Horatio Seymour Now and Then.

HORATIO SEYMOUR addressed the Democratic masses of this city last evening. He is an orator of no mean ability, and his speech was as calm and fair an apology for his principles as could well be presented. In truth, it was characterized by a degree of calmness for which we were totally unprepared.

Very mild words are these from the lips of Horatio Seymour, and spoken with a deep design, aside from the fear and trembling which possess the one who gives them utterance. But they come too late to avail him in this hour of his extremity.

He is crowned with the reward of commendation from every quarter where commendation can be considered as a tribute to merit. He is, after leaving office and power, still viewed as a man of the greatest ability.

On one point, more especially, does Mr. Seymour cry out in his extremity for forbearance. He holds up the past, and points with pride to his record during the war in this fashion:—

bore the brunt of the battle, of every halting hero who walks our streets, of every widowed woman who still laments the sacrifice of her life-companion, of every orphaned child who still cherishes the memory of his father's death in behalf of his native or adopted land.

So much for Horatio Seymour, now and then. His change of front, his fear and trembling, his show of fair play and calm dispassion, his bold attempt to falsify the truth which history has made its own, will not avail him.

The Man Whom Philadelphia Delights to Honor.

TO-NIGHT Philadelphia receives one of Pennsylvania's greatest sons. The Hon. Edwin M. Stanton arrived in this city this morning, and will receive such a demonstration to-night as only loyal Philadelphia can give.

His work was a master stroke, or rather a constant series of master strokes, for five long years. He had a supervision which was enough to break down the highest intellect. His mind was kept in a constant and never-ceasing strain.

Possessed of an easy fortune upon taking office, we hear not a word as to its increase now that he has left office. Such a tribute, in the silence of calumny, is one rarely paid to any official; and in consideration of the stirring times, though what we have passed, no slander is the highest compliment that any man could receive.

"What's in a name?" may do very well for a general reflection, but circumstances do alter cases, and sometimes the way of saying things can make a "deal of differ." Mr. Seymour bewailed last night that the country could be in such a condition that it was considered a crime for a man living within sight of the tomb of Washington to vote for that Constitution which Washington had labored to establish. As a very pretty euphuism the sentence deserves applause, but its general beauty was much improved by omitting that very ugly supplementary phrase which would have rounded it into perfect truthfulness, viz., that the aforesaid injured man had been a traitor in arms against his country and all her best interests.

New York City.—The registration of voter in New York city, which is to be completed to-day, gives a clue to the enormity of the frauds which the Democratic party are about perpetrating there. Already 150,461 voters have been registered, to 106,297 during the corresponding days of last year—an increase of 44,164.

So the country districts of New York must give a majority of full 70,000 to overcome this enormous fraud. If they do as well as they have done in the past it may be done.

TEXAS.

Another View of Reconstruction in the Southwest. From the Houston Times, Oct. 18.

Texas is slowly but surely rising into prosperity. Money is being brought into the State in many ways not thought of before the war. Cotton is again becoming a profitable crop, and it will be very profitable. The hide trade is now beginning to rival the cotton crop, and we believe that from this time forth it will be worth as much as the cotton trade.

THE ILLITERATE OLD LADY.

There was an old lady Who knew of four seasons, 'Spring and Summer, and Autumn and Fall,' Now it's Autumn and Fall, And that's one of the reasons Why we need clothes from the GREAT BROWN BALLY!

The above is a short poem, but the old lady was short of information on the subject, and it would do to spin too long yarn about it. The old lady's information, by the way, was tolerably good as far as it went, but there wasn't quite enough of it, which her mind seems to say that if we were to tell all we know about the immense stock of REASONABLE CLOTHES at Nos. 603 and 605 CHESTNUT STREET, for the present AUTUMN AND FALL, there would be no room in this paper for anything else. So we briefly sing:

Clothes for Autumn! See! We've bought 'em. ROCK HILL & WILSON provide for the Fall! Altogether. This is the weather When we need Clothes from the GREAT BROWN BALLY!

Rock Hill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

What is Dyspepsia?

1. A Constant Pain or Uneasiness in the Pit of the Stomach.—Which is caused by a permanent contraction of the stomach upon undigested food. It generally begins immediately, or a short time after eating; is often very severe and obstinate.

