

NATURALIZATION

Another Instalment of Newly-Constituted Citizens.

Twelve Professionals Vouch for One-fourth of the Whole Number.

On Saturday afternoon, when the attention of Judge Sharswood was called to the manner in which the Crier of the Supreme Court had obstructed the labors of our reporters, and to the fact that he claimed to act under the special and specific instructions of the Judge, the latter stated that his instructions had been misanderstood.

In the presence of Colonel Snowden, the Prothonotary, Judge Sharswood then gave certain instructions as to the manner in which the labor of examining the petitions for naturalization was to be conducted, with which we expressed our entire satisfaction, since they would enable us to publish from nine hundred to one thousand names per day, quite as many as we can crowd into our columns. At this rate, unless the business has been conducted in a brisker manner than we have had reason to suppose, we could complete the list by the close of the present week.

But when our reporters had been at work for about an hour and a half on Saturday afternoon, the clerk who was in charge of the papers declared that he had a positive engagement, and could remain no longer. For this reason the work was brought to a close, with only 432 additional names on our list. When the task of examining the names thus obtained, for the purpose of ferreting out the "professional" vouchers, was commenced, it was discovered that 331 of the 432 had already been given to the public in the columns of THE EVENING TELEGRAPH, leaving but 101 names which were new. In this way was disclosed the fact that some person, either through carelessness or an intention to delay our progress, had thrown the papers already examined by our reporters upon the original pile, causing the labors of almost an entire day to go for naught.

The work of the Professional Vouchers, not yet complete, is steadily increasing, as will be seen by the following summary, which includes the list published to-day, a total of 1474:

THE CASE OF GENERAL COLLIS.

Mr. Dunkle, one of the editors of the Sunday Republic, is the author of the defense of General Collis H. Collins which we give below. He served with great credit and courage in the late war, and speaks as an eye-witness, fully informed of the truth of what he says:

The best evidence of the overwhelming success of the demonstration of the Boys in Blue is that the Democratic papers, through their advertising columns, have resorted to the mean expedient of slandering the gentleman who was the prime mover in the affair. We in the proprietor of this journal had the proud satisfaction of serving under the immediate command of General Charles H. T. Collins from April, 1861, until the time which we spent in Libby Prison, and in hospitals from wounds received in battle, and we do not hesitate to say that the reputation he (General Collins) bears among his command and his commanders for gallantry and ability was second to no man of his years in the army. For his gallantry on the banks of the Rappahannock, he was made a colonel. For his gallantry at Fredericksburg, where he himself bore the colors of his regiment, he was recommended for promotion. For his distinguished services at Chancellorsville, the commanding officers of the six Pennsylvania regiments in the army, and the enlisted men of his regiment who are the very first to discover the value of an intrepid commander, presented him with a sword inscribed "for his distinguished gallantry in the battle of Chancellorsville." For his gallantry at Auburn, where he was mortally wounded, he was made a general. General Birney gave him a general order of thanks, of which the following is a copy:

Headquarters Birney's Division, 31 Corps, Major-General Orders No. 33.—The Major-General commanding the division thanks the officers and men for their gallant and heroic conduct in the movements. Special credit is due the brave and gallant General Collins for his gallant and heroic conduct in the attack on the head of the column at Auburn, and to Colonel Collins for his skill and promptitude in making the charges of the day.

For his gallantry at Peterburg, where he headed a storming column which recaptured the line of works lost by a portion of another corps, he was made a general. OUR RELATIONS WITH SPAIN—NEW EFFORTS TO PURCHASE CUBA—AFFAIRS IN THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

It will be remembered, perhaps, by some of our readers, that false brands were also found in their factory in Cincinnati a few days since. Large quantities of tobacco, which, it is charged, have never paid any Government tax, have been shipped from their place, the brand of the Government Inspector being counterfeited to make it appear that the packages have passed under his eye. In this honorable business it is charged that Henry Barlow & Co. have been engaged. A man who should put the Government stamp on a piece of paper would be called a counterfeiter and punished by a cell in the penitentiary.

The same officer under whose direction this seizure has been made has also seized the factory of James A. May, of Indianapolis, for the same crime. It is charged that goods have been committed by this establishment to the amount of $50,000 for twelve months.
