DR. RUSH'S REQUEST.

The Meeting of the Philadelphia Library Company. Action Upon Dr. Rush's Request—The Question of Acceptance Postponed.

A large meeting of the stockholders of the Philadelphia Library Company was held this morning, at 12 o'clock, at the Library building, Fifth and Library streets.

The meeting was called for the purpose of taking action in relation to the endorsement of $100,000 by Dr. James Rush, in favor of the Philadelphia Library Company. The immediate business before the meeting was by a vote of the stockholders to either accept or reject the will, locating the branch of the Philadelphia Library Company on a lot on South Broad street, bounded on the south by Carpenter street, north by Christian street, and on the west by Third street.

The meeting was a very large one, and the proceedings were listened to with the deepest attention. Dr. James Rush was selected as the speaker, and Mr. William E. Whitman was appointed Secretary.

Mr. Whitman read the call of the meeting, after which Dr. Rush, in a few words, stated the nature of the business. He stated that, under the law, one quarter of the stockholders constituted a quorum, and as they the stockholders numbered 80 members, 20 would be necessary for the transaction of business.

It was agreed to, and Messrs. William Neal and James Hiddle were selected. The tellers reported a quorum present, and the Dr. Rush reported that he was ready to entertain any motion.

Peter McCall then said he desired to say a few words in behalf of the Board of Directors of the Philadelphia Library Company. The board have not been able to come to any conclusion as to what advice to give the stockholders in the premises; whether it would be advisable to accept or reject the provisions of the will.

Mr. McCall then read the provisions of the will, and the part of it which pertains to the gift of the land, and the result of the action of the stockholders on that point. He stated that the board were authorized to select a piece of ground between Fourth and Fifth streets, and Spruce and Race, and erect a fire-proof building, and as soon as said building is completed, to locate the branch of the Philadelphia Library Company there.

Mr. McCall stated that he understood that Mr. Rush, under the will, would erect a building on Broad street, between Carpenter and Christian streets, and the stockholders must either consent to accept of the building, or reject it. He stated that he thought it would be no legal objection to the building, and that he thought it would be no objection to the building, and that he thought it would be no objection to the building.

General Stokes then made some remarks. He stated that Dr. Rush would erect a building on Broad street, between Carpenter and Christian streets, and the stockholders must either consent to accept of the building, or reject it. He stated that he thought it would be no legal objection to the building, and that he thought it would be no objection to the building, and that he thought it would be no objection to the building.

Mr. Williams stated that Dr. Rush gave him option regarding the character of stone to be used, and he desired to confer with the Board of Directors in regard to its selection. He hoped the Board of Directors would accept, and give him aid, and if they did not, he would accept of the lot, and on reporting to Dr. Rush a number of locations, he fixed upon the one at Broad and Christian streets.

Remarks were then made by Frederick Fraley, Mr. Tighman, Mr. Clay, Judge Caldwell, and others, and Judge Hare read the following opinion: "We are of opinion that the time for the Library Company has not arrived, until the executor shall have completed a building and located a conveyance of the same to the Library Company."

On motion of a delegate, the convention adjourned until 8 o'clock. The convention for nominating candidates for the House of Representatives met at ten o'clock at the following places: 1. Farley's, Eleventh and Federal streets. 2. King's, in the rear of the lot.
