mrs. Smith made a statement giving the particulars of a recent visit to the Freedmen's schools in Washington, D. C., which she found in a very gratifying condition.

One of the schools, at the lady's suggestion, was adopted by the Society, and the salary of the teachers will in future be paid by it. Letters were read which had been received from school teachers in the South, giving an account of the progress the scholars were making, and of the need of continued aid from societies North.

BREECH-LOADING SMALL ARMS.

The fruitful inventions in the implements of warfare which characterized the recent war on our own soil, and the decisive results which always followed favorably of the more efficient arm, have had the effect of lending a new impetus to American mechanical genius in this direction. The terrifying effect of the Prussian needle-gun on the Austrian ranks in the late European conflict also demonstrated the value of an advanced idea, embodied in proper mechanism, and pointing the purpose of bold and resolute hearts. Yet the needle-gun is a cumbersome and innocent weapon compared with the recent breech-loading arms which American inventors have lately produced. In view of the advisability of securing a perfect arm for the State service, a Board of Examination was some time ago appointed by Adjutant-General S. E. Marvin, of the State of New York, whose purpose was to eliminate, from a wide and diverse range of mechanism, the simplest and most efficient, with a view to the conversion of the ordinary Springfield musket into the best breech-loading arm.

The Board was admirably selected, and is composed of Brigadier-General G. W. Palmer, General W. G. Ward, Colonel G. W. Baker, and Colonel Silas W. Burt, all gentlemen possessing a thorough knowledge of the subject, and zealous in their efforts to secure for the State a superior arm for its service. As a result of the assembling of this Board, nearly two hundred alterations of the breech-piece were entered for examination. Some dozen tests were applied to each gun, under the requirements, as defined by General W. G. Ward. These consisted mainly of the proof-charge, which is a grain of electric powder, and is equal to 240 grains of the ordinary Government cartridge powder; the filled cartridge, which severely tests the strength of the breech-piece, the effect of moisture, sand, etc. on the action of the mechanism of the breech, accuracy of fire, rapidity of fire, penetration, simplicity of movement and construction, and several other tests. Among the more prominent inventions were those of Berdan, Empire, Montstrom, Lamson, Roberts, Pontledge, Joslyn, Thundersholt, Meigs, Remington, and the altered Needle-gun. The latter, in its improved condition, could not develop a rapidity of fire beyond seven or eight rounds per minute in the hands of experts, while the Empire gun expelled 100 balls in 4-20—the fastest time on record—being an average of over 23 in one minute. This gun, however, is easily disabled. The Berdan gun has fired 18 shots in one minute, and is the simplest and most efficient in construction. The Roberts gun is a range of one hundred feet, and the Berdan through fourteen. The others mentioned were almost as remarkable for power and rapidity of action. The Ball, Sharp, and Spencer magazine guns were proved to be failures, when compared with one of those single-breech loaders, although 9 balls were expelled from the Ball magazine in 25 seconds, but usually occupied as many seconds in the re-loading of the magazine. The labors of the Board will be concluded in a few days, when it will be known which is the best and most reliable breech-loading small arm that American inventive genius has yet produced, as the Board has labored with diligence since early in December last, and are fully competent for the decision.

There was one striking difference between the dresses of most of the other known nations of the ancient world and those of the Greeks and Romans. Trousers, or pantaloons, were worn by the Orientals—Medes, Persians, Assyrians, Furihians—and by the principal Western nations of Europe known to the ancients, especially the Gauls and the Gauls. The first women who are known to have assumed this dress were the Amazons; but even these ladies, unlike their successors, the bloomers, modestly limited the time of imprisonment in such masculine habiliments to the period of warlike expeditions, after which they resumed the customary and graceful attire of their sex, laying aside the carb of manhood with the helmet, shield, and spear. These garments were made of skins or richly wrought cloth, sometimes fitting tightly to the limbs, like those in use here, and sometimes loose and hanging in folds over the knees, like the Turkish trousers. The Greeks never wore them at all; nor did the Romans until the time of the Emperors, who attempted to introduce breeches among their subjects, as a means of making them forget their ancient liberties.

A Chicago correspondent estimates the circulation of the Tribune at 18,500, the Times at 15,000, and the Journal at 7000. Of the Tribune issue 9000 are taken by a single news firm. The circulation of the Tribune is, no doubt, greatly underestimated.