2. Flatulence and Acidity.—These symptoms arise from the indigestion of food, which ferments instead of digesting.

3. Costiveness and Loss of Appetite.—These symptoms are the effects of the unnatural condition of food in the stomach, and the want of pure bile and gastric juice. The stomach is often painfully distended by wind; the appetite is sometimes voracious.

4. Gloom and Depression of Spirits.—This state unfits many for the enjoyment of Life, and is caused by the impure blood furnished by imperfect digestion. In this stage of the disease, many persons commit suicide. There is a constant foreboding of evil, and an indifference and positive inability to perform the offices of life.

5. Diarrhoea.—After being at first constive, the sufferer is afflicted with diarrhoea, which is owing to a diseased condition of the bowels, produced by the undigested food, which is evacuated in the same condition as when eaten, and, of course, gives no strength to the system.

6. Pains in All Parts of the System arise from the action of impure blood upon the nerves. They are felt chiefly in the head, sides, and breast, and in the extremities. In many cases there is an uneasiness in the throat, with a sense of choking or suffocation; the mouth is often clammy, with a bad taste and furred tongue.

7. Consumptive Symptoms and Palpitation of the Heart.—Many persons pronounced as having these diseases have, in fact, nothing but dyspepsia, the lung and heart disease being only symptoms.

8. Cough.—This is a very frequent symptom of Dyspepsia, and leads very often into confirmed consumption.

9. Want of Sleep.—A very distressing symptom, resulting often in mental derangement.

10. Symptoms of External Relation.—The patient is affected painfully by cold and heat, which is owing to unnatural dryness of skin, and the skin is often affected by eruptions and tetter. The gloomy dyspeptic avoids society as much as possible.

11. Vomiting.—A frequent and distressing symptom. It relieves the pain, but emaciates and wears out the patient.

12. Dizziness, Dimness of Vision, Headache, and Staggering in Walking.—These are very alarming symptoms, which are speedily removed by our medicine; but if neglected, are quickly followed by numbness and sudden death.

13. It is impossible for us to give all the symptoms of Dyspepsia in so small a space, but the above are considered sufficient—if we add that the patient loses his memory and regard to surrounding objects, and frequently becomes morose and sour in disposition. We should say, however, that pains in the joints and stiffness of the limbs, which go by the name of rheumatism and neuralgia, are produced by Dyspepsia. Also, a hardness of the muscles of the abdomen, which become contracted and hard; and in some cases the belly sinks, instead of being gently prominent.

N. B.—Perhaps we have not said enough of that strongest symptom of Dyspepsia, melancholy. We have examined hundreds of cases of Dyspeptics who were so much affected in their minds that they constantly forebode loss of their reason, which unfitted them for business of any kind, and many of them have been patients of the Insane Asylum, who are now permanently cured by our medicines.

We take pleasure in informing the public that we have at great expense secured the professional services of Dr. William F. Magee who was intimately acquainted with the private practice of the late Dr. Wishart, as well as thoroughly conversant with his mode of ascertaining the cause and effect of various diseases. He enjoyed the fullest confidence of the late Dr. Wishart, and was in consultation with him almost constantly for many years. In view of these facts, we most cordially recommend him to the former patrons and friends of the late Dr. Wishart, and to the afflicted, with the full assurance that those who need professional counsel or aid will find in the said Dr. Magee a physician of more than ordinary abilities. He can minutely describe your disease, explain the cause and effect of same, as well as administer remedies known only to himself and the late Dr. Wishart, that will perform cures when other physicians and all remedies fail.

Come ye who are afflicted with Consumption, Cough, Colds, Bronchial Affections, or Pain in the Breast. He will, by the help of an all-wise and beneficent Providence, restore you to health without Croton Oil, Fies or Mustard.

Come, ye who are afflicted with Dyspepsia, that fell destroyer that detrones the reason and poisons the whole human system, and we will insure your cure.

Come, mothers and fathers, with your children, and he will, by the aid of a kind Providence, save them from an early grave, and charge you nothing for professional advice.

Come, ye who are afflicted with Chills and Fevers, he will cure you, or charge you nothing. Call at
