THE INCOME TAX OUTRAGE.

The opponents of the income tax came to grief again yesterday in the Senate, and the matter may be considered as definitely settled for the present session at least, unless something unforeseen should occur to inspire our national legislators with an adequate idea of the impolicy of their conduct.

Official statements of the financial condition of the Government are placed before the country every few weeks, and for a man like Senator Sherman to get up in the Senate and say as he did on Friday last, that it was necessary to retain either the tax upon gross receipts or the income tax in order to keep the Government machine running, proves either that he considers the people of the country to be fools, or else that he is totally unfit to have anything to do with the management of the finances of a great nation like this.

A tax like that upon incomes, with all its attendant annoyances, ought never to be imposed upon any people, except in a case of urgent necessity. Such a necessity did exist when the Government was engaged in suppressing the Rebellion, and the loyal people of the United States cheerfully submitted to all the personal inconveniences, especially as there was a clear and definite understanding that the tax should expire by limitation at a certain date.

Yesterday Senator Conkling, who has steadily opposed the continuance of the income tax, endeavored to have the vote of Friday last reconsidered, but was unable to do so under the rules, and he accordingly moved a new section forbidding the collection of the tax. It was decided to admit this amendment as a question of order by a vote of 27 to 21, and it could have been carried if the opponents of the tax had been as much in earnest as its advocates.

THE CHINESE AND THE NATURALIZATION LAWS.

The "coming man" from Asia is rapidly forcing his way into American politics. Since John Chinaman has extended the base of his operations from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast, and more especially since he has invaded the sacred soil of Massachusetts, he has become more than ever an object of interest to the aspirants for Congressional and Senatorial honors.

"Die Geissel," or The Scourge, is the title of a spicy little sheet in the German language, the publication of which has been commenced by Dr. Moritz von Managetta Leichenau. The object is to provide a small paper that can be read in five minutes, and that will present a lively and independent review of the current topics of the day.

stress more especially upon the contract-labor system under which they are imported. The General evidently wishes to gain the political support of the trades-unions of Massachusetts by seconding their demand for protection against cheap Chinese labor.

It is contrary to the traditional policy of this country to reject cheap skilled labor from any quarter, and the only objection made against the Chinese immigration which has the slightest real force is that based on the terms of their labor contracts.

THE SPANISH THRONE.

GENERAL PRIM has contrived to throw all Europe into another ferment, in his search for an occupant of the vacant throne of Spain. Every candidate hitherto proposed having failed to meet with sufficient favor among the people of Spain and the members of the Cortes, or having declined the bauble, Prim has turned his attention towards Prussia, and it is intimated in the cable telegrams that the suspicion of a collusion with Count von Bismarck is at the bottom of the new scheme.

This matter stands, in about as muddled and complicated a state as the Spanish throne question has stood for more than a year. In the meantime, it will not be uninteresting to inquire about the royal scion who is the cause of all this turmoil. A despatch from Madrid states that the Government has officially denied having made any but confidential overtures to the foreign prince in question, whose name "it is not yet proposed to divulge."

Prince Leopold was born on the 22d of September, 1835, and is therefore in the very prime of life. His grandmother, on the mother's side, was Stephanie, the Viscountess de Beaumont, a niece of the Empress Josephine, adopted daughter of the first Napoleon, and wife of the Grand Duke Charles of Baden.

His paternal grandmother having been the Princess Marie Antoinette Murat, a daughter of Napoleon's great cavalry leader, who married his youngest sister Caroline, and was made by him King of Naples. Prince Leopold is at present a colonel in the Prussian infantry, and is married to the Princess Antonia, a sister of the King of Portugal, by whom he has had three sons. Besides Prince Charles of Roumania, he has a brother, Frederick Eugene John by name, who, born June 25, 1848, is now in command of a squadron of lancers in Westphalia.

WISHART'S COLUMN A Change without Alteration. Most of the cities of our Union have pet names—titles of endearment which are almost as well known as their proper titles. Thus we have the Garden City, the Hub, the Crescent and the Twin. One among our largest capitals has a name which is merely a translation of its own into a more familiar and better understood language. We mean Philadelphia, the City of Brotherly Love. It is a city of which an American may well be proud, for here the Declaration of Independence was signed, and the heart of every patriot swells with a nobler emotion as he looks upon the walls which pealed forth with joy at a nation's deliverance.

The Philadelphia of the future, with its noble institutions which a magnificent charity has erected in that favored spot to relieve the distress of humanity. The friend of science rejoices to see the city of the great American printer and philosopher occupying its institutes for science and nurseries of art. Medical students resort to Philadelphia for their professional training. The young man intending to adopt the Bar as his occupation seeks her classic groves. The architect finds in her streets and squares, her solemn temples and gorgeous palaces, fit examples for his study and imitation. The merchant from other cities looks with wonder upon the commercial facilities and intelligence and the double port, her mineral treasures poured into her lap from the exhaustless resources of the Commonwealth, and the manufacturing energies which put the wheels of industry in motion and send the products of her artisans and the result of the energies of her capitalists to the farthest regions of the West and all points of the compass.
